INDOOR SEASON PAVES WAY TO OLYMPIC TRIALS

Records Established in Winter Sports This Season Indicate United States Will Have Strong Team.

By WALTER ECKERSALL. The indoor athletic season, which was brought to a successful close with the Central A. A. U. track and field championships, showed beyond doubt that America will be represented by the strongest team which ever took part in the Olympic games.

In practically every meet of note records were either broken or tied. The central west enjoyed its greatest indoor year of recent seasons. Start Outdoor Work. With the indoor season now a matter of history, coaches, trainers and athletes have turned their attention to outdoor competition, which will be officially opened by the annual Pennsylvania relay carnival at Philadelphia on April 30 and May 1.

Olympic Tryouts as Goal. Following this event, the college teams will be pointed to the intercollegiate. The eastern meet will be held at Cambridge on the last Saturday in May, while the western conference will be decided at Ann Arbor on the first Saturday in June.

DOPE INDICATES DEMPSEY ABLE TO BEAT FRENCHMAN

Physique and Punching Vigor Favor Champion — One Solid Punch Will Finish Carpentier.

By RAY PEARSON.

In the game of fisticuffs the scales and tape line do not always decide the victor. When Dempsey and Willard met last July 4 in Toledo, Willard had every physical advantage as far as the scales and tape line could tell, but Dempsey more than offset those advantages with his speed, his vigor and his ability to punch.

"Dempsey is more than twice as good in hitting as Carpentier. He has that shade because he can knock out opponents equally as easily with one hand as with the other, while Carpentier only is able to score knockouts with his right hand.

One Punch to Finish Georges. That certainly looks like the logical way to reason things out, but the gent who "released" the above continued a bit farther with: "Carpentier will last just as long as he isn't hit by the champion. When Dempsey lands one solid punch, whether it is on the chin or in the midsection, the fight will be over."

Launch Lipton's Ship. Southampton, April 3.—Sir Thomas Lipton's 23-meter Shamrock III, which will be used in the tuning up races with Shamrock IV, the American cup challenger, off Sandy Hook this spring, was launched here Saturday.

William Tilden Wins Indoor Tennis Title. New York, April 3.—William T. Tilden II, of Philadelphia, won the national indoor singles tennis championship here Saturday. "TWO AND THREE" "PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER" WITH "DUGS" BAER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 3.—Last week we had the last gasp of March, that nice collection of weather has without which no chronological menu would be complete. Figuring on the dish that the official weather guesser is handing out here, the present tense of Spring is "soup," past tense "souper" and future tense "soupiest. There will probably be no game in Jackson, Tenn., today either, as when she starts in to rain down hereabouts, she throws the key away.

From now on McGraw will make the boys wear their spiked shoes in the lobbies. Otherwise, it looks as if they will forget how to use them.

There was Fungo practise called for in the good pullman ark "Panzance," the only sleeping booth which was designed by Gilbert (music by Sullivan). Fortunately, May Irvell came to the rescue, with an invitation to her show. Manager McGraw accepted on behalf of the visiting firemen.

There was no out. The innocent must suffer with guilty. The tame wildcat was taken along to lead the cheering. Mac wants to keep a lamp on the wild tamecat, as it has been busting loose and scattering bellhops along the route like an advance man scatters handbills. The two-way cat has gained fifteen pounds since leaving San Antonio. All off colored bellhops have no name for either a wild tamecat or a tame wildcat. Both animals being held greatly in respect by the darker sex. It is now suffering from ptomaine poisoning caused by scratching an umpire.

Bill Klem and Dick Nallin are off the trained maitre se for keeps. Klem was getting set to bivouac in his upper berth last night when the vegetarian cannibal cat scratched a foul line down his skullpiece. Bill threw a natural that you could have heard in Siam. He now goes to sleep with his chest protector inside his pajamas and his wire mask over his noodle. Bill prefers to use a comb in parting, what little hair he has left. By setting walrus shells on the republican democrat cat's feet it is possible to protect both the umpires and the cat.

Sport Sparks

Likely as not Manager McGraw will want to recall the National league entries for a second start, in case the Giants get away badly.

Friberg, understudy for Buck Perzog, is playing second for the Cubs. And they say that "Fry" seldom scrambles the hot ones that come his way.

Evidently the New York scribes who wrote a column on Babe Ruth's home run in practice are taking no chances on Babe's hitting this season.

Just as Gothamites had figured out a grand clean-up of the base ball season with their million-dollar bevy of stars, Brooklyn flashes Moberg, the sensational young twirler who bids fair to monopolize Greater New York's limelight.

Dempsey Case Postponed. San Francisco, Cal., April 3.—The case of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, and his manager, Jack Kearns, indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with Dempsey's alleged evasion of the selective draft were called in the United States district court Saturday and went over for two weeks, at which time it was announced, the cases would be set for trial. Neither Dempsey nor Kearns appeared in court.

Rooney Gets K. O. Bisbee, Ariz., April 3.—"Speedy" Sparks of Tulsa, Okl., knocked out Jack Rooney of Los Angeles in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here Friday night.

With the Pugs. Eddie Stanton, manager of Willie Green, has been swapped with his protégé's manager, Stanton will probably close with the Springfield, Ill. club for a match with Willie O'Donnell, the Cleveland flash, April 15.

Mickey Sheridan has taken under his management a bantamweight who looks like a promising lead in his division. The kid is a match for his big opponent Sammy Butts, Jimmy Kelly, or any one of the bantams around Chicago.

Babe Asher of St. Louis and Stanley Everett of Peoria, Ill., fought 10 fast rounds to a draw at Peoria. Everett dropped Asher to his knees with a hard right in the fourth round, but the latter rally in the closing sessions evened it up.

Kid Henry of Newark, N. J., defeated Fatsy McMahon of Indianapolis in a 10-round bout at Hot Springs.

Girl and Horse Will Fly to Santa Barbara Horse Show

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Ever hear the fable of Pegasus, the winged horse? A Los Angeles girl has decided to take it from legendry and enact it in real life. On April 7, the opening day of the famous Ambassador horse show at Santa Barbara, Miss Janie McPherson and her pet horse, Mercury, will fly in an airplane from Los Angeles to Santa Barbara to exhibit Mercury in the big show.

The trip will be noted officially by the Aero Club of America. Lieut. David Thompson, U. S. A., will pilot the plane. For the flight Mercury is being outfitted in equine aviation togs. He will wear rubber boots, slipped over his own; a hood to keep him from nervousness; he should see the earth slipping by; a harness strap jacket to keep him in place, and he will stand during the flight upon a rubber pad. Preparations for the landing now are in progress at Santa Barbara at the Ambassador hotel grounds, where the unique affair will be watched by an invited concourse of leaders in American society, many of whom have entered horses in the show.

TWO DECISIONS ON BALL HITTING UMP OR RUNNER

Base Ball Rule Makers Simplified Matters a Great Deal, But Not Entirely.

By I. E. SANBORN.

The base ball rulemakers devoted a lot of care and time to revising the playing rules during the winter. The result was a vast improvement in the playing code, with all the time and thought given to it, for obscure points that have wrecked many a semi-pro or sand lot game in the past have been made clear.

One of the changes in the rules involves a base-runner from being declared out if he is hit by a batted ball which goes through an infielder without being touched by an opposing player. The old rule was that such base-runner was out unless the ball had been actually touched by an infielder. But it was an injustice to punish a runner for being hit by a batted ball which he expected an infielder to touch, if the fielder missed his chance and the ball then hit the runner.

The change is a just one, but the rulemakers added it to section 8 of rule 56, and then overlooked section 12 of the same rule. According to the first section of rule 54, as revised, a batted ball strikes him before being "touched" by an infielder. The two sections conflict and the bush league player or umpire who is not intimately acquainted with the whole of the rules may get into trouble.

Needs Definite Interpretation. In a similar connection there is chance for an argument even in the major leagues, unless the umpires receive a definite interpretation in advance of the season. According to the first section of rule 54, as revised, a batted ball remains in play if it hits an umpire after passing a fielder or has been touched by a fielder.

The intent of this revision obviously was to do away with the previous injustice of robbing a runner of the chance to advance on a grounder, a sizzler past the pitcher, or a batted ball which hit the umpire, as sometimes happened.

The rule worked just the other way in one of the Cubs' exhibition games in California almost before the ink on the printed rules of 1920 was dry. One umpire was working directly behind the pitcher with the bases full of Cubs in the first half of the ninth inning.

Costs Victory for Cubs. It was a sure hit over second base, good for a couple of runs, but the umpire couldn't dodge the drive. The ball hit him and dribbled back to the pitcher, who picked it up and made a double play by way of the plate. That game went 15 innings and ended in a tie when obviously it was intended that Paskert should not have been robbed of his hit or the Cubs of at least one run by such an accident.

But the pitcher is a "fielder" technically speaking; so the tall grass umpire was right in his decision, according to the letter of the rule. And rule 56 still says the ball is not in play if it hits an umpire before "touching" a fielder, making another conflict that will puzzle the amateur, arbiter.

Unknown Springs Up. Jim Higgins, the Scottish miner who recently won the British bantamweight championship from Harold Jones at the National Sporting club and captured the Lonsdale belt emblematic of the title, was picked for the bout at the last minute. Higgins was practically unknown, the London Sporting club officials having heard of him for the first time only three weeks prior to the bout in which he won the title. He had been boxing professionally for only a year when he became the champion.

Yale Oarsmen Win. Philadelphia, April 3.—Yale defeated Pennsylvania in both the senior and junior varsity eight-oared shell races over the Henley course on the Schuylkill river Saturday. Both races were close.
