

LUST THREATENS HOME, BISHOP TELLS STUDENTS

Boys and Girls Too Free With Themselves, Episcopal Prelate Says in University Address.

Lincoln, June 6.—(Special.)—Bishop E. V. Shaylor of the Episcopal diocese of Nebraska, addressing the students of the University of Nebraska Sunday morning, asserted that the American home is in danger and that the marriage relations are too lightly regarded. Excerpts from his address follow.

"No man institution is as important as the home. The values of a city are in proportion to its homes. The values of a nation are in no sense superior to its homes.

"The very first place in which God is realized, in which personality may be developed, is in the home.

"It is so elemental that it seems hardly necessary to say that everything else in our civilization rests upon the home; that all public achievement rests upon private character; that the nation can not make progress nor even survive unless the average American is a pretty decent fellow and unless his wife is a still better fellow.

Home Is in Danger.

"Absolutely nothing is gained by filling a man with vague ambitions for the betterment of himself or his kind, unless you have filled him first of all with the desire to do decently with those members of mankind who are in his home.

"The American home is in danger. Lust and license, disregard of honor and the degradation of womanhood by themselves and by men, threaten it. Marriage is regarded in the light of a fool romance, or at best as a mutual contract to be voided at the will of one, instead of an entrance into a new state of life which fundamentally can never be broken.

"When a man lives in the state of Nebraska he can never void the fact—even though he may migrate to Kansas or Kamchatka, later.

Is Against Plats.

"Child-bearing and child-rearing are practiced only in the best of families. An average of three children there must be in every family if the race is to survive. The flat and the club and hotel life are not encouraging large families. The boys and girls are the hope of the nation. There is no hope or home for those who have them not.

"The virtues of the home are: Virtue, co-operation, devotion. The homeless man rarely has any of these. The danger of today may be noted that virtue is often at a discount; that in the public and youthful estimate, modesty of action has given place to public gush and maudlin passioning. The thought of the other is often the last thought. We are here to be ministered unto, but not to minister, so one would judge. Devotion is rarer than we would have it.

About Good Homes.

"I am wondering how many of you have been reared in godly homes, where a virtuous mother and honorable father have gladdened their years of toil and drudgery by the thought that they would make a good, well-educated man or woman out of you. Where they have pinched and are pinching today, in good clothing, leisure, pleasure, that your four years' work in the university might be years with consequent honor and opportunity.

"How have you repaid it? Have you returned that love and devotion? Have their hearts been lifted by the showing of the only co-operation you could show in a thoughtful devotion?"

5,000 PACK PARK TO HEAR DENVER BAND IN CONCERT

Real Estate Men of Omaha Entertain Colorado Musicians Following Park Program.

A crowd, estimated at 5,000 persons, attended a public concert given in Elmwood park yesterday afternoon by the 50-piece municipal band of Denver, which spent the day in Omaha and Council Bluffs, en route home from a convention of real estate men at Kansas City.

Popular, patriotic and classical numbers were played during the afternoon, and each was heartily applauded. The snappy appearance of the organization was a topic of comment at the concert. Members wore Zouave uniforms. Following the concert the musicians and the Denver real estate men made an automobile trip over the Omaha boulevards. The trip ended at Happy Hollow club, where a banquet was given in honor of the visitors. The Omaha Real Estate board acted as host. Mayor Ed P. Smith presided as toastmaster. Another concert was played before the evening ended.

The Denver party spent yesterday morning at Council Bluffs, the guests of the real estate board of that city. All were entertained at luncheon at the Council Bluffs Country club, the parks early in the afternoon. The entire party was escorted to its special train by members of the real estate board. The train was scheduled to leave shortly before midnight.

GRADUATES TOLD TO INJECT PLENTY OF PEP IN LIFE

Smile and Be Confident of Yourself, Is Advice Given By Preacher to High School Finishing Classes.

Central high school graduating seniors, who will be graduated at the general commencement exercises Saturday night at the auditorium, attended the baccalaureate sermon by Dr. Frank G. Smith at the First Congregational church, Thirty-sixth and Harney streets, yesterday morning. Approximately all of the 250 members of the class were present. Miss Jessie M. Towne, dean of girls and senior class teacher, and Principal J. C. Masters attended the sermon with the students.

The Commerce High students attended the graduating sermon at the First Methodist church, Twentieth and Davenport streets. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Titus Lane. Both groups of students wore gray caps and gowns.

"The Fundamental Factor in an Achieving Life" was the theme of Dr. Smith's sermon. But in his talk to the graduates he spoke of more than one factor.

"I can still remember my graduating sermon," said Dr. Smith. "The keynote of it was 'plan your work, then work your plan.' I pass that on to you. When you go into the outside world, in any walk of life, you can best get along by planning and working systematically. If you do not plan your work, it will be like an old desk in which everything is thrown around, and you can't find anything when you want it. If you do not work your plan, but just remark how nice a plan it is, well, then, your plan is worth nothing to you.

"You are now going through an age in which you will start, I can honestly say, 95 per cent of your habits. This is true of all who are between the ages of fourteen to twenty-one."

Faith to oneself is an important factor in one's life, according to Dr. Smith. Not the faith in one's self which makes him egotistical, but the faith that makes him just confident that he can do the things he has set out to do.

"Work is one of the best of things. Work hard and meet life. Be optimistic. Life will not be an easy road to travel. There will be many rough spots, many temptations which you will have to overcome and which you will be able to overcome if you work hard.

"Above all, have faith in humanity. I have never had a man go back on me when I have tested him. I always find that it pays to have faith in humanity. Next to having faith in yourself, have faith in God."

PREDICTS CHANGE IN ATTITUDE UPON SOLDIERS' BONUS

Assistant Secretary Leffingwell Makes Public Letters From Ex-Service Men.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, June 6.—That ex-service men who have advocated bonus legislation will change their views, was predicted by Assistant Secretary of Treasury Leffingwell today. Mr. Leffingwell made public correspondence with an unnamed former service man who wrote several scathing lines in a speech in which he condemned bonus legislation. The treasury official replied to the man and then received a letter apologizing for ill-considered remarks.

The government of the United States has been called upon to raise $3,500,000,000 since the declaration of war," said Mr. Leffingwell in his letter.

"The people of the United States have provided two-thirds of this vast sum in loans to their government. Citizens subscribed for liberty bonds and victory notes, and have seen the value of their holdings shrink in the investment markets to a maximum of 15 per cent in consequence of the inordinate demands for capital and credit growing out of the great war."

"The people of America are struggling under the burden of the war debt and the war taxes. Necessary projects for social welfare and for the development of industry are held in check by the heavy capital and credit. Our banks are loaded down with holdings of loans upon government war securities. In these circumstances for the government to attempt to raise the vast sum demanded by the war debt, by selling war bonds, is a disaster because of the inevitable further shrinkage in value of the outstanding securities of the government, the inevitable added load of taxes, the inevitable denial of credit for necessary purposes and the inevitable increase in the cost of living."

MILITARY RITES GIVEN SOLDIER KILLED OVERSEAS

Members of American Legion Are Pallbearers at Funeral Sunday of Leroy Moore, Accident Victim.

It was with thorough impressiveness and a sorrow that reminded one of Flanders fields during the dark days of the war that final funeral rites were held at the grave of Leroy Moore, 21-year-old soldier, yesterday afternoon in Forest Lawn cemetery.

The soldier, Moore, was a victim of an accidental discharge of a bullet at Mayen, Germany, on April 11 of this year. His body, in a steel casket, arrived in Omaha a few days ago.

Rev. F. H. Grace of the Covenant Presbyterian church conducted the services at Brailey & Dorrance chapel at 2 o'clock. Members of the American Legion had charge of the services at the grave.

In the impressive silence of the surrounding hills and beneath a waving American flag, the casket was lowered into the grave while Leonard Marshall, former bugler in the Fourth army division, sounded taps. A squad of American Legion members in khaki uniform, Kendall Hammond, Larry Nygaard, Harry Montgomery and J. N. DeFrance, J. H. Moore and Miss Helen Moore, both of St. Joseph, Mo., father and sister of the dead youth, and Lester Moore, 3015 Evans street, a brother, survive.

Financial

The New York Times.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, June 6.—Participants in the financial markets decided last week that the pending republican convention had thrown a mantle of dullness over business which could hardly be removed until policies and a candidate had been selected. Hence, the most sluggish stock market trading since the forefront of last year, when doubt over the effects of war upon industry were most prevalent.

Political uncertainties, however, were by no means the only factors acting to check dealings. The underlying matters in credit and industry were exactly the same as the week before. It is to be expected that either or both major political parties will go to some length elaborating their views how the cost of living may be reduced and the credit structure drawn down in spots.

But before the people will have opportunity to support or oppose particular economic programs, the country will have gone some distance in answering current problems under the direction of natural laws.

Trend Continues, Says Ward.

The trade reviews note that while signs of hysteria are disappearing among merchants, nevertheless the trend of prices continues downward. Stocks of merchants carried over the usual season of exports is continuing heavy in contrast with pre-war years, extraordinarily heavy in point of values, yet the latest figures disclose a point which is not to be ignored.

The process of selection was evidently done in last week's trading in stocks, whose advances of professional speculators. The railroad equipment shares, petroleum stocks and a number of steel issues afforded the outstanding examples of investment and long range speculative undertakings.

Alleged Thieves Are Arrested By Amateur Sleuth in Stolen Car

W. W. Dixon, 4328 Lake street, employed by the Nebraska Telephone company, has an eye for thieves.

Sunday while on his way to a ball game, Dixon, siped one of the phone company's automobiles at Fifteenth and Howard streets. He knew the man driving the car was not employed by the company and fearing it was stolen, Dixon jumped the running board of the slow moving car and ordered the driver to stop.

Dixon, after quizzing the driver, told him to proceed to police headquarters. The driver gave the name of Ward Mangus, 5036 Hickory street, and police say he confessed stealing the car from the company's garage, Sixteenth and Leavenworth streets, in company with another man.
