AMERICANISM. By Eric Fisher. George H. Doran Company.
This story of Leonard Wood puts before the American people the first adequate and authoritative biography of a man who has come to occupy a dominant position in our national life. It is a story of remarkable accomplishment, and shows how through his whole-souled devotion to the ideals of Americanism he has become the very incarnation of American democracy, energy, resourcefulness and constructive effort.

THE MYSTERY AT THE BLUE VILLA. By Melville Davies. Fox, D. Appleton & Co.
The Mystery at the Blue Villa repeats some of the best of Mr. Post's work. Each story has that powerful character drawing, that dramatic intensity of situation for which the author is notable, yet each story is as individual, as unique in plot as though it were the sole fruit of Mr. Post's genius. Some of the tales have an atmosphere of mysticism, others are a sparkle with the spirit of romance while still others are straight mystery stories.

LEGEND. By Clemence Dane. The Macmillan Company.
Miss Dane in this book contributes a note of striking originality to recent fiction and it is done with all the artistry that was to be found in her previous work, "First the Blade" and "Regiment of Women." "Legend" tells in strangely fascinating manner the story of a young genius—and in contrast to this shows in process of formation the totally false legend that is growing up about her. The story as handled by Miss Dane becomes intensely dramatic. It is full of humor too and gives her plenty of opportunity for character drawing in which art she excels.

THE SPLENDID OUTCAST. By George Gibba. D. Appleton & Co.
A story of the great war in which twin brothers of deceiving physical resemblance play contrasting roles. A story of blackmail and the Paris underworld, skilfully planned and brilliantly executed, with a love story of charm and power running through.

WHAT OUTFIT, BUDDY? By T. Howard Kelly. Harper & Brothers.
Jimmy, the hero of this book, says: "This ain't one of them regulation war books. 'Nuthin' about sewin' our souls or makin' the world safe for profiteers or the league of notions—but a lot about the heluva good time me an' O. D. had just the same as you an' your buddy." A straight-forward story with flashes of irresistible humor.

THE MATRIX. By Maria Thompson Dawnes. The Century Co.
This is a thrilling romance of the meeting, courtship and marriage of Abraham Lincoln's father and that almost fabulous figure, Nancy Hanks. It is set in the Kentucky of pioneer days and gives the feeling and color of that strenuous period. As a story, apart from the historical importance of the characters, "The Matrix" is one of the author's most entertaining creations. It is told with the verve and vigor, the wit and humor, the high dramatic power of her best previous fiction.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF KIMBALL WEBB. By Rowland Wright. Dodd, Mead & Co.
The disappearance of a bridegroom on the morning of his wedding day forms the nucleus of the plot of this clever mystery story. The reward of $50,000 offered by his fiancée for his safe recovery is earned by a detective and the smell of bananas was the winning clue to the seemingly impenetrable mystery.

CATTY ATKINS. By Clarence Budington Kelland. Harper & Bros.
This story adds a new hero to the boy-heroes of bookland. His name is Catty Atkins and he and his father are tramps. Catty got tired of Mulligan stew by the roadside and sleeping in haystacks, and his mind was made up when he was inadvertently brought face to face with the fundamentals of living by Weewee Moore's father. How he managed under difficulties to settle down, earn a living and remake his father makes a most readable and fascinating story.

THE COCKPIE OF SANTIAGO KEY. By David S. Greengard. Bond & Liveright.
This is a story of Porto Rican life, intended primarily for boys and girls. It is replete with excitement and adventure, mystery and healthy romance. It is the story of cock-fighting carried on against the ban of the United States government and the mysterious warning that Felipe, the hero of the tale, received from his age-grandfather. This is the first of a series of juvenile books the author is preparing to acquaint his readers with various foreign countries.

ARMENIA AND THE ARMENIANS. By Kevork Aslan. Macmillan Co.
Following an introductory chapter on the Armenian question, the book surveys Armenian history from the earliest times down to the present day. The author avoids the mistake of going too much into detail. He has written a concise history which gives facts which the average well-informed person desires to know about the country and its people. The book is a translation from the French.

RUSSIA AS AN AMERICAN PROBLEM. By John Spargo. Harper & Brothers.
There are opportunities in Russia that up to now only Japan has seen. John Spargo brings them home to the American business man, while for the general reader he clears the haze of controversy, giving definite, authentic facts that show among other things why bolshevism can not last in Russia. Mr. Spargo points out that it is really to America that Russia's eyes are turning, that Russia is America's problem and he points the way to a solution.

Guests of Sorority Sisters.
Misses Etzel Nimmo and Marian Jeffers of Chayenne, Wyo., are spending the spring vacation with Miss Mildred McFarland. All are students at the University of Nebraska and members of Phi Phi sorority. Miss McFarland was recently awarded Phi Beta Kappa honors, being one of the seven from Omaha who received this recognition for scholarship.

Miss Gladys Beaumont of Lincoln is spending a few days in Omaha.
Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Russell returned Thursday from an extensive trip through the east.

The Attainment of Perfection in Biscuit Goodness

It is always a great satisfaction to know that whatever you set before your family or your guests is the very best obtainable.

Your own good judgment, your high standard of modern homekeeping, your keen sense of hospitality, all demand the very best where your table is concerned.

For years the National Biscuit Company has produced biscuit in great variety, superb in flavor, supreme in wholesomeness, matchless in the choice condition in which they reach you.

The goodness of any National Biscuit Company product exemplifies the goodness of them all, due to perfect ingredients perfectly baked. For example:

PREMIUM SODA CRACKERS

Decidedly distinctive because of their convenient size, mealy texture and slight saltiness. Fine with a bowl of milk, a portion of cheese, or for jelly or peanut sandwiches. They make instant friends with all appetites. Sold by the pound and in the famous In-er-seal Trade Mark package.

LORNA DOONE BISCUIT

Sweet, tender, crumbly cakes of shortbread with none of the over-richness of the old-fashioned kind. A short cut to shortcake—delicious with fresh or preserved fruits. Sold by the pound and in the famous In-er-seal Trade Mark package.

CHOCOLATE PUFF CAKES

Cone-shaped puffs containing soft, luscious cake, creamy marshmallow, and covered with delicious sweet chocolate. Always fresh—always tempting—always a treat. Sold by the pound.

Let the oven freshness tell its own story of N. B. C. goodness. Let the deliciousness bespeak the excellence of the ingredients and their perfect blending and baking. And as you serve these biscuit day, by day, let the appetites of the entire household answer every question of wholesomeness.
