

CONGRESS TAKES UP PROBLEMS OF U. S. TRADE SHIPS

Two Days' Conference, During Which Future Policy Will Be Formulated, Opens In Washington.

Washington, April 15.—Data bearing on problems of the shipping board in its operation of and disposition to private ownership of the government's merchant marine was submitted today to business men of the country and chairmen of congressional committees who began a two days' conference here with members of the board.

Two former chairmen of the board, Secretary of Interior Payne and Edward A. Hurley of Chicago, were among those present. The men advising with the board represent the country's greatest commercial and industrial interests.

Particular importance attaches to the point of view of the leaders of industries in the middle west. Officials of the board declared. There people have been accustomed to think in terms of ships, and it is especially desired that they be awakened to the necessity for an American merchant marine to transport the nation's commerce.
