Problems That Perplex

Answered By
BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Wants Help.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have been a reader of The Bee for many years so come to you for advice. My wife died a year ago after an operation, leaving me with three step-children, 11, 13 and 19. The oldest girl kept house for me until May when she went to work in the telephone office.

I would like to have a woman here to keep house for me and help to raise the children as they should be raised. I don't look for a woman to marry but one who will do her best by the children. I live on a farm and can give good references.

What Use Are Women's Clubs

Mrs. Thomas Winter of Minnesota, upon her election Wednesday at Des Moines to the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, made the following statement to the press:

"The function of the Woman's club seems to me very clear. It creates in every community a group of trained and organized women who can be depended upon to back up every movement that makes for the betterment of that community's life. The purely cultural club is obsolete. But the club that is studying questions of the day—because it believes that "nothing is more dangerous than ignorance at work"—studying in order that it may follow up its knowledge by active work, this exists in every town and hamlet in the United States. Groups of such a character are a tremendous asset to the country in a time like this when half-fledged thought, hasty conclusions and hazy thinking are only too frequent.

"Beyond the individual club is the Federation of Women's Clubs. Its great problem is to get co-ordinated knowledge and activity through the 20,000 clubs that form its units, and so endeavor to concentrate the energies of a million and a half women on the things that will count most in the well-being of America. The organization into state federations and the coming together of representatives of those states in a biennial convention where they may hear experts in all lines and where they may consult with each other is a long step; but the federation has still much to do to consolidate its organization and get unified efficiency. This is the task that awaits the new administration. It must harvest the self-sacrifice, the wider patriotism and the deeper interest which women learned in war-time organizations into peace patriotism, directed in wise channels and backed by women's new political power.

"The federation has peculiar facilities for doing this work. First, it is not a one-purpose organization. It has its departments touching not only cultural subjects, but all phases of public interest—health, education, conservation, economics, Americanization, etc. So it sees life whole and discourages the one idea crank. Second, the federation has in its midst all types of women. It isn't a "class" affair. Rich and poor, city and country, educated and uneducated, broad and narrow, conservative and radical meet and realize that the things that bind them together are far deeper than the things that separate them. "The sisterhood of women" and the "fellowship of ideals" are behind the federation.

"There are big tasks lying before women—tasks that need such wisdom as we get from combined study, tasks that need the altruism we get from working together, tasks that need the energy we get from combination of effort. We want homes where the big things are made big and the little things are made unimportant, where children can be well-born and joyous and grow up to noble citizenship, where the family income is made to serve the highest family interests, where there are vigorous American bodies and minds. We want communities that are extensions of the home, where we shall be friends with each other, we people of all races and creeds, where good schools, high standards of public health, recreation, beauty, shall tempt the finest type of people to come and live with us and bring up their children.

"We cannot get these things unless we all work together. We must put them into daily intercourse and into politics."

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercerized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-soiled film-skin a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired, comes so easily, without harm or discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Just get an ounce of mercerized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case. It is the best thing known for freckles, moles, patches, liver spots and wrinkles.
