Washington, June 7 .- Severe criticism of President Wilson for his "pocket veto" of the water bill, representing the culmination of the work of years, was voiced by Senator Jones of Washington, chairman of the senate committee on com-

Senator Jones described the president's action as "little short of a calamity to the country." The president's failure to give any reason for his action was denounced by the senator in unsparing terms.

No official explanation has beached Senator Jones relative to the president's action other than that the bill came to the president too late to give it proper consideration. It is reported that an opinion by Secretary of the Interior Payne that the rights of the government in pubguarded in the bill was before the president and that because of this he killed it by the "pocket veto" method without allowing congress an opporunity to pass upon it again.

Time for Study. Senator Iones denied that there was not sufficient opportunity for proper executive consideration. He pointed out that the bill reached the president last Monday.

There was ample time to study it d if there was a valid objection to t he should have made it known and given congress a chance to meet it is he did in the case of the budget bill which was sent to him at about the same time," said Mr. Jones.

The terms of the water-power bill have been discussed for years. It differed in only a few particulars from the bill agreed to in confergress, but which failed of passage. thought the president was earnestly in favor of water-power leg-Two or three years ago he urged it as of first importance. It is more important today than it

Wedding? (Copyright, 1919, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

The antiquity of this custom may be inferred by reference to the Old Testament, where, in Deuteronomy, Chapter 25, Verses 9, we find that when the brother of a dead man refused to marry his widow she asserted her indedenpendence of him by "loosing his shoe." This, coupled with the fact that it was the custom of savage nations to carry off the bride by violence—naturally fol-lowed by assaults from the other member of the tribe and the casting of missiles of various kinds -- proves that the connection between old shoes and marriage dates back practically to the dawn of history.

In fact, Urquhart, in his "Pillars of Hercules," states: "At a Jewish marriage I was standing beside the bridegroom when the bride entered. As she crossed the threshold he stooped down, slipped off his shoe and struck her with the heer on the nape of the neek. I at once saw the interpretation of the passage in Scripture respecting the transfer of the shoe to another. The slip-per, being taken off indoors, is placed at the edge of the small carpet and is at hand to administer correction. Hence it is used as a sign of the obedience of the wife and the supremacy of the husband"

Market, Financial and Industrial News of the Day

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire.

New York, June 7.—The stock market today was exceedingly dull and the movement of prices was not significant. Financial Little Activity.

A new offering of Southern Pacific equipment notes, totaling $15,000,000, was announced after the close of the market, but aside from this it is believed that very little of banking nature will be attempted until the conventions are closed. In most parts of the financial district there are convictions that the republicans will be the victors in November, but the shaping up of the republican ticket is still something of a mystery. As the financial community views the situation there are some candidates for the nomination who are "desirable" while some of the others prominently mentioned are not, to put it mildily, and for this reason there is a tendency to go slowly until it is known just how the Chicago affair is to come out.

A development today which was disquieting was the break in Chinese exchange rates, accompanied by a sharp decline in the price of silver. The break in the Chinese rates, together with a lesser decline in India rates, was regarded as semething more than a mere reflection of the recent disturbances in Japan.

Little Information.

Little Information.

Little of a positive nature could be ascertained regarding the eastern situation, but private advices from London attributed the break in silver to selling by the Indian banks, and to marked fall in Chinese demand, amounting virtually to a withdrawal from the market of the Chinese buyers. Offerings were said to be rather light, and while this might be regarded as favorable, from one angle, the fact that the market declined so abruptly in the face of these light offerings augurs anything but a firm undertone, and further, there were rumors which could not be substantiated of commercial and financial difficulties in both China and India. Bankers having connections with the Orient were without much information on the subject, but it was recalled that when the trouble broke out if Japan some weeks ago there was the same lack of definite news for several days after the first rumblings.

European exchanges showed but small changes from last week. Sterlings finished Little Information.

Burglar proof---

In a recent robbery, the burglars passed up Home Builders' shares and bonds. Why? Because these shares and bonds can be cashed only by the registered owners. They would be valueless to others. Burglars do not care for documents of that kind.

It is a comfortable feeling to own something which is of value to yourself, but not to others, except upon bona fide transfer. You are always sure of keeping what belongs to you when your surplus is invested in Home Builders' shares and bonds.
