

GROCERY WARES INDICATE THAT SUMMER IS HERE

Seasonable Fruits and Vegetables Prove Calendar Is Summery and Picnic Time Not Far Away.

Those appetizing things that combine so nicely in picnic lunches are so plentiful on the markets now, and are so attractively displayed by grocers, that marketeers are likely to forget the chilly atmosphere and threatening skies in an inspiration to pack the lunch baskets and tie themselves to some bosky dell for a supper on the grass.

Another reminder that the calendar is summery, if the weather isn't, is seen in the great display this week of fresh pineapples. They are the season's first, and may be had from 15 to 35 cents apiece, depending on size. Remembrances of hot June evenings of years gone by will be awakened this week when the shopping housewife sees the profusion of lemons offered, for the lemonade that would be seasonable except for the weather. Large, juicy lemons are now to be had around 25 cents a dozen. At some stores they are a trifle higher.

Oranges are still high in price, being from about 50 to 90 cents the dozen, depending on grade. Grapefruit retails from about 20 cents down, the price varying according to size and grade. Apples, also, are high in price. They are offered at several prices, which are about the same as they have been for several weeks. Strawberries retail at about 40 cents a box today. This is about the same price that they have been selling for.

Radishes are offered today at bargain prices, and may be had from from two bunches to five bunches for a nickel. All on the counters seem to be very good. Lettuce costs 5 cents per bunch for the leaf variety, and 10 cents for the head lettuce. Green onions are offered under the same circumstances as radishes, with each dealer making his own price. A paragon is being offered in various grades, ranging from four bunches for 25 cents, to 10 cents a bunch in price. String beans sell at 25 cents a pound, for both varieties. New potatoes have been jarred from their pinnacle, and are now sold at two pounds for 25 cents, which is about half the price asked a week ago. As the new crop increases, old potatoes are disappearing from the market.

New comers on the market today are watercress, egg plant and red cabbage. The cress sells at about 10 cents a bunch. Egg plants retail around 40 cents each, and the cabbage at 10 cents a pound. Sweet potatoes have been in great demand lately, grocers say. They still sell at 10 cents a pound.

Creamery butter took a slight drop during the past week and sells today at 59 or 60 cents a pound, depending on stores. Fresh eggs sell from 42 to 50 cents a dozen, which prices have been fairly steady for weeks.

Meat remained down during the week, but is due for a sharp rise, according to wholesale dealers. This increase may be in force this week, they predicted. Steaks at 30 to 35 cents will not be offered for long, the dealers believe. Pork also held steady during the week, but is also likely to go up in price, as a summer increase is always to be expected, according to butchers. Chicken is appearing on the market more and more, with prices comparatively high.

Retired Farmer Dies Here After Prolonged Illness

Peter A. Johnson, 81, died at the home of his daughter, Miss Esther Johnson, 2422 Valley street, Friday morning after a lingering illness. Mr. Johnson lived in Omaha for eight years and was a pioneer of Oakland, Neb., where he did extensive farming prior to his coming to Omaha. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Ida Peasner, Jefferson City, Mo.; Mrs. Charles Snively, Columbus, Neb.; Mrs. William Beckman, Oakland, Neb., and Miss Esther Johnson of Omaha, who is the juvenile court officer.

Funeral services will be conducted from Brewer's chapel Saturday at 11:30 a. m. by Rev. R. L. Wheeler will conduct the services. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Retired Business Man of Illinois Dies at Ralston

Peter Larson, 79, died Thursday morning at the home of his son, Rollo J. Larson of Ralston. Mr. Larson was a retired business man of Galva, Ill.

He is survived by one son, Rollo J. Larson, who is a salesman and was traveling on the Pacific coast at the time of his father's death. As soon as the son arrives the body will be forwarded from Brewer's chapel to Galva, Ill., where a Masonic funeral service will be held.

New Record Land Price When Firth Farm Sells for $676 Acre

Beatrice, Neb., June 4.—(Special.)—The price of eastern Nebraska land is still soaring. Probably the top-notch record for eastern Nebraska land was made in the sale of the J. P. Ticknor farm, a small tract near Firth, for $676 an acre. The land is just outside the town limits. A quarter section of the Leach estate near Firth sold for $225 an acre, and an 80 in the Treosle estate sold for $271 an acre.

LEGION MEMBERS TO HOLD BIG MASS MEETING. SOON

Executive Committee to Set Date at Conference Next Week.

Americanization was the keynote of the noon luncheon yesterday at Hotel Rome which was attended by members of the Douglas county post No. 1, American Legion.

Harvey Easton, 1710 South Sixteenth street, was appointed chairman of a committee to inquire into the selection of appropriate plots in each Omaha cemetery which are to be set aside and dedicated for the burial of all ex-service men and their families.

The executive committee of the local post will hold a session at Hotel Rome next Friday noon. Plans will be formulated for a big mass meeting of the American Legion which will be held in the near future.

Dr. E. C. Henry, president of the local organization and staff member of the Lord Lister hospital, gave a stirring talk on the future policy of the Omaha post. "Americanization work and organization should be the beacon light of the Omaha post," he emphasized, "for the bonus is a secondary consideration inasmuch as it is a matter in which time is an essential element in order that the people may more thoroughly understand the motives and principles underlying the ideas of the American Legion in this matter of soldier relief."

Mr. Hammond, secretary of the American Legion of Omaha, was enthusiastic in his endorsement of the attitude of the Omaha Bee on the bonus question and his remarks received hearty applause. He said the failure of the American Legion to appear in the G. A. R. parade resulted from a misunderstanding between the officials in charge of the day's activities. "The circumstance is keenly regretted," he explained, "for the American Legion of this city is more than willing and ready to respond to the requests of and co-operate with every patriotic organization on every possible occasion."
