

GILLIN SLATED TO GET LOOMIS JOB, IS REPORT

Bryan Henchmen Now In Office Rumored Slated for Dismissal by Hitchcock Supporters.

Open warfare between the Hitchcock and Bryan forces was reported yesterday in political circles when the word was passed around that George L. Loomis, collector of internal revenue, was to get the political job. Mr. Loomis, who is charged up to the Bryan patronage, was appointed revenue collector here nearly four years ago, and his present term expires May 1. John J. Gillin, deputy revenue inspector, is slated to be Loomis' successor, it is reported.

Before Bryan made his speech in the Auditorium flaying Hitchcock, it was understood that Loomis would be reappointed, but since his advent here and his open stand against the presidential candidate, the Hitchcock forces have vowed vengeance, it is said.

Mr. Loomis could not be reached at the federal building, where it was stated that he was at his home in Fremont.

An entire "cleaning out" of all the Bryan henchmen who are now holding positions and still hover around the Commoner's standard, is reported due to occur soon.

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER COMES TO OMAHA FROM WAR AREAS

Nebraska Girl Tells of Great Affection She Conceived For British Tommies.

Smiling, handsome Ruth Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, arrived in Omaha yesterday after an absence of 10 years.

She is the wife of Maj. Reginald Owen of the British royal engineers, and served as a British army nurse during the war.

Mrs. Owen took her youngest son, Reginald Bryan, then only 2 1/2 years old, with her to Egypt while she was stationed there. The other two children, who are now with their father and grandmother in Florida, were then in school in England.

Gain Affection for Tommies.

"The extraordinary affection you get for the troops you deal with is one of the unlooked for effects of the work in army hospitals," Mrs. Owen said yesterday.

"I can never forget my devotion to the British Tommy."

Mrs. Owen began her war work in the American relief agencies in London, then took Red Cross nurse training under the volunteer aid detachment, the famous "V. A. D." of the British army.

Wears Pleasing Smile.

Mrs. Owen is tall, has gray eyes, brown hair and a pleasing smile. This morning she was dressed in brown and wore a long fur coat.

Her husband, Major Owen, is in Florida, convalescing from a serious illness during the war. He was assistant director of army signals in Palestine, Egypt and Salonika. Major Owen was commanding Australian forces at the tragic landing of the colonial troops on Gallipoli in 1914.

Highjackers Use Pick In Fruitless Raid On Cellar of Omaha Home

Liquor thieves evidently in search of an underground cache spaded up the basement floor in the home of Elizabeth Stearns, 2519 Jones street, Thursday night. Telephone wires were cut and a lock on the door "jimmied." Nothing is missing from the place, Miss Stearns reported.

The "highjackers" made no effort to enter other parts of the house. Detectives believe they entered the wrong house.

A pick-axe was used to break through the concrete floor.

Telegraph Operator, Arrested at Key, Is Not Least Perturbed

Sitting calmly at his telegraph instrument sending messages over the wire of the Western Union Telegraph Co. Frank Metko, 16 years old, 1946 South Twelfth street, felt a heavy hand on his shoulder at 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

He glanced up nervously and saw Detectives Leahy and Ford.

"You're under arrest," he was told.

Young Metko laughed, the detectives say, and replied: "Well, I can't get less than 10 years, anyway."

He was taken to Central police station where police are holding him for authorities of East St. Louis. His arrest in Omaha was made under telegraphic instructions.
