STUFF OF DREAMS AND OTHER PLAYS. By Rex Hunter. T. S. Deanna Co. This little volume contains "The Wild Goose," "Stuff of Dreams," "Hands and the Man" and "The Roman Road." They are strong little one-act plays having from one to seven characters.

THE BOY WITH THE U. S. TRAPPERS. By Francis Sullivan Wheeler. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

The mountain lion, the coyote, the grizzly, the wolverine, are only some of the animals that live on the pages of this fascinating story. The boy, Gavyn Keary, taught by his friendly, Quick Feather and the old grizzly bear hunter, becomes an expert trapper and wise in wild animal lore. A book of adventure strikingly graphic. A book of true hunting not done only as sport, but to save the lives and the property of the citizens of the United States.

NATURAL FOOD AND CARE FOR CHILD AND MOTHER. By Susan Harding Rummel. Rand McNally Company.

The unsurpassed laws of nature form the basis for the principles and rules laid down in this most praiseworthy book. Special attention is given to the needs of the young mother and of the child from birth until the age of 10. Diets and recipes are also included and miscellaneous information on pertinent subjects. Every mother will be helped by the reading of this book.

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY VS. PRUSSIAN MARXISM. By Clarence F. Hildegarde. Fleming H. Revell Company.

The author, a well known New York jurist, forcibly contends that we shall soon be forced to make a choice between the American forms of government and socialism as propounded by Karl Marx. He proceeds to show that Marxian socialism is nothing more than Prussian autocracy, while American ideals and forms of national control are purposive and truly interpretative of government for the people. He also reviews the history of American government, shows where errors have been made in the past and points the way to a larger realization of American ideals.

LIGHTNING. By Frank Bacon. Harper & Row.

Frank Bacon, creator of Lightning, the best-loved stage figure of a generation, has put the story of the play into a novel without losing a bit of old Lightning's charm. The story of Lightning's Bill and his wife and their boarding house on the state line between California and Nevada—the Nevada side for divorcees!—has already taken the country by storm with its mingled pathos and humor, and the novel will reinforce its hold upon American hearts.

IN THE SHADOW OF LANTERN STREET. By Herbert G. Woodworth. Small, Maynard & Co.

"East is East and West is West." This is the fundamental thesis of this striking novel which begins in the Orient and ends in America. The complications which a Chinese viewpoint bring into a dramatic love story afford a strong realization of the difference between the ideas of the east and west. There are striking scenes, dramatic situations, and ideas which make this story an unusual combination of the novel of drama and of intellect.

THE GIRL WHO SAT BY THE ASHES. By Patricia Colum. MacMillan Company.

A fairy-tale with the most appealing of all heroines—Cinderella, here called Mairi—alone. In telling her story Mr. Colum has used some of the hundred variants of this delightful tale. Yet his story is a new creation. And he has invested it with quaintness, a lyric beauty and the glamour of childhood.

Daughters of American Revolution to Help Restore Village. The Daughters of the American Revolution will help rebuild Tilleloy, a French village, according to Mrs. R. A. Finley, publicity chairman of the Omaha chapter. At the beginning of the world war it was the desire of this patriotic body of women to do their utmost to serve the nation and to do honor to their historic society. It was decided by the national congress of the D. A. R. that they should become responsible for $10,000 in Liberty bonds and also that they should undertake some work of reconstruction in France. The suggestion was made by Baroness de la Grange, an American woman, that the D. A. R. might undertake, as their specific work, the rebuilding of a French village.

She spoke of Tilleloy as being a very old and interesting village and a very beautiful one, containing among other attractions an old and historic church, the village at that time being only partially destroyed by the Germans, so that the funds available by the D. A. R. would probably be sufficient to restore it. This suggestion was eagerly accepted, but by the time the funds were voted and secured, $52,000 for this purpose, a year had passed, and in the meantime, the German army had revisited Tilleloy and left it a complete ruin.

The amount available, not being sufficient for complete restoration and negotiations being almost impossible at this distance, a visit was made to France by Mrs. Thacher Guernsey, the present president general, to ascertain if possible how best to devote this fund to accomplish the purpose desired. After many visits to the village, and much consultation with officials both in Paris and in the village itself, and with architects, engineers, etc., it was decided that the $52,000 available would best be devoted to the installing of a water system which, by the way, none of the French rural villages had ever had, and that there would also be enough to build a community house for social gatherings, recreation rooms, etc., for the use of the villagers. There is also to be an ornamental public fountain, where animals may drink, marked with a tablet, with the name of the donors.

The fund raised for this purpose was placed in trust in one of the Paris banks, to be administered by the Urgent Help society, a government agency under the supervision of Madame de la Grange as trustee.

th century. The heroine of the story is Constance Hopkins, who is the ministering angel of the colony during the terrible first winters. Colder than New England frost is her stepmother and darker than winter nights was the mood of her father and brother, between whom a quarrel had arisen. How she wins over her stepmother and reconciles the men makes a stimulating story of a girl's courage.

THE SPIRIT OF SELECTIVE SERVICE. By Major-General E. H. Crowder. Century Company.

A study of the various foreign systems of compulsory military training, a history of the organization of our own system of selective service, a detailed account of the operation and achievements of our system during the world war and a description of how this theory of selective service can be applied to peace-time activities of nation-wide scope and supreme importance.

Urge National Aid For Educational Legislation

National aid for education through legislation will be presented at the biennial convention of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs to be held in Des Moines the third week in June. Hon. Horace M. Towner, congressman from Iowa, and one of the authors of the Smith-Towner educational bill will be the speaker at its special session on education on June 21. The main education conference follows in the afternoon of the same day. Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum, chairman of the department; Jane Addams, Dr. Caroline Hedger, Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, and C. P. Cary, head of the Wisconsin board of education, will speak at the main conference. At the supplemental conference, President Jessup of the Iowa State university will be the leading speaker. Mrs. Frank Gibson of California will take a leading part in relation to Americanization plans at the conference.

A beautiful American heiress with a fortune of more than $1,000,000 is said to have crossed the Atlantic with the intention of capturing Georges Carpentier as a husband, but she was powerless against the bewitching blue eyes, natural charms and accomplishments of Georgette Elkasser, the little French girl, who became the bride of the famous pugilist.

The national council of Danish women comprises 35 associations, with a membership of about 40,000.

Study Is Vital

Miss Helen Taft in a speech recently at a luncheon given in her honor in San Francisco talked to the guests on their participation in politics.

"Interest in the elections at the time they are held," she said, "should be supplemented by constant study of vital issues, keeping track of the details of city, state and national politics to afford an intelligent preparation for the actual casting of a vote."

"We have nothing to gain by criticizing the men, there will be time enough to do that when women get into the depth of politics and understand their workings. American women, unlike their English sisters have not been greatly interested in politics and we still have much to learn. For that reason, if no other, women should make a decided stand for women representatives in every legislative body in the country, that they may have perfect political equality."

Closets.
How to utilize the shallow closet in the apartment to the best advantage is an ever-present problem with the housewife of today. A simple solution to the problem can be worked out with picture wire and two nails or hooks. Eyelet screws are preferable. Insert one just inside the jamb of the door and the other directly opposite on the closet wall. These should be high enough to let the clothes fall free of the floor, for the hangers are hooked over the wire, which is stretched taut between the two hooks across the depth of the closet.

Jewett has the distinction of being the first municipality of Texas to turn its city government over to women. In the recent election women were chosen to fill practically all the city offices, including the mayoralty.

When Dr. Sidney Wilcox, a noted surgeon, was stricken with heart trouble and died in the operating room, Dr. Lillian Morgan completed the operation with so much skill that the patient is now on the road to recovery.
