

OMAHANS MAY LIVE IN TENTS THIS SUMMER

Bill to Permit Citizens Here and Elsewhere to Borrow Army Tents for Purpose Introduced.

"We're tenting tonight on the old park grounds," may be a popular song in Omaha this summer unless the house shortage is relieved, in the opinion of J. M. Gillan, industrial manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gillan has been notified that a bill to permit Omaha and other cities of the country to borrow tents from the War department for summer housing use this year will soon be passed.

If it is actually passed, the serious problem of finding houses for residents will be solved, at least until fall, and Omaha's vacant land will be turned into tent cities, he says.

Tents on Public Squares. Senator Harding of Ohio, who introduced the "tent" bill, suggested that tents be raised on the squares and recreation grounds in crowded cities.

Park Commissioner Falconer announced today that he thought the plan was "feasible" and that he would look into the matter.

"We already have a small space on the east side of Carter lake reserved for tenters," he said, "and it has been very popular. If tents are furnished by the government I suppose we will have to enlarge the space or find other places for them."

Don't Need Tents. "How about Jefferson square?" Mr. Falconer was asked.

"They seem to get along without tents there," replied the commissioner.

Col. G. S. Bingham, zone surplus supply officer here, said there was a large quantity of tents in Omaha depots that would be turned over to the public when the bill is passed.

"Wouldn't mind living in one myself," he smiled. "Like old times. Plenty of fresh air, too."

May Establish Omaha as Honey Distribution Center. In response to a request received yesterday from the Nebraska Honey Producers' association, the agricultural bureau of the Chamber of Commerce is investigating the establishment in Omaha of a distributing agency, to handle honey produced in Nebraska and western Iowa.

According to the honey producers, the market for honey is good in this state, but distribution has always been poorly organized. There is opportunity, the bee keepers insist, for a firm to establish a prosperous honey business at Omaha.

H. F. McIntosh, manager of the bureau, plans to take up the matter with syrup manufacturers and jobbers and wholesale grocers at once.

Machine Gun Squads To Be Part of Police Department Parade

Two machine gun squads, composed entirely of men who saw world war service as machine gunners, will form a part of the annual downtown police parade this afternoon.

Police Commissioner Ringer announced yesterday spectators also will get their first view of the recently organized police platoon equipped with automatic shotguns and fixed bayonets, equipment used in trench fighting in France.

The policemen, augmented in numbers to 300 since the court house riot of last September, will form the parade at Thirteenth street and Capitol avenue at 2:15 this afternoon. They will march south to Douglas street, west on Douglas to Sixteenth, south to Farnam and west on Farnam to the inspection field at Thirty-second street and Dewey avenue.

Mayor Smith, Police Commissioner Ringer and other commissioners will review the parade from steps of the city hall and later will inspect the men. The mayor and Commissioner Ringer are scheduled for speeches.

ALL REPUBLICANS IN STATE ASKED TO AID McMULLEN

Committee Signs Report, Copy Of Which Will Be Mailed Nebraska Voters.

J. C. Kinsler, W. G. Ure, Franklin A. Shotwell and Victor D. Reynolds, constituting a conference committee to promote the candidacy of Adam McMullen, republican candidate for governor, have signed the following statement which will be sent to republicans of the state as quickly as the printing and mailing work can be accomplished:

There is a wide-spread belief that a majority of republicans throughout Nebraska will not vote to renominate Governor McKelvie not because of indifference but because of a positive, deep-seated opposition.

"If this is true, and the governor is renominate by a plurality vote, due to five other candidates in the field, the result will spell defeat of the republican party in Nebraska in November, especially to candidates on county tickets.

"In view of these facts, it is prudent and wise to suggest concentration of opposition to Governor McKelvie.

"This suggestion is due to a desire to serve the republican party.

"Since the party in Douglas county, without regard to faction, has joined to support Adam McMullen, in order to insure his nomination, we suggest that you do likewise."
