WHY SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR

They do, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. They have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only.

Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple home-made canthorox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about 3 cents a shampoo by getting some canthorox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you.

HEALTH STRENGTH ENDURANCE NUXATED RON

TRADE BOOSTERS TO TAP WESTERN NEBRASKA TOWNS

Omaha Merchants and Manufacturers to Make Seven-Day Excursion Beginning on May 23.

Although the itinerary of the trade excursion planned by the Chamber of Commerce, to start May 23, was only announced yesterday, several Omaha merchants and manufacturers have signed for the trip.

The territory to be tapped this year includes southwestern Nebraska, southeastern Wyoming and northeastern Colorado. A special train will leave Omaha the evening of May 23, and will return May 30.

The first leg of the trip will be over the Burlington and the first stop at Imperial, the morning of May 24. During that day stops will be made at all towns between there and Holdrege. The party will spend the night at Holdrege and on May 25 will proceed to Sterling, Colo.

The train will transfer to the Union Pacific line at Sterling to run into Cheyenne. The next day will be consumed visiting towns between Cheyenne and Denver. The schedule provides that the train reach Denver at 4-30 in the afternoon. On May 27 the party will go to McCook, Neb., over the Burlington again. From there it is routed to Superior and on May 29 from Superior to Hastings, the last stop.

The red, yellow and green umbrellas that have marked previous trade excursions will again be the standards borne by the argonauts. White hats, with bands of Ak-Sar-Ben colors will be the official headgear. Souvenirs in the shape of squawkers and balloons will be distributed, as well as many individual advertising novelties furnished by firms represented.

H. G. Hoel, chairman of the trade extension committee that arranged the trip, declared yesterday it will set a new high mark in size and enthusiasm. All Omaha concerns interested are anxious to pay another visit to the territory to be covered, he said, as all are convinced it offers a rich market that can easily be improved.

Name Council Committee For Rerouting Street Cars

Mayor Smith and Commissioners Towl and Ringer were appointed yesterday as a city council "traffic and transit" committee to investigate proposals for rerouting of street cars in several sections of the city.

The committee survey of street car routings was urged after representatives of the Clifton Hill Improvement club appeared before council and asked that Deaf Institute cars be shifted to follow the same routing as Cuming and Fortieth cars.

Changes considered advisable will be taken up with the street car company and state railway commission.

The police emergency car was dispatched at once but upon arrival at the hotel it was found that Tom Johnson of Clemons, Mo., had not taken poison but was merely in possession of a bottle of "bitters."

Johnson explained that a cloth covered with blood found at the side of his bed was the result of "nose-bleed."

Reject $148,000 Appraisal In Brown Park Project

City commissioners voted yesterday to reject the appraisal of $148,000 on land and buildings comprised in the 70-acre tract proposed to be included in the Brown park project in southeastern Omaha. The park project has been hanging fire for several months.

On suggestion of Mayor Smith, Commissioner Towl agreed to bring in modified plans, restricting the proposed park area and reducing the cost which a majority of the commissioners considered excessive.

JOHNSON DENIES ANY COMBINATION WITH WOOD FORCES

Senator Calls on Republican Women at Their Headquarters and Explains His Views.

"There is no combination between myself and the Wood people in Nebraska," replied Senator Hiram Johnson when quizzed yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Draper Smith, chairman of the republican women's committee.

The senator accompanied by E. L. Bradley, called for a social visit, but before he left, the women put him through something of a third degree.

Mrs. Draper asserted that she understood that Frank Harrison, Johnson's campaign manager in Nebraska, had arranged some kind of a combination involving the Johnson candidacy and the Wood delegates and she said she believed the women wanted to know all about this affair.

The senator graciously told the women that there was no combination so far as he was concerned; that he understood the Nebraska delegates would support the primary choice.

Mrs. Smith asked the senator for an expression on the league of nations and why he opposed the league so vociferously.

"I yield to no mother in her desire for peace," he replied, "but I will not lend myself to any plan that may require the sending of your son or my son to police the world. The burden that would be imposed by article 10 would be too great for us to assume; it would tie us up every war in the future. It is quite natural that Europe should want a partnership with us."

The senator and the women sat around in a circle and chatted informally.

Freight Congestion Brings Products Here by Airplane

Credit checks entitling the bearer to $1 worth of Cook's paints will be thrown from the machine over cities enroute. This is probably the first shipment of paint by airplane and is due to arrive in Omaha Tuesday afternoon.

WHY?—Do We "See Stars" When Struck On the Head?

(Copyright 1920 By Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Each of the five senses—sight, hearing, feeling, taste and touch—has its special set of nerves through which sensations are recorded in the brain. With the exception of the nerves of touch, which extend to all parts of the body, these perform special functions for certain individual organs—the nerves of sight being connected with the eye, those of smell with the nose, those of taste with the mouth and those of hearing with the ears.

Whenever the brain receives a sudden shock, such as would follow a blow on the head, the vision nerves are disturbed in such a way as to produce the effect of seeing flashes of light or "stars" as the resultant impression is usually called. The extremely sensitive eye nerves cannot be jarred without producing this effect of light—while a severe blow will often react in a similar manner upon the nerves of hearing, thus leading the person who is struck to imagine that he is listening to odd, unusual sounds.

Dirt Begins to Fly as "Cleanup Week" Opens

Yesterday was the first day of "Cleanup Week" officially designated by Mayor Smith.

Aided by clear weather, citizens and haulers of refuse and garbage were making deep impressions on the accumulations of winter dirt.

Health Commissioner J. F. Edwards was pleased at the start made and the interest shown.

"A clean city is a healthful city," is his slogan.

Owing to the shortage of coal the glass industry in Bavaria is badly crippled, and many plants have been compelled to close down.

TWIN STORIES BY LUCY FITCH PERKINS

The Dutch Twins Meet the Dominie.

"The dikes have to be watched and mended all the time," said Father Vedder. "And the windmills have to work and work to keep the fields drained. No one can be lazy in Holland. Each one has to work well for what he gets. If Holland should grow lazy she would soon be back again in the Zuider Zee! So, my children, you see you must learn well and work hard. And that is all my sermon today."

"Read tomorrow: 'The Dutch Twins at Church.'"

I'M THE GUY!

By R. H. ALLIE.

I'M THE GUY who expectorates in your waste basket when he's chewing tobacco.

Why shouldn't I? I've got to spit. The waste basket's handy.

What difference does it make if you have a cuspidor somewhere around? I can't bother to get up and locate it.

I know the waste basket wasn't intended for that purpose. It's a receptacle for trash; but it can serve a double duty if necessary.

Just because you think it unsightly is no proof that it is. Besides I'm not going to be there long. So it won't bother me.

And anyway you shouldn't be so finicky about such things. A waste basket's fit for only bunk stuff and makes as good a cuspidor as it does a waste basket.

If you don't like it, that's your worry, not mine. Have a cuspidor handy. Don't kick. Turn your head away and dump it out when I leave. That's how I feel about it.

"Thermos Bottle House" Is Invention of Omahan

Air castles are to become a reality; and they will batter down the high cost of building, according to David C. Patterson, Omaha lawyer, who has just been notified that his patent for "thermos bottle houses" has been approved by the United States government.

Mr. Patterson has invented mechanism to work re-enforced concrete in the construction of homes and buildings, into double walls confining a continuous dead air space.

This dead air space, which will not only be in the walls, but also in the roof and under the basement, will keep the interior of the building warm in winter and cool in summer on the same plan as the thermos bottle, Mr. Patterson claims.

The walls can be constructed for one-half the cost, per square foot, of frame walls, and for one-third the cost of brick walls, according to Mr. Patterson, who says that his "thermos bottle house" can be heated in winter with one-half the fuel, and that electric fans in summer will be unnecessary. Mr. Patterson has applied for foreign patents.

Before the war there were 213 sugar factories in France, while now there are only 51.

Grandfather and Grandmother. Grandfather looked very fine indeed in his black clothes, and Grandmother was all dressed up in her best black dress, with a fresh white cap, and a shawl over her shoulders. She carried a large psalm book with golden clasps in one hand and a scent bottle in the other. She had some peppermints, too. Kit and Kat smelled them.

"Read tomorrow: 'The Dutch Twins at Church.'"

"Tut, tut! You must never say such things," said Father Vedder. He got up and held out his hands to the twins.

"Come, we must walk along, or we shall be late for church," he said. "Here comes the Dominie now."

There indeed was the Dominie! Kit and Kat knew him well. No one else dressed as he did. He wore a high silk hat, and long, black coat and trousers, such as city people wear.

As he came along the road all the people bowed respectfully; the little boys took off their caps and the little girls bobbed a courtesy. Kit and Kat bobbed and courted, too.

and the Dominie smiled at them and laid his hand on Kit's head.

"I wish he'd come to see us again," said Kit after the Dominie had passed by.

Father Vedder was pleased. "I am glad to see that you love your pastor, my son," he said.

"Well," said Kit, "I don't really like him so very much, because we have to be washed and recite the catechism, and mind all our manners when he comes. But mother always has such good things to eat when the Dominie comes—doesn't she, Kat?—cake and preserves—and everything."

"If it weren't for the catechism and such things it would be something like St. Nicholas day," sighed Kat. "But the Dominie never forgets! And last time I couldn't tell what saying grace was. The cakes are good, but—"

"Good Dutch boys and girls always learn their catechism well," said Father Vedder; "then they are glad to see the good Dominie as well as the cakes. Now no more chatter. Here is a penny for each of you to put in the bag when it is passed."

He gave them each a penny. Kit put his in his pocket. Kat didn't have a pocket, so she held hers tight in her hand.

Armed Women Shoot Dogs That Make Raid On Coop of Chickens

Three dogs, a bull pup, Shepherd and Airedale, raided a flock of Rhode Island Red chickens in a coop in the rear of the home of Mrs. Robert Nay, 4626 Bedford avenue, Monday. Six hens were killed.

Summaring Mrs. H. Arnold, 4625 Bedford avenue; Mrs. Emma Martin, 4547 Bedford avenue, and Mrs. Victor Gowan, 4706 Bedford avenue, Mr. Nay attacked.

Mrs. Arnold was armed with a shotgun and Mrs. Nay with an automatic revolver. They laid down a barrage which ended in the death of the Shepherd and Airedale, but the bull pup escaped.

Soon, however, bull pup appeared with his master, who claimed to be the owner of all three dogs. He demanded retribution for his dead dogs.

He soon departed when Mrs. Nay brandished her revolver. Police were called to quell the disturbance.

Said Theodore ROOSEVELT:

"EVEN men who are not professionally religious must, if they are frank, admit that no community permanently prospers, either morally or materially, unless the church is a real and vital element in the community life."

Put a church in a town and all real estate values increase.

Put a church in a town and it becomes at once a center of inspiration for better schools, better politics and general community improvement.

Put a church in a town and you insure a community where law and order reign, where the personal and property rights of men and women are respected, where children grow up trained in the ideals that have made America great.

Kill the church and you kill the Voice that is constantly calling men to more unselfish living.

Kill the church and you cut the nerve of your hospitals, your colleges, your civic organizations and even of respect for government itself.

Thirty denominations, realizing that the problems facing them are too great to be solved by any one denomination alone, are cooperating in a great forward campaign under the name of the Interchurch World Movement.
