Divorcee Denies Former Housekeeper's Story That She Made Threat to Kill Elwell.

New York, June 6.-Viola Kraus divorced wife of Victor von Schlegell and "Miss Wilson, the girl of the lingerie," in the Elwell mur-der mystery, are one and the same

District Attorney Edward E. Swann made this known today in a statement he issued after examining Miss Kraus' statements made by Annie Kane, Elwell's former housekeeper, at her home in Ireland. Miss Kraus denied the story told by Annie that she threatened to "kill Eswell if he ever deserted her

The district attorney's office is not through, however, investigating the evidence furnished by Annie Kane. Tomorrow they will question Mrs. Joseph Wilmerding, the "other woman" of whom Annie told "Miss Wilson was jealous."

To Question Other Woman.

"We have communicated with of five months. Mrs. Wilmerding, and she will be questioned tomorrow as to her acquaintance with Elwell and what said today. "I understand that Mrs. Wilmerding has denied in an interview with newspaper men that she had every quarreled with 'Miss Wilson' or Elwell. "We must however, sift this information to the bottom.

"There were undoubtedly scores of persons who knew Elwell at Palm Beach, at the race courses, at Newport and other resorts, and here in the city-persons of high station in many cases. We have questioned many such people on what they knew of Elwell, in an effort to find some clew as to the mo tive of the crime," said the assistant district attorney, when questioned about several others whose names were mentioned by Annie Kane as being friends or associates of El-"These people, unless their stories have some direct bearing on the solution of the murder, should not be brought into the limelight. It is not fair to them," he continued. "When we find the man or woman we are looking for, who pulled the trigger and sent a bullet crashing into Elwell's brain, we will make it known, all right."

Will Solve Mystery.

Mr. Dooling, as well as other members of the district attorney's staff, expressed themselves as particularly well satisfied with certain "investigations we are conducting" and took the attitude that every bit of information turned up and examined helped the case along by just so much.

The entire case today, however, revolved about Viola Kraus and the attention of the authorities was focused upon her and her story to the exclusion of all else for several

The young society woman, who is spending the summer with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewisohn in New Jersey, was beyond the power of subpoena when District Attorney Swana wanted to question her. She came to New York voluntarily, however, and was questioned for three hours.

Will Make Disclosure.

Prohibition Enforcement Agent Shevlin said today that the work his men had done during the day had been entirely satisfactory. In-formation has been obtained, he said, with many ramifications, both as regards the murder and the boot legging scheme.

I am able to say positively that disclosures of a startling nature will come from the work of prohibition come from the work of profition agents within the next few days," Shevlin declared. "We believe that Elwell picked one man as coworker in the bootlegging undertaking and this one man had reason to believe that Elwell had double-crossed him. Much proof of this these has already been obtained." theory has already been obtained."
