

ENGLAND FORCED TO KEEP ULSTER FOR PROTECTION

Britain Supremacy of Sea Threatened Without Ireland. Duke of Northumberland Declares in Interview.

London, July 17.—Grave warnings have been uttered by Sir Edward Carson as to the world-wide plots against the British Empire. Sinn Feiners and radicals, he declared, organized the anti-British movements from New York and the ramifications extended to Egypt, India and elsewhere.

He insisted on the vital necessity of Ulster remaining loyal to the forces of the crown if the world was to be saved. A statement by the duke of Northumberland, who himself has had military experience in three wars, and has written much on strategic questions, sets out the reasons which make Ulster of capital importance to England as a possible jumping off ground and salient against the extremist movement.

"The strategic position of Ireland in regard to Great Britain is precisely the same as the strategic position of Great Britain in regard to northern Europe.

"Owing to the geographical situation of the British Isles, lying as they do across the sea routes which lead to the Atlantic from northern France, Holland, Germany, Scandinavia and northern Russia, the commerce of these countries is at our mercy.

Sea Rule at Stake. "That is why we have had to fight in the past Holland, France and Germany for supremacy at sea. It is that geographical position which is responsible for the formation of the British Empire, for its immense influence on the commerce of the world and the fact that our intervention in a European war has always proved decisive.

Twice Wounded in War; Heroine Meets Death in Automobile Crash

New York, July 17.—"Lady," a town-legged heroine of the World War, twice wounded in action, met death here under the wheels of an automobile.

Mascot of the 23d Infantry, Second Division, "Lady," a Belgian police dog, was over the top with the famous regiment in the advance between Soissons and Chateau-Thierry, and was wounded. She recovered later, in another engagement, "Lady" received a battle scar.

After the victory the little canine heroine was brought home by the company's bugler, Robert Fash.

An idol of the children of the neighborhood, "Lady" was "out" every day. She was pressed into service by mothers who wanted babies watched while they went in stores and carried parcels for all the kiddies.

Last Decoration Day with her master "Lady" visited thirty-nine cemeteries where soldiers of the World War are buried and took part in the exercises. Fash sounded "taps."

"Lady," not so nimble of foot because of her wounds, attempted to cross a crowded New York street. She was caught beneath the wheels of an automobile.

The little pet was buried with military honors.

Quija Never Fibs; Rosa Believed It; Now She's Out $850

Pittsburgh, July 17.—"You are about to suffer a great loss," spelled out the ouija board under the operation of Rosa Christy.

Rosa believed it. Ouija had never told her wrong. When two gypsies knocked at her door Rosa saw an opportunity of learning more about the ouija warning. After a quiet consultation the gypsies learned of the ouija message and also that Rosa had $850 in bank. She was told that some person had put a curse upon her and that if she would take the money from the bank they would remove the curse.

Omaha Restaurant Man Banishes Unrest By Making Employees Partners in Firm

Louis Beatty Gives Bonus To Workers and Sees Them Hold Stock in Business—Plan Works.

Thirty-two years ago a young man alighted from a cattle car at the South Side stock yards. He was of unkempt appearance having traveled from a farm in Illinois and earned his transportation by carrying a shipment of live stock on the route. He was destined for "tom" where the west begins, and after finding his way uptown he decided to find a place where he could remain and grow up with the town. He had $1.50 in working capital and an intangible wealth of determination.

He obtained a job as waiter in the old One Minute restaurant, which was a landmark on Farnam street. And the years went by in the whirl of time.

Has Solved Problem. The real story of Louis R. Beatty, however, is not the story he has stuck to his job during all of these years and now has two restaurants of his own, but rather that in these days of social and economic unrest he has entered into the promised land where labor and capital dwell in reciprocal relations.

Has Other Benefits. Nor is that all of it. Mr. Beatty has incorporated another feature which makes it possible for his co-workers to further increase their earnings. He issues profit-sharing certificates which may be of the amount of $50 or any multiple thereof, but not exceed $2,000. These certificates may be issued to any co-worker who has been in the service for three months, and dividends are paid on the basis of the amount of the certificate and the capital investment. Dividends are paid on the 10th of January, April, July and October. The first dividend was paid last week.

Proud of Spirit Created. But these mere figures do not tell the real human side of the story. It is the esprit du corps that is observed in the Uneeda cafeteria on Sixteenth street and the Harmony cafeteria on Harney street, that speaks to the one who is searching for the panacea for industrial unrest. Mr. Beatty expressed it in these words: "Before I adopted this plan there was a feeling of jealousy because I was the boss and my employees thought that I was making too much money. Now they are all co-workers in fact as well as in fancy and there is a better feeling between myself and the workers and also between the co-workers themselves. They now realize that faithful service means more earnings for all of us. There are fewer broken dishes. They are more cheerful and patient with the public. They earn this extra money which is divided as bonuses and profit-sharing. I am only the general manager and that arrangement is satisfactory to all. Ten now do the work that 12 did under the old plan. My worries have nearly all disappeared."

Coworkers Have One. A committee of five advisers is appointed from the coworkers to act as arbitrators and trustees for the purpose of adjusting all disputes that may arise. The committee accounts are open and are accessible.

Helm, Ship Broker, Is Sorry He Refused to Accept First Award

San Francisco, July 17.—If you are awarded a judgment of $12,500, take it and be thankful, is the advice Frank P. Helm, a local shipping broker, is giving his friends.

Helm was awarded the above amount some months ago against the American Hawaiian Steamship company for a breach of contract. He demanded a new trial recently, and the jury returned a verdict that he was not entitled to anything.

Prior to the United States entering the world war Helm entered into a contract to charter the S. S. Floridan to carry a cargo of German goods from the Orient to this port. The owners of the vessel demanded a bond of $525,000. Helm was unable to furnish this and the contract was canceled. Helm brought suit for $700,000.

The first trial was before Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet. The second case was heard by a jury, Judge Frank H. Rodkin presiding.

For inspection by all certificate holders. Remembers the Dime Meals? Discussing present-day high prices, Mr. Beatty barked back to the old days when he operated an eating place at Fifteenth street and Capitol avenue where he made a specialty of 10-cent meals. At that time he served soup, meat, potatoes, bread, butter and coffee for one dime, and he would accept a thin dime, too. He stated that he bought potatoes in those days for 25 cents per bushel and received 48 loaves of bread for $1 at wholesale rates. He bought a quarter of beef for 4 to 4 1/2 cents per pound. "But that was long ago," he reminisced.

31 MILLION FOR RELIEF IN EAST SPENT BY JEWS

Report Shows Most of Money Was Raised in United States —Greatest Share Used in Poland.

New York, July 17.—More than $31,000,000 has been expended in American Jewish relief work in Eastern Europe and various war-affected areas throughout the world since aid for Jewish war sufferers was organized shortly after the outbreak of the war, a report of the joint distribution committees shows. Most of the funds, which the committee spent in 33 countries and territories, was raised by the American Jewish relief committee, of which Louis Marshall is chairman. During the past 18 months, when the committee carried on nonsectarian campaigns throughout the United States, under the direction of Henry H. Rosenfeld, the first time in the history of the Jewish people that they ever went outside their own race to ask for aid, over $16,000,000 was raised. Poland, together with Lithuania and Courland, received almost half the appropriations, $14,784,908.76. Palestine, with $4,345,337.38, and Russia, with $4,329,247.42, followed. In Austria, Hungary and Galicia $3,325,819.53 was expended; in Greece, Turkey, Serbia and Syria $1,542,909.79, and in Rumania $1,218,150.86.

British "Wets" Abhor Prohibition Equally With Drunkenness

London, July 17.—Comic pictures of hard-bitten kilted Scots, deprived at length of their whisky, entreating for "wet" points south of the border, are beginning to flood the illustrated weeklies. They reflect the national feeling that in the tight to the death on prohibition which is now being waged in Scotland, whisky stands a good chance of receiving a knock-out blow. This is why the anti-prohibition forces have reconsidered their position and decided to improve their crude and often vulgar publicity campaign. They are now hitting with full force against drunkenness in a frantic effort to preserve women's votes for the cause of spirituous beverages. "Britain free as well as sober" is their resounding retort to the dry gibes about the "Drunk Lion" being pecked to extinction by the "Sober Eagle."

Naval Club Flies to Ball Game in Flock Of Fast Airplanes

Pascagoula, Miss., July 17.—Pascagoula, shipbuilding town "out front," is small in area and population, but is as progressive as a New York or Los Angeles.

The shipbuilders' base ball team wanted to play ball the other day. They had a game scheduled with the Pensacola Naval Station club. The latter organization missed the train and wired Pascagoula to that effect. "Whassa matter with you," telephoned E. A. Chester, who learned a lot of things in the world war as a first sergeant (they all do). "Can't you spill some gas into the tanks of some of those idle buses over there and come on?" "Good idea," remarked the flyer's manager. An hour later the fans, waiting in Pascagoula park, saw several airplanes in the distance. The planes took the water in Pascagoula river and the team was on the diamond but five minutes late. "Now ain't that grand?" said Charles E. Shea, head of the Pascagoula Commercial club.
