

FEARS ANOTHER CLASH AMONG WORLD NATIONS

Will Come Within Next 35 Years, According to Wisconsin Professor Who Speaks Here.

Dr. E. A. Ross, head of the department of political and social economy of the University of Wisconsin, believes that another international cataclysm will occur during the next 35 years and probably not sooner than 20 years, unless some stabilizing medium such as the league of nations shall be established.

Dr. Ross is eminent as a student of the underlying causes of disturbance in nations and in the world. He has written books and has traveled extensively. He is in Omaha today to deliver three talks to members of the Omaha School Forum. He spoke yesterday in city council chamber.

Adherent of League. "I am for the league of nations," the Wisconsin educator said. "Those who appreciate what the federal union of our states meant to the happiness of this nation, and what the league of nations means to the happiness of the world, will not oppose the league. I don't believe that Senator Hiram Johnson and other irreconcilables have traveled in other countries. They are parochial in their point of view. They do not think in terms of internationalism."

Without the league of nations he foresees great economic differences between the nations. National Lineup Problematic. "It will be a question of who will get the nitrates, or the cotton, or the petroleum, or other resources," he added. "It would be difficult to even speculate on the probable lineup of the nations in the years to come if the United States does not join the league."

Issues Warning to Women. In his talks to the teachers he asserted that the bias of masculine minds has impressed itself upon the thinking of the world and he warned women against the influence of propaganda when reading or hearing the thoughts of mere man. "Traditional thought in religion, ethics, government economics and sport is so colored with masculine pugnacity that women ought to pluck up courage to do their own thinking," he said. "Now that they have the ballot and have joint responsibility with the other sex for the social future, they ought to distrust man-made thought and endeavor to arrive at ideas untainted by male instincts. They ought to confide more in the promptings of their own natures and assume a more critical attitude toward the deliverances of the male mind."

Instinct of Pugnacity Snare. He contended that in the process of social evolution in which mankind now finds itself, the instinct of pugnacity is a snare leading men to strife and mutual destruction. "Woman's outfit of instincts is very much safer than man's for the stage of development we have reached upon," was another thought. Nevertheless, current thought is deeply tainted by male pugnacity.

Omaha Man Chosen Head of Nebraska Travelers Division

The 26th annual convention of the Travelers' Protective association, Nebraska division, closed at the Hotel Fontenelle yesterday with an election of officers for the ensuing year. Walter W. Watt, Omaha, was made president; George Samuelson, Beatrice, first vice president; D. E. Chamberlain, Grand Island, second vice president; H. A. Webster, Kearney, third vice president; Ray Strong, Alliance, fourth vice president; J. E. Black, Fairbury, fifth vice president, and Charles L. Hopper, Omaha, was re-elected secretary.

Members of the board of directors were selected as follows: A. A. Taylor, N. Stanley Brown, O. L. Wohlford, Omaha; H. C. Lett, Lincoln; F. A. Mitchell, Hastings; M. St. John, Kearney; Lee Martin, Fremont; R. Woodrum, York; and William Widenner, Lincoln. Fred Guthman, Seward, was made chairman of the railroad committee; James A. Stine, Omaha, chairman of the press committee; S. C. Latham, Grand Island, chairman of the hotel committee; Thomas A. Fry, Omaha, chairman of the legislative committee; J. A. Kirkendall, Grand Island, chairman of the promotion committee; George Wolz, Fremont, chairman of the good roads and public utilities committee, and H. G. Daniels Must Take Exam. to Hold Job as Postmaster

E. S. Daniels, recently appointed acting postmaster, following the death of Charles H. Fanning, probably will be the only candidate for a civil service examination to determine the rating of candidates for the office of postmaster at Omaha, which will be held May 25 under a ruling which does away with political appointment in filling such offices. Assistant Postmaster Woodward, being just over the age limit of 65 years, cannot take the examination. For factory uses a storage battery electric freight truck has been designed with an elevating platform that can raise two-ton loads more than six feet.

Aged Woman Composes Poem as She Chants Hymns and Weaves Pretty Paper Flowers

Philosophy of Life Expressed in Ode to Favorite Flower.

Confiding her entire worldly happiness in the artistic skill of making paper flowers, Mrs. Mary Burge, 61 years old, weaves away her quiet life in a cheery room at the City Mission, 1204 Pacific street.

Day by day, with deft fingers despite a partially crippled right hand, the quaint matron of the mission molds flowers of appealing beauty from sheets or mere scraps of tissue paper.

Her whole entity is given to the making of flowers—all kinds. Chants Religious Hymns. "And aren't flowers nature's rarest beauty?" she asks. "I love them. They're so much to me, alone in the world."

A religious hymnal is also a means of solace to Mrs. Burge. As diversion from her tedious work of making flowers, she reads and hums various selections. "Kind persons visit me and buy my flowers," Mrs. Burge says. "But the day is dull without a word to God or a thought of the hereafter. That's why I love the hymns."

Composes Ode to the Daisy. "I'm always happy, Miss Anthony, the superintendent, is so good to me. She likes my flowers, too, and shows them to visitors here."

As an ode to her choicest flower, the daisy, Mrs. Burge has composed lines which, next to her flowers, she considers her proudest work of art. The poem reads:

The Daisy. Sweet little daisy, so pure and white, Off has I gathered you from tender stem. I will see no more of the daisy's white Till springtime comes. I have no daisies to cherish me now; Cold winter has come again And nipped my daisies, so pure and white, From off their tender stem. Daisies, farewell of all the flowers. That blossom in the grove; How they spread their opening leaflets Among the flowers I love. I have that when I'm dead and gone, That some kind friend will take A few of the fairest, sweetest flowers, And strewn them as my feet. Weathe them in garlands; Entwine them round my brow of clay And take a few of the fairest flowers On my grave to lay. Then I'll need no more of Earth's fair flowers, The sweetest blossoms I love;

Mrs. Mary Burge. I'll gather them from the golden strand, In the Eden above. At Mission Six Months. Visitors to her room delight in going over her array of hand made flowers. Mrs. Burge frequently receives remunerative offerings for her flowers. Hardly a visitor to the City Mission leaves without a flower from the quaint woman's room. Mrs. Burge has been living at the City Mission for the past six months. Her right hand is crippled from an illness, several years ago. The death of her husband 20 years ago left her without support. For months last year, Mrs. Burge was an invalid at the Methodist hospital. When she regained strength and was able to leave the hospital, she took up her home at the City Mission. Though the Mission is not entirely a home of charity, Miss Mary Anthony, superintendent, acquiesced to a sympathetic request of the "motherly matron" of the place that she be allowed to remain at the home. Her philosophy of a happy life is summed up in the following terse sentence: "Do justice; love mercy and have humble faith in God."

Entire Nation to Hear President at Same Time

Washington, April 24.—Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, chief signal officer, U. S. A., in a statement written for the Public Service Journal makes the following prediction: "It is believed that the time is not far distant when it will be possible for the president of the United States to address the entire American people from the White House at the different localities where they are assembled by the spoken word." General Squier said that development of electrical intercommunication is very rapid in all directions. He referred to submarine cabling, land telegraphing, radio and combinations of all of these means of communication. His idea that the president might speak from the White House to all of the people of the country at one time, is based particularly upon the development of the radio telephone.

Police Forced to Shoot Mad Dog In Pound Wagon

Cincinnati, O., April 24.—Leaping into a hog pen, a dog, believed mad, bit half dozen hogs. While the owner of the hogs, Joseph Weber, was studying how to drive the dog out of the pen the county dog wagon drove in sight. Netting the dog, the wagon crew placed it in the cage on the wagon. Then excitement started in earnest. Attacking the other canines in the cage, the dog bit them all severely. For blocks, the distressing yelps of the bitten animals were heard. The wagon was driven to a police station where a policeman, firing through the meshes of the cage, killed the evidently mad dog. The wagon was then driven to the county pound where the other dogs were killed.

Interchurch Speakers To Occupy Pulpits

Dr. H. La Flamme of New York, mobile secretary of the Interchurch World Movement, and Dr. Bruce Corbin, occupying a similar position with the Interchurch Movement, will be in Omaha Sunday and will deliver sermons in several Omaha churches. Dr. La Flamme will speak in Calvary church at the regular morning services of that church, and in the First Baptist church in the evening. An afternoon service will probably be arranged for him. Dr. Corbin will preach in Westminster church in the evening, and at a morning service to be announced. Rev. Hubert C. Herring, for many years a pastor of the First Congregational church, will hold three services in Omaha Sunday. He will occupy the pulpit at the First Central Congregational church Sunday morning and will hold a Congregational conference on Interchurch affairs in the afternoon at 3:30 in the First Central church. In the evening he will deliver a sermon in Plymouth Congregational church.

Butter Fat In Midwest Milk Above Requirement, Is Report

Recent tests made of milk of the Midwest Co-operative Milk Producers' association show the butter-fat content as follows: 3.5, 4.5, 3.7 and 3.6, which was more than the legal minimum of 3.2 per cent, according to James V. Chizek, milk and dairy inspector for the health department. He also reported that every test made of cream was above the legal requirement. Only one milk test made since the plant was opened a month ago was below the standard. Mr. Chizek offered this information in connection with an allegation in a lawsuit started Friday in district court against the company by a former employee.

FURTHER PLANS FOR BIG PARADE HERE MAY DAY

Additional Organizations in Omaha Aiding to Make Americanization Celebration a Success

With the enlistment of additional organizations and individuals in Omaha, plans for the big Americanization celebration and parade on May 1 are moving apace.

A canvass of the entire city, to be conducted by a number of Omaha women, will be begun tomorrow for the purpose of securing support of business houses in the way of marching clubs. An initial list of 450 places to be called was compiled yesterday and additional ones are contemplated. It is believed that universal support of the business interests of Omaha will be given the movement, and that all large firms will be represented by groups of marchers in the parade. The corps of women expect to conduct their canvass by telephone.

"Gold Star" Representatives. Original plans to have a girl marcher for every "gold star" in Omaha will be carried out, it was decided yesterday. They will be known as the "gold star" girls, and will be assembled and chaperoned by Mrs. Howard Baldrige. They will lead the parade as far as the city hall, where they will mount a platform and review the remainder of the procession. An appropriate salute will be given the group by each organization in the parade.
