Commentaries

Yankee Sullivan, at present a resident of Omaha, won a knockout victory in Lusk, Wyo., Monday night and the hearty acclaim of the illustrious Wyoming oil city.

Sullivan, who recently moved to Omaha from Boston, weighs but 120 pounds, but has a wallop like a heavyweight. At Lusk he fought Kid Ross, a tough Wyoming boy, and knocked the Kid down seven times in a round and a half.

The first punch Sully handed the Kid went straight to the Wyoming lad's jaw and dropped him. Incidentally it broke two knuckles of Sullivan's right hand.

The referee, who was Kid Ross' manager, stopped the first round at the end of two minutes and gave his fighter an extra minute before round 2. Ross weighed 132.

Earl Caddock is the greatest wrestler in the world in the opinion of Des Moines mat fans. When the Anita lad dumped Wladek Zbyszko in the Iowa capital last week $10,000 worth of Caddock boosters packed the big coliseum. When Zibzy was thrown into the ropes in the first fall he refused to come back for the second and the audience to a man screamed their applause for the young Iowan.

Auburn, Neb., April 16.—(Special.)—In a handicap match here, between Billy Edwards of Nebraska City and Charlie Miller, the middleweight wrestling champion for North and South Dakota, Miller was the victor. According to the challenge Edwards was to throw his opponent twice in an hour and 15 minutes. Edwards was unable to secure a fall and Miller put up a pretty offensive and defensive fight all the way through.

Army Meat In Omaha To Be Placed On Sale Within a Short Time

Col. G. A. Bingham, depot officer in charge of army stores for the Omaha district, has received telegrams from Washington directing him to forward a detailed report concerning the amount of meat available in this zone as a part of the government's plan to self-supply army supplies in Omaha.

Colonel Bingham said yesterday that the meat would be placed on sale as soon as possible.

The action of the government has resulted from the railway strike and is proposed to relieve the food shortage by arranging for the sale of meats through agencies, buying associations or recognized distributors of food. None will be sold direct to the consumer.

According to the plan the beef will be offered in quantities of eight quarters or more at 10 1/2 cents a pound, unfrosted for consumption.

Canned roast beef, pound cans, 24 to the case, will be sold for 15 cents a can; No. 2 cans, (24 ounces) 24 to the case, 25 cents per can; two-pound cans, 24 to the case, 30 cents a can; six-pound cans, 12 to the case, 85 cents a can. The minimum quantity of any sized cans which will be sold is 10 cases.

Boy Who Said He Was Kidnaped by Gypsies Is Taken to Kearney

Florin Wiesner, the "mystery boy" whose identity puzzled Council Bluffs police for several days, is in the hands of the Omaha juvenile authorities and will be taken to the Kearney Industrial school today row by Superintendent Clark, who is coming for him.

Florin wants to go. He will not be a stranger there, as he is a "graduate" and a "post graduate" of the institution, having served two terms there.

"I want to go back to Kearney," said Florin to Probation Officer Eloise Virtue, "because I want to be a real man."

Florin mystified the Council Bluffs police by telling them a fanciful tale about having traveled for years with horse traders and having no name but "Buddy." He is a son of W. J. Wiesner, 1755 Davenport street.

Jack Lelivelt, Omaha manager, sprained his ankle in the sixth inning and had to retire from the game, Palmero taking his place at first base and performing like he had always played there instead of pitching.

In the first inning Omaha started to drive Rolfe off the rubber, scoring three runs on Gishson's single to center, Weidel's sacrifice, Donica's single to right, Lelivelt's single through the box and Lingle's double.

Omaha scored two more runs in the eighth on Lingle's base on balls and Maulin's perfect bunt, beating the ball to first. ## W. J. Connell Recalls Early Days In Omaha With Theodore N. Vail

"I well remember Theodore N. Vail," said W. J. Connell yesterday. "He, his wife and a little children lived in a three-room cottage on Twenty-fifth avenue, near St. Marys avenue. He was a railway mail clerk and was studying law in the same office with me, that of Colonel Chase, father of Clement Chase.

"I was elected district attorney. I remember he said to me, 'If I could only be elected to that office after you get through with it, I think I would be made in the law.' The office paid a salary of $1,500.

"Before my term was up he had been called to Washington and then became interested in the Bell Telephone company and in telegraphs and went right up from there. He died worth $5,000,000.

"When he lived in Omaha I was up at his house every Sunday for dinner. When he built his beautiful home in Boston I was there several times and also at his big estate in Vermont. For many years his aged father and mother lived with him and they had the finest apartment in the house."

C. E. Adams, Not Davis, Pershing Candidate As District Delegate

In the sample republican ballot, "female," printed in The Bee Thursday evening, the name of C. E. Davis was erroneously entered in place of C. E. Adams, as district delegate to the national convention. While it is generally known that Captain Adams is the Pershing candidate for district delegate, the error caused a little confusion. The mistake was due to the copy furnished by H. G. Moorhead, election commissioner.

Another error was noted in the sample nonpartisan ballot, "female," wherein the election commissioner's copy read "Vote for one," instead of "Vote for three," of the six municipal court candidates.
