

OMAHA WEATHER
PROPHET FOR 32
YEARS RESIGNS

M. V. Robins, First Assistant, To Have Charge of Station Temporarily.

After serving 47 years in the capacity of weather man for the government, 32 of the 47 being spent as Omaha's weather prophet, Col.
Lucius A. Welsh, Tuesday morning, announced his resignation as head of the local weather bureau. Mr.
Welsh, who is 71 years of age, with his wife, will leave soon after August 20 for California, where they will make their home.
M. V. Robins, who has been Col.
Welsh's first assistant for the last 15 years, will have charge of the station until the Washington officials appoint a weather man for Omaha.
It is believed at the postoffice that Mr. Robins will be chosen to fill Welsh's shoes.

Omaha's weather man started his service with the government when he was but a youngster. He has worked his way to the top, until today he is considered by experts to be one of the most capable men in the service. He is known throughout the west and his weather predictions, although failing to come true at times, have more than once proved valuable to business men and farmers, who rely upon the predictions of the weather man in their daily business.

Mr. Welsh first came to this city in 1888 to take charge of the Omaha weather station. He was here but a short time when he was ordered to report at Kansas City to erect a station. He remained in that city until December, 1893, when he was instructed to return to Omaha and be first assistant to Capt. George Hunt.
Following Mr. Hunt's resignation, Col. Welsh was appointed in charge of the station.

City Planning Body
Booms River Drive
Before City Council

Dr. Harold Gifford, George T.
Morton and J. E. George of the City Planning commission appeared before the city council yesterday to urge favorable consideration of the river drive and inner belt traffic-way projects which the commission wants to submit to the voters at the November election.

Dr. Gifford stated that it be-hooved the city officials to acquire property for the river drive before further invasion by industries. He explained the drive will lead to and connect Mandan park, Fontenelle forest reserve and would offer opportunities for establishing various recreation and rest places along its route.

The plan which has been prepared by the planning commission contemplated a drive to a point beyond the Florence water station.
The council will act on these matters next Monday morning.

Old Clothes Drive of Near East Relief Not Going Well in Omaha

Warm, winter clothes, especially children's sizes, are sorely needed for the poor little tots of Armenia, and the drive in Omaha is not going as well as it should, according to Mrs. R. A. Findley, state director of the Near East relief commission.
"It's summer now, but soon the cold winds from the north will be raging in Armenia," said Mrs.
Findley, "and the poor, little Armenians will need warm clothing." Clothing may either be given to any laundryman, who will transport it to headquarters, or may be taken direct to the Municipal Auditorium where a corps of workers are packing articles to fill a special car for shipment overseas.

Packers to Resume
Operations in Fall,
Lloyd Skinner Says

The Skinner Packing company's big model plant on the South Side which has been "tied up" by legal difficulties for several weeks will be operating "full blast" early this fall, Lloyd Skinner declared yesterday.

"We are working out a financial plan whereby our own stockholders may raise the money necessary to get the plant started," he said. "Considerable money is tied up for several weeks between the time the live stock is bought and the time the finished product is paid for, and it is for this that we have the financial assistance. But you can be sure that the plant will start in the fall."

Letters Sent to Chicago by Airplane Will Be Marked

In order that the efficiency of airial mail service between this city and Chicago be brought more forcibly to the attention of business men in Omaha and points between here and the Windy City, Postmaster Herbert S. Daniel has ordered each letter that leaves the Omaha postoffice for delivery by airplane should be stamped with the following, "This letter sent by aerial mail." According to Mr. Daniel, business men in Omaha are not taking full advantage of the aerial mail delivery.
Letters must be in the postoffice by noon each day in order to be sent east by ship.
