

ONE-MAN RULE OF DEMOCRATS HIT BY M'LAUGHLIN

Country Needs Rule of Co-Operation Instead of Autocratic Dictation, Nebraska Congressman Says.

BY E. C. SNYDER.

Washington Correspondent of Omaha Bee. Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—McLaughlin of the Fourth Nebraska district, speaking last night at the annual meeting of the Harding and Coolidge club, which was attended by more than 500 men and women, traced the history of the republican party from its inception to the present time, enumerating the distinguishing features of the administrations of every republican president since Lincoln's day. Speaking of present-day conditions, Mr. McLaughlin said:

"When the electors of the nation made the tremendous blunder, as a result of division in republican ranks and placed the reins of government in the hands of Woodrow Wilson and his democratic advisers in 1912, the democrats inherited one of the highest legacies that was ever bequeathed to a political party. Our credit was the best in the world, our people were prosperous and labor was employed. We had no outstanding alliance of any kind and held nothing but good will for all the world. Notwithstanding such an advantageous opportunity as was afforded the present democratic administration, their third failure in government has been even worse than the two preceding ones. There has been an arrogant assumption of one-man power that is wholly out of accord with a republican form of government and entirely out of harmony with the democratic principle. There has been practiced the worst type of wasteful extravagance ever known in history.

"When all the facts are known the people will realize clearly that the excess of the United States in the recent world war was due to the heroic, patriotic citizenship of the republic and that the war was won by the people, not the cause of, but in spite of the administration at Washington. It is a well-known fact that Republicans in congress have not only led in the enactment of such of the necessary war legislation, including even the draft law."

Further along Nebraska's representative on the national congressional committee said: "The attitude of the republican party, under the leadership of its most worthy standard bearer, Senator Warren G. Harding, toward the league covenant, as well as other issues of this campaign, has been made perfectly clear. Mr. Harding pledged himself to assist in the restoration of peace between the United States and her enemies at the earliest possible moment. If such safeguarding reservations can be agreed upon as will protect America's rightful interests and sovereignty as a member of the league, no doubt the league with such reservations will be adopted. If not, peace will be established and time will bring about such an international court as the best statesmanship can devise for the promotion of peace in the world."

"The new republican administration will restore the credit of this nation and bring its bonds not only up but a premium. The cumbersome revenue laws enacted by a democratic administration will be revised and simplified, the numerous injustices that have resulted in such unrest and disorders as now obtain will be met, one by one, and solved in the same efficient, statesmanlike manner as republicans have always met and solved needful questions."

"But in my judgment there are even greater issues confronting the voters of this republic at the present time than the league of nations. The question of whether or not free government is to be restored and maintained in this country is of supreme importance. Republicans believe in government by men instead of government by one person, in government by men instead of government by a man, in the co-operation of the various branches of the government instead of autocratic club dictation on the part of one man who delights to feed and fondle his pet powers and order congress to keep off the grass at the White House."

Plattsburgh's Sole Night Copper Quits, Pay Too Small

Plattsburgh, Neb., Aug. 13.—(Special.)—With the business men clamoring for the addition of another policeman to the force, Plattsburgh's sole night patrolman has tendered his resignation because, he says, the $100 a month salary is inadequate to support his family. The city budget has been made for the coming year and the city dads are facing a trying problem.

The Real Human Bird

The dream of Darius Green, who was immortalized in verse, to fly like a bird seems to have been realized by H. S. Dixon, inventor of the Ornithopter, or wing-flapping machine, which is propelled by the action of the man himself and not by an engine. The action of the machine is similar to that of a bird. Mr. Dixon is inventor, patentee and builder. The measurement of the plane from tip to tip of the wings is 23 feet 6 inches; from nose to tail, 14 feet. The machine weighs 47 pounds and can maintain a speed of from 15 to 20 miles an hour. The chief parts of the plane are made of Vickers' duralumin.

Woman Who Shot Her Husband in Hotel Is Charged With Murder

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Vilola Brinkman, who shot and killed her husband, John H. Brinkman, in a hotel here yesterday, will be the principal witness at the coroner's inquest to be held today. A warrant charging murder was served herself yesterday afternoon. She denied herself to all callers during the day, declaring she would not have anything to say until she hears from relatives.

Mrs. Brinkman, who is 47 years old, shot her husband, 48, as he was about to enter his rooms in the hotel. Letters found in the hotel after the shooting indicate that the couple were estranged. Brinkman was an automobile salesman. To the police Mrs. Brinkman claimed there was another woman in the case.

RAIL SITUATION NOW IMPROVING, EXECUTIVE SAYS

Employees Working Harder Since New Wage Scale Was Granted—Urges Use of Water Routes.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Aug. 13.—The railroad situation has improved in the last few days, because the employees have begun to work hard and the executives have regained their enthusiasm since the increase in pay rates, according to Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and chairman of the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives.

He testified yesterday at the hearing of the United States senate committee on reconstruction, of which Senator Calder is chairman. Mr. Willard agreed with Calder that the United States government could alleviate the coal shortage considerably by using shipping board vessels.

Mr. Willard concluded three hours of testimony with his optimistic statement about the railroad prospect, saying: "The workmen seem to be generally satisfied with the wage increase and from all directions I hear men are working better. Officers of the roads themselves have taken new life. Most of the roads have been potentially 'busted' for two years. It isn't human for a man to get up on his tiptoes and do the best that is in him when, when he is done, he has nothing to show for it."

"BIG MINERS" ARE WAGING WAR ON SMALL OPERATORS

Influence Brought to Bear on Commission Against Independent Producers.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—A campaign of propaganda is under way in governmental and other circles here to induce action by the Interstate Commerce commission which will force the shutting down of hundreds of small coal mines throughout the country.

"Big mine" operators are fighting against the continued existence of the small mines on the claim that they are uneconomical. Particularly they charge that inadequate loading facilities at small mines result in tying up coal longer than would be the case if all production was centered in the larger mines.

"Big mine" operators claim that the elimination of the small mines would mean lower coal prices because, they claim, large mines are equipped to operate at lower cost. They assume that the big mines would give the public the benefit of this reduced operating cost, even with the competition of the small mine eliminated.

Governmental administration of fuel prices, it is stated brought higher prices because small mine production was encouraged and the price of all coal was fixed sufficiently high to pay a profit to such mines, whose cost of operation was high.

on it, in time?" Mr. Willard was asked. "The transportation act makes private ownership possible," he replied. "Whether the people want to continue it depends on what sort of service they get. The railway managers know that if a car shortage or coal shortage occurs again, the people would be likely to believe that it was the fault of the railroads and it would be hard to shift the burden, even if the blame did not justly attach to the railroads."

"I am sure that the railroads, among others, will take a more active interest next spring than this spring, and the reason we did not take a more active interest this spring was because we were engaged in shifting from one organization to another and because of the strike."

Mr. Willard added he thought the railway managers next spring would remind the people of the northwest, who were now complaining that they would freeze if they did not receive coal priority, that they would face that situation again if they did not buy their coal in the spring.

GOVERNOR COX OPENS CAMPAIGN AT CAMP PERRY

Democratic Nominee Urges Honorable Settlement of All National Disputes Without War.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 13.—Governor Cox, opening his campaign travels Thursday with an address at the national rifle competition, urged continued American interest in marksmanship, but honorable settlement of national disputes without war.

"Peace by arbitration of reason rather than force," was the vision he gave an audience of soldiers, sailors and citizens. "I believe every home in America," he added, "indulges the hope and breathes the prayer that we will never again engage in war if, with honor, we can keep out of war. Can we not catch a vision of it as we face toward the future?"

The governor received much applause in his reference to world peace and also when he declared that the government should bestow commissions on the troops in the war and not received before their discharge.

This was "Governors day" at Camp Perry and the governor presented to Capt. C. J. Vananberg, Bridgeport, Conn., a silver vase, the Ohio executive's trophy in the rifle contest. Captain Vananberg made 149 hits out of 150 shots.

Another appeal to democrats of the Tennessee legislature to ratify the woman's suffrage amendment was sent last night by the governor. On receipt of a message from Governor Roberts of Tennessee, Governor Cox replied:

"The platform presented to the country by a political party is not only an evidence of intent but of good faith. It carries the specification which will be rendered if the opportunity presents. The first trade union in America was the Mechanics' Union of Trade Associations, organized in Philadelphia in 1827."
