

PEARLS BEAT FIRST M. E. IN FINAL CONTEST

Trinity Basket Ball Five Also Wins With But Four Players—Calvert Stars for Benson M. E.

By defeating the First M. E. basket ball five last night in the Young's Men's Christian association gymnasium, 23 to 12, the Pearl Memorials clinched the pennant in the Church league for the 1919-20 season.

At no time of the game were the leaders in danger. Playing with four men, the Trinity Baptists defeated the M. E. Wops by the score of 22 to 12, due to the remarkable shooting of Right-forward Maxwell, who made 16 of the 22 points.

Left-forward J. Calvert proved the hero for the Benson M. E. quintet when he scored 14 of the 22 points his team made. The final score was 22 to 11. Calvary Baptists were penalized seven fouls for being seven minutes late.

Council Bluffs Christians forfeited their game with the Hanscom Park Methodists and the latter quintet engaged in an exhibition contest with the Y. M. C. A. physical directors.

ED MACKALL San Antonio, March 12. ED MACKALL has been training ball throwers and flying armadillos for years.

He's been in both games thirty years and hasn't decided whether Armour armadillos are worse than ivory clad leaguers. He started with John Hopkins in 1890 and rubbed McGraw's Orioles with alcohol in the days when alcohol meant something.

We repeat, a man could name his poison and get a drink. Now he name his drinks and gets a poison. One drink and the trailing arbutus is clinging to your whiskers, and the family wejee board has one more yam to chirp with.

He returns the good old days of base ball, when a leaguer shaved himself on a broken bottle and talked in a gruff, base voice. Ed buzzed that ball players are getting like prima donnas. They're so fragile that they bust their jaws on charlotte ruses.

Now, if a thrower gets a sprained finger nail, he expects the sporting editor of Jim Jam Jems to write eight columns about it. Times have changed since grandpa was a flapper.

Meckell used to train fighters, too. They were tough birds in those days also, and knuckles were trumps. He says that a modern prize fight looks like a couple of guys demonstrating a davenport that is a beautiful sofa by day and a comfortable bed at night.

Some day Mackall hopes to quit the training game and grab off a soft job. He figures that something neat and pretty would be secretary of war during a Quaker administration. He helped the Giants win five pennants and one world's championship, and claims to be the father of chiropractics, now so popular where rheumatism is stylish and gout a necessity.

When he starts to rub a Charley horse out of the league the victim thinks that he has grabbed the brass ring in a cyclone. Ed can rub a sprained wrist right down into a hangnail. He can take the harness out of one arm and transfer it to the other wing. He can do anything except rub base ball into a left-hander's dome.

He agrees with Thomas Edison that ivory is a non-conductor. Mackall can massage a corker into a billing cue. He can fix a yam into shape for a ball game, but, like the yams who sell patent leather shoes, Ed gives no guarantee. He ain't responsible for 'em after they leave the shop.

Law of Averages Gives Cardinals the Pennant

But the Law of Averages Doesn't Count Much in Base Ball—Rickey Has Some Great Offensive Players, But He Needs Pitchers.

By JAMES CRUSINBERRY. Brownsville, Tex., March 18.—(Special).—If the law of averages worked in base ball, the St. Louis Cardinals would win the pennant this year and the next two, for they never have won one and they've been playing all these years. But Major Rickey, who runs things on the St. Louis outfit, isn't counting on the law of averages to do one thing for him. He's concerned only over his pitching staff.

If he can get any kind of pitching that would class as major league stuff he might create quite a stir in the coming fight. If he doesn't get any kind of pitching, he's likely to be a trailer once more.

Major Rickey has a strong hitting club. No one can doubt that when it contains such men as Roger Hornsby, Milton Stock, Jacques Fournier and Bert Shotton, besides a couple of live looking youngsters in Clifton Heathcote and Austin McHenry. He has a speedy club in base running.

Heathcote Fast on Paths. The major says Heathcote is the fastest man in base ball and is willing to wager a new hat he'll lead the league in stolen bases. Shotton, Fournier, Hornsby, Stock and the rest of them are fleet-footed, too. He has a team capable of doing great offensive playing, but the defensive power of the club is doubtful.

Unless a couple of youngsters come through as pitchers, the Cardinals are likely to trail along with the tail end clubs just as they did a year ago. They had the worst pitching staff of them all then. They were last in everything that it was possible for pitchers to be at the bottom.

The St. Louis staff allowed more hits than any other staff during the 1919 season. They allowed more runs per game than any other staff. They gave more bases on balls. They hit more batters. They made more wild pitches and they fanned fewer batsmen. Major Rickey has all the dope to prove it, and down in his borderland training camp he is working desperately to correct these faults.

Counting on Schupp. "I've got to improve my pitching staff or I can't see much hope for us this year," frankly admitted the St. Louis leader. "But at the same time I have a ball club that can do a lot of business if the staff is improved only slightly, and it looks as if one or two of my old pitchers will have better form and as if one or two young fellows are ready for the big show."

A lot depends upon Ferdie Schupp, and I really believe he's going to be in his old form. I can bank on Willie Doak's doing well. Marvin Goodwin should be able to handle his game.

Then there are Bill Sherdell, Jake May, and Elmer Jacobs, the older set, who know enough about pitching to go along in the big leagues, and I feel sure of a great deal of help from Jess Haines, who won twenty-five games and lost five for Kansas City last year, and Walter Schulz, a youngster whom I picked off the St. Louis semi-pros. He beat us last year in an exhibition game at Mount Vernon, and he can beat anybody with pitching such as he showed us that day.

Bone in the Outfield. "With all that I can't help but feel somewhat optimistic about my pitching staff. I have outfielders who make mistakes. They throw to the wrong bases and sometimes do a lot of other things that you wouldn't think possible by big leaguers, but there is hope that they'll still learn. You know if you just keep on telling a fellow the right thing when he's done it wrong 19 times, there's a possibility that he'll do it right the twentieth time."

Rickey would like to make a trade that would give him either a high class pitcher or a high class catcher—one who could help his present pitching staff—but it looks as if no such deal could be made. The Giants would like to have Milton Stock, and Rickey would give them Stock, but only for some stars. He said they could have him for Outfielder George Burns, Catcher Smith and some young infielder. That makes a deal practically impossible.

Backstop Loses Temper. At present Vernon Clemons is chief catcher for the Cardinals and his main fault is getting mad at the umpires. "Pickles" Dillhoefer, formerly of the Cubs, is second string man, and a youngster named Henry Roth, a soldier, is trying for a place. With Stock back in line, the Cardinals will have a set of infielders that has plenty of class. Jack Fournier has improved greatly in fielding since the days he was with the White Sox, and he sure can hit. Hornsby will play second and he's a whale of a man for the job. Johnny Lavan, formerly of the Browns, is the shortstop, and Stock will be on third.

As a substitute, Harold Janvin, who trailed with the Red Sox several seasons, is here and going in better style than ever. Jim McLoughlin and Ray Blades are two St. Louis semi-pros with speed but little experience. Shotton, Heathcote, McHenry and Jack Smith are the outfielders of experience. Joe Schultz, also a veteran, may hold on as utility man, while two youngsters, Ed Bogart and Lloyd Silkott, aspire for jobs. The former hit over 300 in the Canadian league last year, and was credited with 22 homers.

While Shotton handles the job of chief assistant to Rickey, the St. Louis boss also carried old Joe Suggen as coach. Joe, however, devotes most of his time to the job of teaching the pitchers the tricks of base ball. Charley Barrett, scout of the team, also is helping in the work at camp.

Famous Brooklyn Race Track Sold; To Be Cut Into Lots New York, March 18.—The old Gravesend race track near Coney Island, over which for many years the Brooklyn handicapper, a turf classic, was run, Thursday was sold to a real estate firm for $675,000. The entire tract of land, consisting of about 90 acres, was the property of the Brooklyn Jockey club, in which Philip and Michael Dwyer, brothers, were the principal stockholders. It will be cut up into building lots.

This is the last of the three Brooklyn race tracks which were closed when the Percy-Gray law was repealed. The Sheepshead Bay track, used until a few months ago as an automobile speedway, is now being dismantled and converted into a residential tract. The Brighton Beach course already has been transformed into a bungalow colony.

Joe Boling is working hard at the Indians' camp in New Orleans, and is optimistic about a real comeback.

Illinois Man Feels Many Years Younger Since Taking Tanlac

CHARLES STENSTROM, Well-Known Peoria, Ill., Contractor.

"I feel thirty years younger since I got hold of Tanlac and if it was necessary I could handle a shovel and turn as much dirt as any of my men," said Charles Stenstrom, the well-known concrete and excavating contractor, living at 607 Fishgate street, Peoria, Ill.

"For thirty years I have suffered all the misery that goes with stomach trouble, rheumatism and disordered kidneys, and when I began taking Tanlac I was so bad off I was about to retire from business. My stomach was so badly upset that it nearly laid me up altogether and after every meal I took cramping spells that sometimes were so bad I couldn't leave the house for fear I would get sick. I was afraid I could not get back. I bloated up so with gas that I could not get a long breath. My legs pained me almost every minute of the day and when the weather was damp my arms hurt me so much it was agony for me to bend them. My kidneys were so badly out of order that I had pains all through my back and at night I was in such misery I could hardly sleep at all. Every morning my back was so stiff it was hard for me to get out of bed and during the day I couldn't think of doing my work.

Things are different now, as Tanlac has made a wonderful change in my condition. Everything I eat agrees with me perfectly. The rheumatism has almost disappeared and the pains and stiffness in my back have all gone. I sleep sound every night and I get up in the mornings feeling fine and ready for breakfast. I have given up all idea of retiring from business, as Tanlac has given me new life and strength and I am now enjoying better health than I have for many years."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha at all Sherman & McConnell Drug Company's stores, Hayward Pharmacy and West End Pharmacy. Also Forsyth and Meany Drug Company in South Omaha and the leading drugist in each city and town throughout the state of Nebraska.—Adv.
