COST OF LIVING PROVES PROBLEM TO GREAT BRITAIN

Member of Parliament Says Economic Questions Are Paramount Issues in Country Now.

By C. A. McCURDY, M. P. London, May 1.-Practical politics in England will largely turn on economic questions for the next five years. Prices, wages, profits and the high cost of living are the live political issues which will determine the fate of governments.

Five years' wastage of war, five years of unparalleled destruction of wealth and dislocation of industry cannot be repaired as soon as peace

It is not the inflation of the currency nor the lack of transport that is the root cause of the high prices of today, but the simple fact that in every necessity of civilized life the productive efficiency of the world has still to be restored, and the stage of war has still to be made

Two immediate remedies have been proposed, and are continually being urged upon the people of this country. I believe that both are un-

First, there is the remedy proposed by the extremists of the labor party-that we should check excessive profits altogether; that we should nationalize the industries of the country in the hope that out of that tremendous experiment a satis-factory result might be obtained.

At the other extreme are the peofreedom or trade, freedom of all restrictions and controls, is the sound economic method of lower-

The true remedy will be found somewhere between the extremes advocated by the labor party on the one hand, and the great trading interests on the other. We shall not nationalize our industries and so destroy the commercial system upon which our wealth and prosperity have grown for centuries. Nor can it be necessary, on the other hand, that the trusts and combines and the profiteers should be given a free hand to exploit the public as

Some middle path of safety and wisdom must be found. There must be some form of supervision and control exercised over prices and I profits in the interests of the co

It is not, in my judgment, to fines prosecutions that we must look

We must encourage, and, if necessary, compel the trades which have shown us their power to control and restrict prices to exercise that power for the benefit of the public and not merely in their own selfish

Rape As Pasture Crop

By FRANK RIDGWAY.

The increase in the production of grain during the last few years, resulting in the plowing up of grass land, has caused a shortage of pasture on many farms in the corn belt states. To save grain, farmers will find rape a valuable emergency crop. Those who have tried it find it an exceedingly valuable pasture crop, because it makes a luxuriant growth a comparatively short period of time, and it furnishes a succulent forage which animals relish during the summer, when permanent pas-tures are short.

Rape is too watery in character to be made into hay or silage, but for grazing purposes it is valuable for sheep and hogs especially, and it is good for cattle. It is sometimes obected to as a pasture for milch cows because it taints the milk, Dairymen, claim this can be avoided by not allowing the cows to graze on rape during t he last few hours before milking. Graze them immediately after milking. Cattle also damage a great many leaves with their large Rape is closely related to the cab-bage and turnip plants. Its leaves resemble the cabbage, but there is no head formed.

It is best not to pasture rape until it is about 10 inches high. It is usually ready to be grazed by the last of May. It continues to grow until freezing weather, remaining ween and succulent, and produces new growth throughout the season Its rapid growth may be checked slightly in the hot, dry weather in late esummer. If rape is given a good start be-fore live stock are turned in, it will furnish sufficient grazing for from 15 to 20 animals on each acre, from June until October, depending on whether it is sown alone or with other crops. It may be raised alone or with a variety of other crops.

The method most commonly employed in pasturing rape is to have two or three lots; or, if it is in a field fences may be built thividing the field into small patches. In this way close pasturing may be avoided by changing the animals from one pasture or lot to another at intervals of about two weeks, and thus the rape will be given a chance to get a new start.

Why have Omaha homes purchased two carloads "White Lily" Washing Machines this year?

WHY DOES THE "VACUUM"

Lead All Others in Sales in Omaha and the Middle West States?

Because it is one of the finest and best built heating plants on the market today. All castings are extremely heavy and made from the highest quality new gray iron. Large feed doors-deep combustion chamber-double strength, extra service triangular grate bars-roomy ash pit—radiator of the return flue type to get the best results from soft coal and low grade fuels-finest quality heavy casings, the inner casing being triple and insulated. Every part of the Vacuum Furnace has quality written all over it. Built to last a lifetime, and absolutely guaranteed.

Because the price is right, and when we say this, it means a lot in these strenuous times. Compare the price of the Vacuum with any other furnace—you will be agreeably surprised. You owe it to yourself to do this before purchasing a heating plant—then compare the quality of the Vacuum piece by piece with any other plant selling for from $100.00 to $150.00 higher. You'll find the Vacuum equal, if not superior in every feature.

OUR PAST RECORD SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Over 700 VACUUM FURNACES in Use in Omaha Over 20,000 Sold in the Middle West States

For nine years the Vacuum has shown the way to competition. It embodies many patented improvements and features, the result of our long experience with this type of heating plant exclusively.

Drop in at our display room, 1112 Douglas street, talk over with us your heating problem. It will not obligate you, and this is the season of the year to investigate what a saving you can make. We are out of the high rent district and handling large quantities-two additional reasons why our proposition will interest you. Call, phone or write for catalogs, descriptive literature and information as to prices, etc.
