Ive Got it ~ exclaimed Thomas A. Edison

Come in. We'll play for you a duplicate of Mr. Edison's three million dollar phonograph—the Official Laboratory Model. You'll hear for yourself what Edison meant by his historical exclamation: "I've got it!"

The NEW EDISON

Supreme Realism

was the goal of Mr. Edison's great work with the phonograph. Seven long years, unceasingly, he toiled. Constant experiments brought him nearer to his goal each year. All the while, his researches devoured huge sums of money, which totalled, in the end, three million dollars. Finally, one day, he emerged from his laboratory, and announced to his associates:

"I've got it!—this gives the true result. Try it against living artists and see if ou

Then, Mr. Edison put the result of his

The acid test He made duplicates of his original three million dollar model, and matched them against living singers-and instrumentalists. He went into the largest balls in the greatest cities of the United States. Before huge audiences of music critics and music lovers, he gave his now famous tone-tests.

This is how he makes the test Asingersings. Suddenly the singer stops. At that instant the New Edison takes up the song. Four thousand times Mr. Edison has given this test. More than three million people formed the jury. The same test has been made with instrumentalists. No one has ever been able to detect a difference between the living singer-or instrumentalist-and the RE-CREATION of his performance by the New Edison.
