

PERSHING GOES TO CHURCH FOR HOUR OF QUIET

General Attends Services During Visit to El Paso, Texas—Joins Congregation in Song and Prayer.

Alden A. Evans tells in the El Paso (Tex.) Herald how General Pershing attended church service when he was in that city one Sunday not long ago. Mr. Evans writes: "At St. Clements' Episcopal church Sunday morning Gen. John J. Pershing gave an hour to devout worship. During the service no mention was made of the general's presence. This was partly due to the fact that the general himself desired the privilege of a quiet hour in church for the sole purpose of worship."

"While the church which General Pershing would attend had not been announced, it was known that he is a communicant of the Episcopal church, and it was supposed that he would go to St. Clements. Enough persons supposed this to crowd the church and fill a hundred extra seats. A score were obliged to stand. "At five minutes after 11 o'clock General Pershing quietly entered the church. He sat in the center section, eight rows from the front. His seat was not decorated. No demonstration was made when he entered or left the building. "Kneels in His Pew. "The general, after he had been seated only a few seconds, took out his glasses, adjusted them and fixed his eyes on the big picture of the Great Shepherd above the altar. His next glance was at the hymnal as the choir sang the processional. "When prayer was offered the general knelt in his pew. "The rector, Dr. Fuller Swift, asked God's blessing upon the congregation, prayed for the men in the army and that the United States might be delivered from its enemies. Then the congregation repeated the Lord's prayer in unison, General Pershing joining. "The congregation sang the 'Star Spangled Banner' as the colors were held aloft. When the organ sounded the first note the general straightened himself slightly and kept his eyes fixed straight ahead. "Puts Dollar in Basket. "Then the congregation joined with the choir in singing 'My Country 'Tis of Thee.' "General Pershing listened attentively, as the rector delivered his sermon, the subject of which was 'Thou has set my feet in a large place.' "The general took part in all of the service, including the offertory. When the collection basket came by he took from his trousers' pocket a dollar and laid it in with the other coins."
