My HEART and My HUSBAND

By ADELE GARRISON Why Lillian Demanded a Certain Answer From Alice. I am ashamed to confess that I watched Alice Holcombe's face as keenly as did Lillian while we waited for her answer to the question Lillian had asked concerning Kenneth Stockbridge's possible interest in some woman other than his wife. I had long wondered whether or not she had suspected the love for herself which Kenneth Stockbridge had so sternly suppressed, so long kept secret. As I watched her and compared her face with the pictured counterfeit which I had found inadvertently in the principal's desk, I thought with a swift little pang that it was well that Fate had loved her could not see what ravages sorrow for him had made upon her face. "My thorny sweet rose," Kenneth Stockbridge had written across the face of that photograph and had locked it away, as he supposed, safe from all human gaze, well Fate willed that I should see it, and it was a certainty that poor Milly Stockbridge had found it the last day she came to the school house. That the discovery of her husband's love for Alice Holcombe was the thing which led her to the frenzy which led to her death by her own hand or another's I was sure. It seemed almost an impossibility that Alice herself should be in total ignorance of her old playmate's sentiments concerning her. "But, incredible as it seems, I read in her face as Lillian put the question that she had no suspicion of the truth. There was honest negation in her eyes as she answered: "No, I do not think there was anyone else." "Did Mrs. Stockbridge know her husband did not love her?" "I think she suspected it," Alice Holcombe replied, "although Kenneth never by word or look gave her reason to do so. In fact, I have often thought that he was kinder to her because he did not love her than he would have been to a woman he really cared for. He seemed to be on his guard constantly." "Of course," Lillian assented, absently, as if her thoughts were elsewhere. "Mrs. Graham tells me that she had been sent to a sanitarium by her people several times. That would strongly indicate insanity incipient if not developed. Did you ever know whether at those times she was angry at her husband, revengeful against him or cherished the idea of injuring herself?" "Both," Alice Holcombe returned. "Her whole idea seemed to be to hurt herself in some way and to blame him for it. She was always declaring that he kicked her or struck her, and she would show the bruises to prove her statement. Then afterwards she would weep, beg his pardon before everybody, and show clearly without any doubt that she had been lying. And now—her people are using those very incidents, distorting them against Kenneth." "Ah!" The exclamation breathed by Lillian was so low that I hardly heard it. As I glanced at her her eyes were glittering pin points, the lids narrowed as I had seen them only when she was fretting out a difficult trail. "Did she ever tell you these things and afterward confess the falsehood?" she asked presently. "Often," Alice Holcombe replied. "You can remember them distinctly, could swear to them if necessary." "Yes, but oh—will I have to—" She stopped, threw up her head bravely. "Please forgive my weakness," she said. "I—I am not quite myself. Of course I will do anything that is necessary." "That is better," Lillian said gravely, for across her face had crept a tinge of the disdain she feels for faltering. "And it is more than probable that you will never have to appear in court. Now, one question more, and we can turn our attention to a more important subject. Do you know what familiarity Mrs. Stockbridge had with poisons?" "She knew all about them," Alice Holcombe replied. "Her uncle is a druggist, and she helped in the store when a girl. But she attempted to poison Kenneth and herself on one occasion, and they have carefully guarded her access to poisons ever since. Kenneth kept his photographic stuff in an iron-bound chest, padlocked, and she was never allowed alone in her uncle's establishment. Another relative is a physician, and he warned his fellow practitioners in the neighboring villages, so that she could get no prescription with poison in it anywhere. "Nice ashine stunt of your friend keeping photographic stuff in the house with her if he had it guarded by 20 iron-bound boxes," Lillian commented. "It's the only ugly thing in this whole business. But let's forget all these troublesome questions—you've been a brick, Miss Holcombe, and I thank you—and turn our attention to Mr. Jake Wilsey, alias George Bridgeham, alias John Hambridge." (Continued Tomorrow.) Entertains at Tea. Mrs. L. M. Lord entertained at a tea at her home, Sunday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. John Slaker of Hastings. Pink roses and staphylococci were used through the rooms. The guests numbered 36. Mrs. E. H. Barrett assisted the hostess. Mrs. Slaker left Monday for David City.

Omaha Gas Co. 1509 Howard Street

VOTE FOR C. G. CARLBERG, Republican Candidate for State Senate

NEWS ITEM—The General Manager of the Water Board, who takes over management of Gas Plant under city ownership, has requested City Council to make provision to pay off $1,000,000 of gas bonds each five years. He states that under city ownership rate should be $1.35.

I stand for Dollar Gas, knowing that it is a possibility by virtue of the purchase of the Gas Plant by the city of Omaha. Occupation taxes and general taxes now paid by the Gas Company, as well as the annual dividends paid to its stockholders, will be eliminated under municipal ownership. However, if it is the intention of the general manager to pay off $1,000,000 in debt each five years, we will not get Dollar Gas. It is a gross injustice to saddle the entire cost of this plant on this generation in order to present the next generation with a debt free Gas Plant. We are entitled to Dollar gas NOW. There is no justice in paying $1.35 for gas in order that we may be generous to posterity. If the repayment of the Gas Bonds is spread over a period of fifty years we will get Dollar gas immediately, but if we are to pay for the plant in fifteen years we will have to pay more for gas than we did under private ownership. If nominated and elected to the State Senate I pledge myself to promote legislation that will insure Dollar Gas NOW. I earnestly solicit your support at the primaries, April 20.

Does 3¢ = Americanism?

Did you know that 3c is MORE than the churches average from each member per day?

WE AMERICANS may be thoughtless. Sometimes we may appear selfish. But when a great need arises, no one can say that we have ever shirked.

Ask any son of France. Ask any soldier of Great Britain. Or ask any Armenian mother or a girl with a red cross on her sleeve or one with a tambourine in her hand.

And now the churches come to us for help—our churches. Not begging. Not asking alms. But with heads lifted high facing a task so worthy that we, as loyal Americans, ought to feel it a privilege to help.

Here is the Plain, Unvarnished Truth

We don't need to be told that the church is the heart of the Nation. We admit its influence for lasting good in our children. We see its stabilizing influence on our communities. We know a little of its great hospitals, its homes for children, its schools and colleges here and abroad.

But most of us do not realize how pitifully inadequate the support of the churches is when compared to the urgent needs.

Less than 3¢ a day!

In spite of the great tasks which we expect our churches to carry out, those of us who give to the church—and the number is all too few—are now giving an average of less than 3¢ a day for all church purposes.

Less than 3¢ a day.

Shall our churches go on? It is for you to say.

Without your help the work of your church must be just that much less.

Give—and give from your heart as well as from your pocketbook.

A World Survey Was Made

Our churches know the needs that must be met. They know exactly how every dollar—every penny—will be used for the greatest good without waste. A world survey was made by the churches that astounds business men in its thoroughness. County after county was studied; the countries of the world were visited and reported in minute detail.

How the Interchurch World Movement Originated

Our churches said: "The task of meeting the urgent needs shown by the world survey is too great for us to do individually as denominations. We must do this work together."

So thirty great denominations are cooperating—each keeping its own purpose and identity—but all working together under the name of the Interchurch World Movement.

Because of this cooperation, it is estimated that over one million dollars will be saved alone in eliminating waste and duplication.
