

Asks $60 a Month From Her Divorced Husband
 Mary A. Jenkins, earning $14 a week as a seamstress, appealed to the district court yesterday to order her former husband, Robert L. Jenkins, to pay her $60 a month for the support of their youngest child, 10 years old.
 Mrs. Jenkins was granted a divorce and custody of the five children in 1913. Four of the children are now self-supporting. Mrs. Jenkins says her husband is earning $250 a month as a car inspector for the Union Stock Yards company, but that he refuses to help support the child. She has incurred a board bill of $80 for the child since January, which she asks him to pay also.

FIND MERCHANTS IN OMAHA ARE NOT PROFITEERS

Sub Committees of Federal Fair Price Commission of Opinion That Prices Here Not Inflated.

Profiteering in Omaha is at a minimum, according to an opinion reached at the third meeting yesterday of the subcommittees of the federal fair price commission, appointed by Mrs. C. G. Ryan, federal fair price commissioner for Nebraska.

Merchants declared at the close of the meeting that merchandise in many lines was actually much cheaper in this city than elsewhere and that the gross percentages of profit fixed by Howard E. Figg, assistant United States attorney general, as fair profits on merchandise, particularly on working clothes and women's undergarments and shoes, were lower than in other cities.

Reviewing the outcome of the sub-committee's recommendations to the public through reports to Mrs. Ryan at other meetings, members of the committees reported that the "agitation and education of the public" in appealing to them to purchase the less expensive kinds of merchandise, had been successful and that there had been constantly an increasing demand for cheaper articles in all lines.

"This has been particularly noticeable in the grades intermediate between low and high priced clothing and other merchandise," one merchant said. "People are learning through this campaign to accept a new standard whereas before they were unwilling to judge anything except by its price."

Burglars Jimmy Padlock Under Rays of Arclight

NEW PROBATION OFFICER GIVEN FIRST PRISONER

Bailee Paroled From Two-Year Sentence by District Judge

Moses P. O'Brien, adult probation officer, received his first prisoner on parole yesterday when District Judge Troup imposed a sentence of two years on Charles Foley on a plea of guilty of larceny as a bailee, and paroled Foley during good behavior to Mr. O'Brien.

He will report to Mr. O'Brien every two weeks and, if his conduct is good during the two years will not be sent to the penitentiary.

"I am checking up on all the paroled persons left to me and am getting in touch with them," said Mr. O'Brien. "It is a very responsible position and one in which there are great possibilities for doing good to men that are temporarily down and out. I will assist them in getting employment and try to get them on the straight road."

"No, I haven't recommended any one for a pardon yet and don't intend to do anything of that sort, at least not for a good while, and only if I am thoroughly convinced of the merit of the case. If I do recommend any man for a pardon it will be only after consulting with the county attorney and the judge."
 Mr. O'Brien was appointed to succeed M. Andreasen after the latter was dismissed from the position for undue activities in getting a pardon for James C. ("Red") Donaghue, convicted of assault and battery on 19-year-old Marie Honach at Seventeenth and Center streets the night of August 17, 1919.

EXPECT DECISION ON COURT HOUSE BONDS IN WEEK

State Supreme Court Has Question Under Advisement—Attorneys Say Valid.

A decision on the validity of the $822,000 court house repair bonds is expected from the state supreme court within a week, County Attorney Shotwell said yesterday.

These bonds were refused by the Harris Trust and Savings company, after the company's bond attorney had examined them and after the company had bought them subject to this attorney's opinion.

All Omaha attorneys who examined the bonds declared their validity is unquestionable.

Work on repair of the court house is proceeding with $100,000 which was secured from the state of Nebraska which bought that amount of the bonds with funds in the state treasury. This sum has been almost used up and, if the supreme court should hold the bonds invalid, work on repairing the court house would be stopped pending further negotiations for funds.

County Attorney Shotwell declared today that he would favor dismissing all juries and suspending court trials in the district court for about three months this summer in order to allow the court house to be repaired.
 At present a number of offices are torn up while plasterers repair walls and ceilings. After this will be other gangs of workmen who will take the old paint from the portions of the walls not requiring replastering. Then the walls and woodwork will have to be painted. All this will involve great interference with the work of county officers.

retary of the "Women for Hitchcock" club, caused an uproar among the men in the lobby of the Hotel Fontenelle yesterday by leaning from the balcony of the mezzanine floor and asking one of her friends up to see her.
 "I'm on the other side of the fence—republican," her friend answered.
 "Well, then," came back Mrs. Bolin, "come up anyway. I know a man on that ticket that I want you to vote for."

Over The Political Fence

The decision of the state supreme court that John H. Morehead of Falls City, former governor, is legally entitled to have his name on the democratic primary ballots, presents a situation that promises to stir the democratic donkey into unwanted action.

It is no political secret that the Hitchcock-Mullen machine is supporting Ralph Clark of Stella, who resides in Mr. Morehead's home county. Mr. Clark has not made any denial to the reports that he is "wet." Mr. Morehead is reported to be in a mood just now to raise a little political dust through the state on his own account.

Elmer E. Thomas stated that he expected the dry democratic vote of Douglas county will go for former Speaker George W. Jackson of Nelson, in the democratic contest for gubernatorial nomination. Mr. Thomas looks for a general support of Jackson by the dries. Shortly before he filed, Mr. Jackson stated that he would not be affiliated with any faction. He was vice chairman of the constitutional convention.

Adam McMullen of Beatrice, candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination, here for a few days in the interest of his candidacy, asserted Tuesday that he is going to be nominated.

The election commissioner's office in the court house will be open until 9 p. m. on Thursday and Friday. Friday will be the last day to register for the April primary.

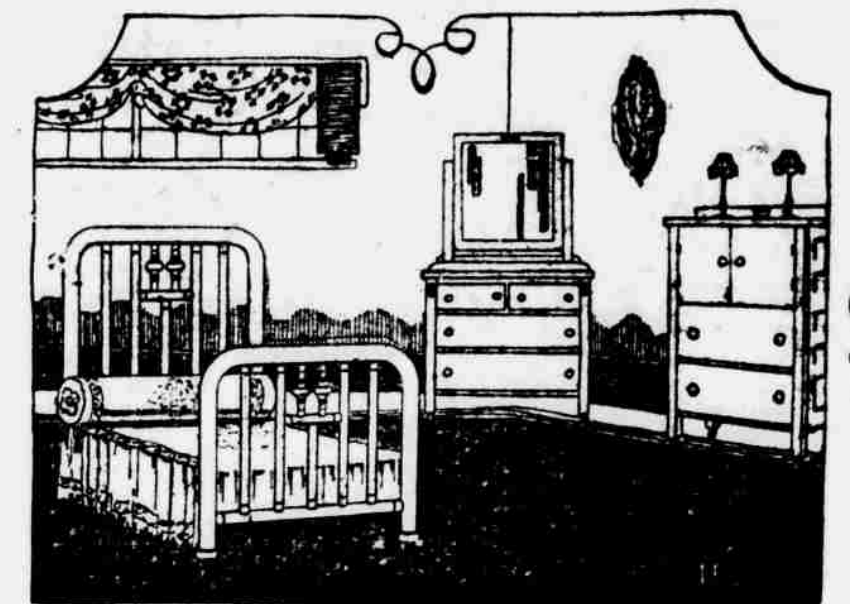

D. H. Bowman, republican candidate for state representative, is a native son of Omaha. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1916 and is now associated with F. D. Wead in the real estate business. He is one of Omaha's youngest business men and is qualified to serve as a legislator from Douglas county. He is making his political debut on this occasion and expects to be within the successful 12 nominees on April 20.

From driver of a laundry wagon 23 years ago, to president of one of Omaha's largest laundry industries, epitomizes the business career of Millard M. Robertson during a period of 30 years. He was filed by petitions signed by friends and associates from California and he wired his acceptance of the filing. He has never held public office. Those who are endeavoring to have him serve as one of the legislators from this county regard him as a man who is thoroughly acquainted with the needs of Omaha and the state. He is a practical business man and has the interests of all classes of citizens at heart. He is being drafted for the position by those who know him best.
