

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

Society

THAT American customs differ very greatly from those of other countries was discovered Saturday evening by those dining with Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Goodbody at the Athletic club dinner-dance. Honorees at the affair were the Misses Constance and G. Pimm of Dublin, Ireland. When they saw people leaving their dinner to dance, their surprise was unfeigned. "Such a strange custom," they exclaimed. "How odd for people to dance while their food is becoming cold."

Basques Are Now Fashionable

Basques, says Paris, and the fashion is appearing insistently over here, especially in black, soft-finished taffeta, which is the favored fabric for the spring street or afternoon dress. Pleated flounces are also the smartest thing in the development of the new skirts. This model of black taffeta is developed in basque lines. The waist is long, you see, and that is another new note in the silhouette. The basques fasten down the center back with black bone buttons and bound buttonholes. While organdie crepe pleated constitutes the crisply becoming collar and cuffs. Three knife-pleated ruffles of taffeta are mounted on a drop skirt of China silk, net or mousseline de soie. The smart hat maintains the popular Napoleonic lines and wears a graceful ornament of black ostrich.

Frederick Daugherty and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrett.

N. Y. Campaign Forum

State to Learn Party History.
New York republican women do not intend to have uninformed women voters if they can help it, and the republican women's state executive committee is therefore carrying on a series of "campaign forums" for the benefit of republican women who want a better understanding of the policies and history of their party. The committee has tendered the use of the big library of the Republican club each Monday afternoon, and the forums will be addressed by speakers thoroughly conversant with the subjects they discuss.

Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

The Reformed Lover.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Two years ago I met a young man whom I learned to love dearly. I am 18 and he is four years my senior.

After going about with him for six months he told me he had been leading a bad life and that he was going to reform for my sake. This he has done.

My happiness would be complete if it were not for my mother, who has learned of his past and is strongly against my going with him. She says "there is no such thing as a reformed man—they always return to their old life."

Now, Miss Fairfax, I love my mother dearly, and I hate to feel that I am deceiving her, as I have been meeting him secretly, but I also feel that I could never part from my friend.

No one has a right to doubt the sincerity of any other individual in "turning over a new leaf." The Great Teacher Himself once said to a woman who has done evil, "Neither do I condemn thee. Go thou and sin no more." That is an example which all of us owe it to ourselves and to humanity to follow. If you have been an influence for good in this young man's life and are taken out of his life, that cruelty and unfairness might plunge him back into the evil from which he has freed himself under your influence. Your mother would do well to recognize that to know temptation is a good warning to refrain from it in the future.

Complexion and Clothes.

Dear Miss Fairfax: Will you please tell me what will take butter spots out of a wool dress. It is not a serge, but sort of cashmere, but not all wool. We tried benzine but it would not help. Also my hair is very oily. I can wash my hair, and the third day it is just the same again. When I comb my hair it parts in different places, and I can't curl it. It will not stay on account of the oil. Also what will take moles off of the face which were caused by chicken pox?

You might try washing the whole garment in gasoline in combination with a good dry cleaner which may be purchased from your druggist, but the best thing would be to send it to a reliable professional cleaner.

Excessive oiliness of the hair indicates that the scalp is not in a healthy condition. Massage the scalp daily, air the hair frequently in the sunshine and use only a dependable soap when shampooing—this treatment, if persisted in, will restore hair health. Powdering the hair with orris root and brushing out the powder well after about ten minutes will take out the oil temporarily. "Moles," if that is what you mean, can be removed by a beauty specialist; the little scars left by chicken pox cannot be removed, but massage will beautify the texture of the skin and make the marks less noticeable. Your penmanship is good.

Names for Twins.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Could you please suggest some names for twin girls in some issue of The Bee this week?

Also advise if there is such a book as a twin baby book.

Thanking you very much for this favor, I am, sincerely,
N. Y.

Here are a few suggestions for names for twin girls: Janice and Jane, Blanche and Beth, Helene and Evelyn, Anita and Anne, Edna and Edna, Marjorie and Muriel, Norma and Nancy, Ruth and Rita, Vivian and Viola, Eleanor and Elaine, Frances and Fern, Doris and Donna. I do not know of any such book as a twin baby book. The stores in town do not carry them.

Introductions.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I attended a party not long ago where there were as many men present as ladies. A lady was brought into the room and introduced. It is proper, is it not, for the men to rise on being introduced to a lady? And also, should the ladies have done so, too? "PERPLEXED."

Etiquet demands that a gentleman rise on being introduced to a lady. At a party such as you speak of where the introduction would be somewhat promiscuous and informal, the girls may remain seated unless the lady introduced is elderly.

Lonesome: There are a number of letters here for you, but we can not locate your address.
