

Texas Rangers Walker and Beckett (Standing) Drinking from the Rio Grande. When Glasses Are Not Available a Hat Will Do the Trick.

Little Miss Miya Fujit, a Diminutive Member of the Japanese Embassy at Washington, D. C., Much Prefers This American Outfit to Her Oriental Clothes. She Is Not a Bit Afraid of America's Wind and Snow Nor Does She Become Homesick for the Land of the Kimono and Cherry Blossom.

AT LAST!
A PRIZE FIGHTER
WHO DOESN'T LOOK
THE PART.
THIS BEAU BRUMMEL
OF THE RING HAS BEEN ALMOST A
SOCIAL LION
IN NEW YORK

Georges Carpentier, Heavyweight Champion of Europe, Salutes America on His Arrival in New York from France on the S. S. LaSavoie. The young man Has Created a Sensation in New York, Being Accorded the Honor of Three Editorials in the Morning Newspapers of That City, All Complimentary and Enthusiastic.

A Texas Ranger, Apparently of Herculean Strength, Holding the Baby of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Carter. Mr. Carter is a Well-Known Magazine Illustrator.

A Section of One of the Refugee Trains on the Trans-Siberian Railroad, Showing the Poverty-Stricken Conditions Under Which the Siberians Live and Travel. Note the A. E. F. Doughboys Who Have Been Guarding the Siberian Railroad.

This Shark Is Said to be the Biggest Ever Caught in the Atlantic. It Weighed Approximately Two Thousand Pounds and Was Caught at Miami, Florida, by Capt. H. L. Roberts, Aged Nineteen, of the Motor Yacht Audria II. Capt. Roberts, who Weighs Only 120 Pounds, Landed the Big Shark Without Assistance. He Caught the Monster With the Rod and Hook Soon in His Hands in This Photograph. The Shark Fought Desperately for Over an Hour, and Finally Capt. Roberts Killed It With a Harpoon Shot Into Its Head.

Miss Consuelo Morgan, Who Accompanied Her Father, the American High Commissioner of Belgium, and Her Mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hays Morgan, on the Adriatic for the Trip to Europe.

Miss Marguerite Vacani, the Well-Known Dancing Teacher, Was Married Recently to Capt. Leslie Rankin at the Brompton Oratory. Miss Vacani Has Taught Dancing to the King and Queen of Spain. The Bridegroom's Height Is Six and a Half Feet.