FARMERS DIFFER ON BENEFITS OF NEW MACHINERY

lebraska Stockmen Take Different Views of Use Tractor and Automobile.

Gus W. Rehmus of Winside was a visitor at the Omaha market Frieday with a load of live stock and he let out a wail against tractors and automobiles which he says are bordens to the farmers.

He said the tractors and auto mobiles are the greatest curses that have been wished on the farmers for a long time and Mr. Rehmus is classed as one of the most professive farmers of his community He said the recent wet weather had proven tractor tarming a complete failure and that many farmers who had let their horses and mules go were making attempts to get more horses, while tractors are rusting in their sheds.

"Trying to farm without horses is like attempting to run an automobile without a motor," said Mr. Rehmus, "and I am thoroughly in secord with the movement of breeding more horses. I hope to become charter member of the Omaha branch of the Horse Association of America and will do all I can to promote the raising of horses

NATIONAL SEXTET BUILT INFIVE CUSTOM BODY MODES

Niceties You've Looked For in Other Cars You've Owned

On such a fine car as the National Sextet, you naturally look for cord tires, a Motometer, a windshield cleaner, corrugated rubber pads for foot pedals, an engine-driven tire pump, heavy shock absorbers, and a ventilator for the driving

And, of course, you will find them there:

But in going over this strikingly low car with admiring eyes, you are instantly attracted by the many unusual niceties that have been thoughtfully selected to make Sextet appointment exceptionally complete. There is an unpickable theft lock on the transmission to foil the automobile thief, and a reserve supply of gasoline that is tapped when the main tank is empty.

The walnut-paneled cabinets in the center cowl are lockfitted, and a robe strap of genuine Cordovan strikes you as much better and smarter than a metal bar.

Wrenches, pliers and other small tools are carried, each in a special compartment, in the left fore door, while all other door pockets are of generous size.

The top is individually tailored, lined inside and fitted with a glass window at the back. An electric priming button on the dash facilitates starting on cold winter mornings, while an underhood motor light illuminates the engine when a spark plug must be changed or a carburetor adjustment made at night.
