DIRECTION TUESDAY MUSICAL CLUB

WHETHER tumbling about as the doddering old King Dodon in his remarkable presentation of Rimsky-Korsakoff's Coq d'Or (Staged for the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York); whether mincing through the amenities of the Menuet; or whirling, leaping, staggering under the madness of the music of the Tatar, Bolm is master of interpretative dancing and pantomime, and by the same sign also a very advanced musician.

Adolph Bolm finds the Duo-Art Piano indispensable in his work. In his studio this wonderful instrument means that he has at his command the masterpieces of music literature as interpreted by the greatest pianists of our time.

THE DUO-ART
