

SILENT TRIBUTE PAID DR. MACKAY AT FINAL RITES

All Saints' Church Thronged
By Parishioners—Funeral
Characterized by Simplicity—Tears Dim Eyes.

Tears streamed down the faces of scores of parishioners of All Saints Episcopal church as pall bearers slowly bore from the church yesterday afternoon a flag-draped coffin in which reposed the body of the Rev. Thomas J. Mackay, pastor of the church for 28 years.

As 10 vestrymen of the church carried the coffin from its bier down the central aisle there was a fluttering of handkerchiefs among women in the crowd attending the funeral services, and gray-haired men watched with bowed heads and tear-dimmed eyes.

Characterized by Simplicity. Members of the church and other close friends whom Rev. Mr. Mackay had gathered about him during his long service in Omaha filled the church auditorium to its capacity.

The Episcopal funeral service, characterized by simplicity in accord with the unostentatious life of the dead minister, was conducted by Rev. H. Mills Hayes of Trinity church, Lincoln, a close associate and comrade of Rev. Mackay during long years of church work in Nebraska.

Rev. Mr. Hayes was assisted by Bishop Shayer of the Omaha diocese and by Rev. Carl Worden, assistant pastor of All Saints church. Representatives of the Masons, Elks Rotary club and G. A. R. sat in reserved sections.

Sing Favorite Hymn. During the services church members, led by the choir, sang Rev. Mr. Mackay's favorite hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." He had requested shortly before his death the hymn be included in his funeral rites.

The body was taken from the church to the crematory at Forest Lawn cemetery, where a private burial service was conducted.

Church trustees have announced as one of the results of Rev. Mr. Mackay's long service the final lifting of a church debt of $17,400. The mortgage was cancelled last Sunday, the day before Rev. Mr. Mackay's death.

Part of Omaha Jewels, Stolen in Wyoming, Found in Haystack. J. M. Washburn, traveling salesman for the Byrne-Duff jewelry company, 1212 First National Bank building, wired yesterday a sheriff's posse had recovered a part of the $35,000 sample stock of jewelry stolen from him at Torrington, Wyo., Sunday night in a raid by burglars on a jewelry store where he had left his two trunks.

One of the trunks, containing $15,000 worth of loose diamonds and other jewelry, had been located in a hay stack near Torrington, he reported. Officials expected to find the second trunk buried in the hay stack, he wired.

Mr. Washburn stated three men suspected of being implicated in the robbery, have been rounded up by posse scouring the country and are now lodged in the Torrington jail. The search is continuing for other members of an alleged bandit gang that has been operating near Torrington, he reports.

Charles Duff, manager of the Byrne-Duff company, said today he would go to Torrington with an invoice of the stock carried by Washburn and check missing articles in order to furnish a report to a company in which they were insured against theft. The salesman carried a number of rings, necklaces and other expensive individual pieces valued up to $5,000, he said.

Woman Decides She Wants To Be Citizen So She Can Cast Vote. "Why do you want to become a citizen of the United States now?" asked District Judge Sears of Mrs. Catharina Mathilda Bjorkman in naturalization court yesterday.

"Because I like this country," she said. "But you have been in the United States since 1882 and in Omaha since 1887 and never tried to become a citizen here. Why do you want to do so now?" the judge inquired.

"Why, because now I can vote," said Mrs. Bjorkman. Paul Kazakas, a Greek, was admitted to citizenship. Two months ago he was denied admittance when his divorced wife appeared and testified against him. She did not appear this time. He had three witnesses, who testified that his character is good.

Body of N. J. O'Brien Will Arrive In Omaha Thursday. Adult Probation Officer Moses P. O'Brien will arrive in Omaha Thursday afternoon from Wichita, Kan., with the body of his brother, Nicholas J. O'Brien, pioneer Nebraska railroad man and telegraph operator, who dropped dead while attending mass in a Wichita church Monday. Funeral arrangements are not yet complete.

Aged Omahan Dies. Frank Pechac, 69 years old, and resident of Omaha for the past 40 years, died Tuesday afternoon at his home, 417 North Thirty-third street, after an illness of but a few days. He is survived by his widow, three sons, and two daughters, all of Omaha, and one sister in Chicago. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 from the residence. Burial will be in Bohemian National cemetery.

Samardick, Under Fire, Resigns as Head of Police Morals Squad

Robert P. Samardick, head of the police morals squad, who has been under fire of police heads and fellow officers for the past few months, handed in his resignation yesterday effective April 1, Chief of Police Eberstein announced shortly after noon, the chief stated.

Samardick was the object of charges filed by Policeman Fred Bilyeu, being accused of conduct unbecoming an officer and exceeding his authority in making an arrest. Samardick was accused of arresting two women relatives of Bilyeu Saturday night when they refused to answer questions put to them. The women asserted Samardick did not show his badge. The officer declared he did.

His case was withdrawn from police court by department heads, and never went to trial.

Oats at 96 Cents Highest In History of Omaha Exchange

Record price for oats on the Omaha grain market in its history was reached yesterday, when the grain sold for 96 cents per bushel. The increase in the oats market has been gradual since the first of the year, according to members of the Omaha exchange, due to the fact that last year's crop, which was the shortest in five years, left the supply meager. The highest price attained in Chicago for oats is $1 per bushel.
