STATE BANKERS PRESS FIGHT ON FEDERAL SYSTEM
Committee to Meet in Omaha to Push Undermining of Alleged Reserve Malpractice.
Renewed attacks against the federal reserve banking system will be planned at a meeting of a committee of state bankers in Omaha Sunday. C. A. McCloud of York, C. F. Cund of Blue Hill, and Woods Cones of Pierce comprise this committee, appointed at a meeting of state bankers in Omaha January 14. Their fight is meeting with success, according to J. P. Palmer, Omaha attorney engaged by them. The meeting of state bankers in Omaha in January was held to protest against the alleged practice of the Omaha Federal Reserve bank in allowing checks to accumulate on small banks, then collecting them through express agents or special agents, who, it was charged, were heavily armed.

Weather Man Plays April First Prank On Early Gardeners
Omaha gardeners who have been predicting that they would soon be displaying green vegetables are neither so boastful nor so happy as a result of the low temperature which came with the first of April. There was a continuous drop in temperature throughout the day Thursday, a strong wind and a slight snow and sleet making the cold even more disagreeable. The thermometer began to approach the freezing point early in the afternoon. The falling temperature and high wind continued throughout the night.
Reports from Lincoln and other Nebraska points stated that a storm of rain, sleet and snow, driven by a brisk wind, threatened telephone lines with further demoralization. The high wind and snow Sunday caused the breaking of thousands of poles. Last night's storm, the reports state, was confined chiefly to the central and eastern parts of the state.

Mullen Replies to Charges That He Is Opposed to Women
Arthur F. Mullen, democratic candidate for national committeeman, yesterday issued a statement in reply to charges that he was against woman suffrage, made by Mrs. H. C. Sumney and Mrs. James Richardson, prominent suffragists in Nebraska. He asserted that although he was opposed to allowing the government to prescribe educational, property or residential qualifications for voters, he had always favored woman suffrage by state action.
"I told Mrs. Sumney and Mrs. Richardson that I was in favor of woman suffrage by state action and opposed to it by the federal government," Mr. Mullen said. "I told them that I stood squarely on the suffrage plank of the last democratic platform, and expressed my opinion that the 15th amendment for enfranchisement of negroes was a mistake."
Mrs. Sumney and Mrs. Richardson said they had, in 1918, asked Mr. Mullen to persuade Senator Hitchcock to vote for the suffrage amendment and that he replied:
"I think the government made a mistake when it gave the vote to the 'niggers' and I don't want to see the mistakes repeated by giving the right of suffrage to women."

Selling Whisky in Room at Hotel Is Charge Against Guest
Lincoln, Neb., April 2.—(Special.)—Evidence in the case of the state against James Shea in justice court here today revealed that the defendant had been selling whisky in a room at the Savoy hotel for several months.
Ernest Holden, former resident of Burr, Neb., was the principal witness. He charged that he bought liquor frequently of Shea. The case is still on trial.
Shea's room mate, Martin L. Judge, was recently acquitted on a similar charge. He is to face trial now also on account of taking money to find Holden's wife, who had left him, and pretending to tap wires to find her.
It is alleged that he did not tap the wires, but collected $2,000 for claiming that he had done so.

Morehead Mandamus Will Be Argued in Court Monday

Nebraska Owes Him $30, Omaha War Veteran Says
The State department at Lincoln is so dilatory in paying him the month's salary he says he didn't receive when in its service that George S. Linger, 4329 South Twenty-fifth street, has taken occasion to write The Bee, hopeful it can do something whereby he may collect the $30 he claims Nebraska owes him.
Linger, according to his letter, enlisted in Company D, Sixth Nebraska National guard, July 7, 1917. He spent one year in France and the remaining time of his service in Deming and other army camps. He says he was not paid for soldiering from July 7 to August 5, 1917, although he has written many letters in the matter.

Miracle Must Happen Before "Miracle Man" Can Regain Freedom
Unless a miracle happens, it's likely that B. C. Gooley, otherwise known as "The Miracle Man," may remain in Nebraska City jail indefinitely.
Just $500 stands between Gooley and freedom. The sum of money is required for a bond, but is not forthcoming, yet.
Mrs. Gooley, wife and the "little miracles," who came to Nebraska City to prefer charges of abandonment against the husband, said she was anxious for his freedom as is Ben. She brought the children to Omaha Thursday night.
"I'm tired of this kissing and loving and making up stuff of husbands and wives after one gets the other into jail," George Heinke, county prosecutor, says. "Gooley will remain locked up till his bond is provided. I'm sick of these monkey shins."
Meanwhile the miracle that shall bring Ben $500 and release from jail is a long time happening.

Save With Code Bill Discussed by Governor
Ord. Neb., April 2.—(Special.)—Scoring opponents of the code bill as mud-slingers, Governor McKelvie, in an address to 300 Valley county voters, asserted that his is the only administration since that of Shelton, which had fulfilled every campaign pledge. He cited figures to show that the code bill saved $73,000 since the bill was put in operation. This saving, he said, was made from the appropriation given to run the state under the code bill.
Touching upon the Cole-Grammer case, upon which there is high feeling in this county, the governor said that his hands were tied and that he could do nothing as long as the case was in the courts. He devoted a short period to discussion of paroles and furloughs.
