Personal Liberty Foremost Issue In Campaign, Senator Lewis Declares.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire Aurora, Ill., May 17 .- The democratic national convention will adopt a plank favoring state local former United States Senator J.

"Personal liberty" he said, "will be one of the foremost issues in the presidential campaign. The republicans will try to straddle by declaring that they are for the constitution of the United States. But the voters won't be fooled. The democratic party believes that states that want total prohibition should have it. Those that don't want it should not be compelled to accept it." Senator Lewis who has been endorsed by democrats for vice presi-dent said that Wilson will be the democratic candidate for president if the republicans "insist on making the league of nations the paramount issue in the campaign."

"They will find that he is not the feeble man they think," said the senator, "but on the contrary will discover he has the same great intellect and force of character with which they have so often coped unsuccessfully. "As the campaign goes on, it will become more and more evident that the democratic party as always is making the fight for the people as against vested interests and en-trenched privilege."
