

WIFE AND SPOUSE NOW BLAMED FOR COST OF LIVING

Mrs. Ryan Thinks That if Women Kept Keener Eyes On Their Kitchen Needs Costs Would Decrease.

And now they even hold the innocent little housewife and her husband guilty for the high cost of living. Listen to this:

"Blame for the high cost of living seems to be placed at the door of everybody these days, and everybody makes loud cries in denials, but whenever it will ultimately rest, no small part of it can be surely traced to the little kitchen of the housewife who doesn't care," said Mrs. C. G. Ryan, federal fair price commissioner for Nebraska, Saturday at her Omaha headquarters in the federal building.

"Far too many housewives of today—especially the younger ones—though not all of them—judge purchases in meats, groceries and many other lines solely by the price. If the price is high the article must be good.

Hold Wrong Viewpoint.

"This is not always true. And much could be done toward lowering the family budget if women had more knowledge of what they are buying. This ignorance is especially amazing in regard to meat cuts. Many women don't know any more difference between a porterhouse steak and a Baltimore oyster than that one comes from an animal and the other from water.

Failure of women to utilize the cheaper cuts in accordance with the government's plan to concentrate on these in an effort to lower the price of the better cuts—the "fashionable" cuts—also is attributed to a desire for hasty preparation. New England boiled dinners and meat dishes of this character, requiring much cooking and attention, are held to be popular and shunned in proportion to the carelessness, extravagance and thriftlessness of the housewife who should prepare them.

Many Prefer Easier Way.

"Too many," said Mrs. Ryan, "prefer the easier way, which is the way of porterhouse steaks and other meats easily prepared. This also is noticeable in groceries where there is a heavy demand for foods already prepared, which always are higher in price.

"The government is attempting a campaign of education of housewives on the meat question, through charts. People should use more forequarter meats."

During the Save-Money-Over-Meat week campaign in Omaha, the federal fair price commission will be watching to make sure that no dealer tries to make the stimulated demand for cheaper cuts an occasion for illicit profits.

"The dealers should be able to sell, and undoubtedly will sell, on a closer margin, due to the fact that they will buy and sell these "unfashionable" cuts in larger quantities than usual. Substantial economies are open to the people if they only take advantage of them."

Asks Omaha to Adopt 200 Serbian Children Left Orphans by War

One Serbian orphan child "adopted" for every 1,000 persons in the United States is the aim of Miss Helen Losanitch of Belgrade, Serbia, who arrived in Omaha yesterday representing the Serbian Child Welfare association.

"It costs about $72 to adopt an orphan. Of course, they are left in their native country."

Miss Losanitch told of the hardships of the Serbians and the frightful sufferings under their three years of occupation by Austrian troops.

"We have between 60,000 and 70,000 full orphans and 500,000 children who have lost their fathers," she said.

"Ninety per cent of these poor children are diseased as a result of exposure."

Miss Losanitch met Miss Ann Gifford of Omaha when both were working in Serbia. They renewed their acquaintance Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held from the family home at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The body will be taken to St. Louis for burial.

The arrest of father and son grew out of their alleged refusal to accompany the arresting officer to Central police station.

"Summer White House" at Cape Cod Combines Greatest In Beauty With the Necessary Seclusion

Surroundings of Home President Wilson Will Occupy at Woods Hole Called Ideal.

By HERBERT CARYL, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Woods Hole, Mass., April 10.—Quaint old Cape Cod is busy these spring days "trimming ship" to be ready on June 15 to become the center of government and politics of the United States.

News that President Wilson had selected the beautiful 150-acre estate of Charles R. Crane on Juniper Point here as the "Summer White House" sent a thrill around the long arm of the picturesque peninsula.

And Cape Codders are determined that the president shall decide he made no mistake in coming among New England folks to find rest and health in the bracing salt air of the southern Massachusetts seaboard.

Already Albert C. Swain, caretaker of the Crane estate, has renovated the place so that the lawns are in perfect condition, the house is in readiness for instant occupancy and everything so prepared that the president and his official family could step off the train or the presidential yacht Mayflower and find comfort in five minutes.

Natural Beauty Spots.

The spot President and Mrs. Wilson have selected for the summer capital is a place of natural beauty combined with absolute seclusion. The estate of Mr. Crane, wealthy Chicagoan and recently appointed minister to China, covers the whole of Juniper Point, the very southwest tip of Cape Cod. It has sea on both sides, being the dividing point between Buzzards Bay to the west, Nantucket Sound to the east, and Vineyard Sound to the south.

There is a thick growth of woods in the rear. The Crane estate is one of the most completely isolated along this part of the coast.

For the most part of the estate, with its groves of native cedars on the grounds and its enormous boulders on the sea front, has been left in its primitive condition, though the approaches have been beautified. A long circling driveway passes through a gate in a wall, winds past a lodge, and leads to the garage and house.

The house, or "cottage" as it is known here, is a handsome three-story structure that was built half a century ago and has undergone numerous remodelings. A Japanese garden patterned after those in the orient, a broad lawn, artificial ponds, a tennis court, a private pier and a small bathing beach are the distinctive features of the grounds immediately surrounding the "cottage."

Large Triangular Lawn.

Facing south is a large triangular lawn, running down to the boat-house, another feature of the place. The boat-house is the coolest nook of the whole estate, and here the president is expected to spend much of his time. In this retreat are more than 1,000 books gathered from all quarters of the globe.

On one edge of the lawn near the house is a sunken rose garden in the center of which a statue fountain is located. Somewhat beyond this garden is the flagpole, with the Stars and Stripes floating in the breeze.

An especially interesting spot on the grounds is the load stone, known as Cape Codders as a trysting place and lovers' rendezvous. Sweethearts of many generations, says village gossip, have climbed up the back of the stone and, seated upon it, looked over the islands sprinkled through the sound.

A short distance from the load stone is the greenhouse, presided over by a Scotch gardener, "Jimmie Goodfellow." Near the greenhouse is the huge vegetable patch, from which the president may have fresh vegetables throughout the summer. Few flowers grown in America are missing from the big flower garden which stands near the vegetable patch.

Splendid Tennis Court.

On the two tennis courts, one of clay and the other turf, many famous American court champions have played. Miss Marion Fennel, second in the last United States doubles championship, and her brother, Brooks Fennel, of the Harvard, 1919, tennis team, are among those that can vouch for the excellence of the courts.

President Wilson likes golf. About a mile away from the estate is the Woods Hole Golf club, an 18-hole course, swept in the summer by the cool breezes from the Atlantic.

From the house which sets on the peak of the vast estate there is a commanding view of Vineyard Sound, the spot where President Cleveland fished; the duck hunting rendezvous of Roosevelt, Martha's Vineyard; Nantucket sound and the broad expanse of sea that lies between the United States and the rest of the League of Nations.

At the top of the house is a cupola which it is believed will be chosen by the president as his private den. There is no better view of the sea and the cape than up in this "crow's nest."

Philadelphia leads the world in the manufacture of woolen goods, carpets, textiles, locomotives, steel ships, leather, storage batteries, street cars, saws, dental instruments, hosiery, talking machines and felt hats.

Made Assistant Treasurer

Almon A. Taggart, for the last five years auditor of the Iten Biscuit company, has been named assistant treasurer of the firm by the board of directors, effective May 1. Mr. Taggart served as the first credit and office manager of the company when it was organized in Omaha in 1908. Mr. Taggart's headquarters will remain in Omaha.

There are now in this country 132 factories producing passenger automobiles in more than 400 different styles and models. To provide these cars with tires will mean the importation of from 175,000 to 200,000 tons of rubber, 70 per cent of which will be made into 40,000,000 casings and an equal number of tires.

May Buy Burglary Insurance at Rates In Force Before April

Pleasing tidings for humble householders were announced yesterday by the Harry A. Koch Co., to the effect that burglary insurance is to be obtainable in Omaha at rates prevailing before April 1, when an increase of 15 per cent for residence insurance was made effective.

Instructions to that effect were received Saturday, Harry Koch said. No reason for the cancellation of the increase was given by the home office, he said, but it was his belief that the removal was general among several companies in a large number of cities.

Since January 1, rates in Omaha had advanced 35 per cent. Mr. Koch said, 20 per cent at the beginning of the year and 15 per cent April 1. With 20 per cent increases for 1919, the rate has been 55 per cent higher than it was 15 months ago.

What Will Your Truck Driver Save You This Year

HAULAGE conditions here in town will undergo a big change, within the next year or so.

Merchants are putting their transportation on a more "brass tacks" basis. Big savings will be made.

It seems that the merchants who are making a haulage "profit" keep in touch with their drivers.

They receive first-hand information as to which truck is most economical to operate and maintain—the truck freest from repairs—or the truck which is quickest and easiest to handle.

It is interesting to note that the men who have learned Packard facts in this way
