HIRTY minutes' work the night of clothing. before will save two hours on but in the new order of things we look back and wonder why it should have been chosen. Tuesday as wash day gives time to pick over the clothes, mend those that need mending, get the soap and washing powder all ready, and get the clothes into soak on the day before.

Getting the clothes to soak in cold water the evening before loosens the dirt and saves much rubbing on wash day. Mending before washing prevents further tearing in handling while in the water and in the washng machine, if a washing machine is used. A high grade soap is an economy of time and conservation

Set the alarm clock an hour of two early for wash day, get the Monday used to be wash day, clothes out of the soaking water and ready to go on to boil before breakfast. All white clothes are put into the boiler with cold water and soap. The breakfast hour gives plenty of time for the water to heat and the clothes to boil. This method of cold water results in whiter clothes.

After breakfast duties will have to be planned according to your own circumstances. There may be children to get off to school, a lunch box to pack, etc., and dishes to stack-the breakfast dishes can be washed with the dinner dishes on wash day. With the rinsing and blueing done rest period is the next thing on the program. Too many home managers overlook this very important part of the day's program. Just a few minutes to relax relieves tired muscles and nerves and mother is all ready to greet the children coming home from school and to make the preparations for dinner.

The prepared foods on the pantry shelf will be used for the wash day dinner; a can of soup, chipped beef in cream, canned spinach, canned so opportunely for Bess Dean, so magazine cover. How would you apricots, a salad with prepared disadvantageously for me? I asked like me as a model?" dressing, cheese, salted crackers and coffee for the grown-ups and milk for the children.

Wash day is also ironing day in some well organized homes, and it is really a big satisfaction to get all or part of the clothes ironed and put away all in one day. System is the big work on wash day as well as every other day of the week.

HOLDING A HUSBAND Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

How Madge Won a Point. What ill wind had brought Dicky

nome at this unusually early hour, myself the question with inward fury, but outward smiling calm, as I went to meet him at the door.

"Visitors, Dicky," I said beneath my breath, and he muttered a whis- Dicky was considering the buying of pered imprecation as he bent to kiss me dutifully. I knew that we must present an appearance of marital happiness as we came back to the living room, my hand caught in my busband's in a little habit he has even when he isn't especially pleased with me, and I writhed inwardly at the amused smile I saw in Bess Dean's laughing eyes.

Dicky dropped my hand as if it spoonful of fat until golden brown had been a hot cake at the sight of in color. When the potatoes are her, and held both hands out to tender, pour the liquid into the hers, which she had already out-

"Well! well! he exclaimed in the the liquid together with one-half banal way men cover embarrass-cupful of evaporated milk, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper and had become of you. I didn't know one teaspoonful of salt. Serve hot but you'd gone into a nunnery or committed matrimony

"Same thing, as far as I'm concerned," Miss Dean answered flip-pantly. "I'd just about as soon After struggling for years to choose one career as the other. So choose one career as the other. So choose one career as the other. So till something really worth while turns up I'm still hammering a few ful of vinegar in the water and facts into the the almost impenecover the pan. ### Fun or Fact?

The manner in which she said the words, with a certain delicate weariness, and her head drooping pathetically, was enough to convulse an anchorite, and we all laughted heartily. I saw Dicky's eyes gleam with appreciation of her sally, and realized that they held also distinct admiration of her appearance.

"What do you consider really worth while?" he asked banteringly after he had greeted Alice Holcombe perfunctorily-she had kept herself in the background when Miss Dean had so flamboyantly claimed his attention—"going on the stage or fig-uring in a divorce suit? Either ought to furnish you the excitement which your childish heart seems to crave.' Jot it down in your notebooks I'd jump at either one," she de-clared laughingly. "So would you if you taught in Bayview. But I've decided to embrace a more danger-the house in Marvin in which we were now domiciled. "Dicky is like the Irishman's pig, Mrs. Madge," he had said. "If you want him to go to Dublin, for the love of Mike tell him he's to go to My application of the ludicrous anecdote had worked on that neverto-be-forgotten occasion. In desperation I resolved to try the same scheme again.

"Did you ever see anything more modish Dicky?" I exclaimed enthusiastically. "The moment I saw Miss Dean I said to myself that she was just the model you had been looking for to pose for that new story by Burnes—you know, the one about the rich girl who has always been a frump and suddenly comes to about her clothes, and gets an artist friend to-

"I hardly think we would better disclose the plot of a yet unpub-lished story, my dear," Dicky said gravely, and my heart bounded at the displeased note in his voice. went on unabashed.

"I won't tell any more," I said obediently, "but can't you just imagine Miss Dean as the heroine? And she's perfectly mad about the idea. told her I was sure you'd love to

"I would," returned Dicky prompt y and audaciously, but with a touch of stiffness in his manner that made me want to shriek with delight, "as it happens I have already engaged the model for that particular story. She looks the part to perfection."
"My opinion of you!" Bess Dean exploded laughingly, provocatively, and for a quarter of an hour longer the two kept up an exchange of banter that made Alice and me smile in spite of ourselves. But I suspected that Bess Dean recognized my ruse I knew it when at parting she said sweetly, with what Katie described as her "crinkled-up eyes":

"Thanks so much for using your good offices with Mr. Graham. I shan't forget your kindness, even it t didn't do me any good." (Continued Monday.)

blouse of organdie has a lace collar set on backwards, so that the lace forms a vestee in the back and round yoke in the front.

Washing Dishes.

When washing dishes, wash silver and glassware first and dry them. Then wash the china and set it in a dish drainer suspended crosswise over the sink. Then pour boiling water over them, rinsing well, and when you are ready to put them away they will be dry, saving the necessity of drying each dish separately.

Protecting Curtains. If the curtains become dusty from lowing against the screens or the dirty outside sill, place a narrow piece of tape or ribbon across the window about nine inches from the bottom. This will prevent further unch is the forerunner of a good time. The busy mother and housewife who tires herself to a nervous frazzle filling the hamper with an elaborate lunch for an outing spoils the fun that has usually been anticipated hours and perhaps days ahead. Consequently, members of the family become moody, and in their hearts accuse one another of being kill-joys.

Picnics That Are Fun and No Work Simplicity in preparing a picnic

When the men are consulted concerning a lunch, they will invariably say, "Cut out the trimmings, and give us real food." Such is the mas-culine attitude. Men, when going on a picnic, want to get away from the conventions. They prefer to rough it, and to renew their boygood days as much as possible. Now, as I have no desire to be a kill-joy, this is the way we picnic. no matter who is going along, or what superior ideas they may have concerning picnic lunches. We pack our basket with bread (uncut), butter, eggs, bacon, coffee, salt, fruit, lettuce and anything else we may desire that does not call for work in preparation. Our cooking utensils consist of one skillet and a pail with perforated top for coffee. Living in northern Minnesota where there are so many beautiful lakes, we motor to some lake, find a lovely nook, and proceed to make ourselves at home. The first thing the men will do, of course, is build a fire. They enjoy this work, and are very decided n the idea that they know just how to cook things over a camp fire. And it is a fact that they do. They surprise us by the masterly way they can flip bacon, cook an egg just right, and fill and trim a sand-

After the repast the utensils can be scrubbed out with sand and water, the discarded paper burned and the fire carefully extinguished. We carry our drinking water in thermos bottles, unless we are sure that we will beable to get good well water on the trip. Every member with small children can go on a picnic of this kind without feeling that it is going to be an extra strain to get ready. Instead it gives her a chance to relax and enjoy herself—Mrs. J. T. T., Min-nesota, in Woman's Home Com-

A coffee pot should be cleaned frequently by filling pot with water to which baking soda has been added, one teaspoon soda to one quart of water, allowing water to boil from 20 to 30 minutes.

Hints for Baby. Don't be afraid of allowing the aby to sleep outdoors on fine days at all seasons of the year. Well wrapped up and sheltered from cold winds with a hot water bottle in the carriage in cold weather, sleeping outdoors is good for the child's constitution and nerves. After 3 o'clock in the late autumn, winter and early spring is too late to allow the baby to sleep outdoors and before 10 in the morning. Don't use much powder of any kind in bathing the child. Powder dries the skin too much. After bathing anoint the skin with a little white vaseline or a very little olive oil.
