HEAVY MARGINS CHECK VOLUME OF BUSINESS

Initial Scramble Is of Short Duration-Majority of the Dealers Soon Drift to Corn, Oats and Provision Markets.

Chicago, July 15. Reopening of future delivery wheat business today attracted a crowd to the Chicago board of trade, but as a spectacle, it was over in a couple of minutes. The big trading hall on exchange was exceptionally crowded to witness the fresh start of the business after a stoppage of nearly three years on account of war conditions. Everybody of consequence in the grain trade of Chicago appeared to be present, most of them on tip toe to see the initial scramble of brokers competiting to buy and sell wheat in the method that for years had largely governed the value of all breadstuffs, foreign as well as domestic. The scramble came in a twinkling and the familiar old-time uproar of the wheat pit joined with vigor the din from the other pits. Turmoil Soon Over.

Turmoil in the wheat crowd proved brief, however, for most of the oats and provisions pits. Heavy margins necessary to cover possible violent fluctuations had apparently checked any volume of trading. Price changes during the day were within ordinary limits, with Decemher wheat the principal option op-ening at $2.72 to $2.75, somewhat lower than had been generally ex-pected and closing weak at $2.70 1-2, influenced more or less by weather conditions likely to avert crop damage from black rust

"Now that sales may be made in the open market at any time, I look for a constantly increasing volume of business."
