

CALLS PROFITEER WORST MENACE WITHIN NATION

Members of Kwanis Club Hear H. R. Best Outline Principles of Interchurch World Movement.

The broad principles of the Interchurch World Movement were briefly outlined to members of the Omaha Kiwanis club by H. R. Best, divisional secretary in charge of the work in Nebraska and Iowa, at the regular luncheon in the palm room of Hotel Fontenelle yesterday.

"This is a world-wide movement of members of all religions—and those who are not—especially appealing to business men, applicable to trade and morals, Americanization and every fundamental principle of right that, following the war, has made the U. S. a leader of all nations," Mr. Best said. "The work to be done will be the result of an international survey of the world's religious needs. You business men cannot afford to witness the recession of the moral leadership of the world, now invested in the U. S. as the outcome of the war, and that is what is taking place."

Beast By Many Dangers.

"The country is beset by many dangers, but the most dangerous bolshevist or vicious anarchist is more patriotic and less hurtful than profiteers who take advantage of the ignorance of the people."

Mr. Hart spoke instead of the Rev. Edwin H. Jenks of First Presbyterian church who was to have talked on "Spiritual Resources of Omaha."

E. D. White was made the Kiwanis representative on the Americanization organization committee headed by Dr. E. C. Henry, which will make plans for an "Americanization Week" to be observed in Omaha on Saturday, May 1, and which will be marked by a half-holiday and a parade that day.

H. E. Griffin was the toastmaster at the meeting, which was largely attended, a number of members bringing guests. As his gift to members of the club Mr. Griffin presented them with small desk mirrors with "Kiwanis club" inscribed on the back.

Elks to Show a Great Film for Benefit of Soldiers

Educators must continue to learn in order to continue to teach effectively, according to Edward W. Stitt, district superintendent of schools of the department of education, New York City. Mr. Stitt emphasized this principle in advocating that the teachers under his direction take opportunities to see the great vocational training motion picture play, "The Way Back."

This film drama, produced by the Elks' War Relief commission with the assistance of the government, is the vehicle selected to bring to the attention of men, formerly in the armed service of the United States and the public what is being done to rehabilitate disabled service men through vocational training. The federal program for vocational training is twined about and outlined by a dramatic story of the utmost interest.

The picture, with the accompanying three reel feature, "The Spirit of Elkdom," will be presented by the Omaha Elks at the Brandeis theater, opening with a matinee next Sunday, April 18, 3 p. m., for 10 performances, two each evening, 7 and 9 p. m., and a Wednesday matinee at 3 o'clock.

Widow of Nebraska Territorial Pioneer Dies in Omaha Home

Mrs. Mary E. Parker, 89, a Nebraska territorial pioneer, died Friday in her home, 6404 Maple street.

The dead woman was born in 1831 at Columbus, O., and was married in 1850 to James Monroe Parker. The couple came to Nebraska in 1863 by the prairie schooner route and located at Twenty-fourth and Dodge streets. Before leaving for Washington county in 1870 to take up a homestead, Mr. Parker sold the property for $1,800.

The family lived in Washington county for many years and in Ken- nard, Neb., where Mr. Parker died in 1909, when Mrs. Parker removed to Benson.

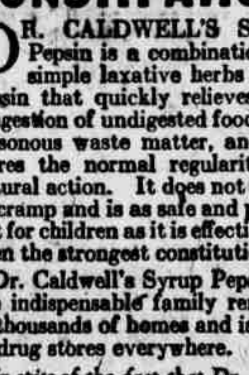

She was the mother of eight children, of whom there survive two sons, Frank and Kirby Parker of Benson and three daughters, Mrs. Kate P. Fodrea, Cambridge, Neb.; Mrs. Jennie E. Graham, Chicago; and Mrs. Alice A. Shaffer, Pine Bluff, Ark. They are eight grandchildren, including Irene Parker, Mrs. Phoebe, Kate Nelsen and Penn P. Fodrea of Omaha. There are also six great-grandchildren, including Misses Nellie, Frances and Maude Fodrea of Omaha.

Funeral services will be held in the family residence at 1 p. m. Sunday, the seventieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Parker's wedding. Interment will be in the family lot in the Blair, Neb., cemetery.

The pallbearers, who are sons and grandsons, will be Frank Parker, Kirby Parker, James Allan, Penn P. Fodrea, George Nelsen and Rob Jeffrey.
