Lieutenant Frank Lamb.

get them with machine gun fire now.

Cotton, coffee and sugar are the chief products of the island. Tropical fruits are also raised in abundance. The Haitians are ignorant and uneducated, Lamb says.

The pilots carry mail when they are not fighting. The service in the island is excellent, but it is not so good from the states to Haiti.

Lieut. Lamb lived in Omaha about eight years ago with his uncle, the late Joseph Connor. His grandmother, Mrs. Ellen O'Connor of Los Angeles, is visiting with him here. He is staying at the Conant hotel.

Lieut. Lamb is stationed at Quantico, Va., but will probably go back to Haiti as soon as his furlough time is up.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION IS FACING SPLIT IN RANKS

Dissatisfied Members at Convention Lay Groundwork For New Organization.

Albany, Aug. 14.—Delegates out satisfied with the proceedings of the annual convention of the International Typographical union in convention here, led by President Elect John McParland of New York, met in a separate hall and laid the groundwork for what was termed a "progressive organization."

Several propositions relative to news writers' unions were referred to the executive committee for final action. These included a resolution to exclude news writers from the organization, another to provide for the encouragement of their organization; a third for a thorough investigation of the situation and another to provide for the redrafting of the typographical union laws to fit the editorial rooms.

The convention, however, went on record as favoring the organization of copyholders, "because the position demands superior intelligence and brain power, fully as well as the position of proof reader."

Statements Made by Roosevelt in Speech Are Challenged

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(Special Telegram.)—Chairman James W. Good of the house committee on appropriations, who is at republican headquarters here in charge of the speakers' bureau, challenged statements on fiscal affairs made by Franklin Roosevelt, democratic candidate for vice president, in the latter's Chicago speech.

"I am wondering whether Franklin really forgot or whether he ever knew," said Mr. Good, alluding to what Roosevelt said about fiscal affairs. He declared the vice presidential candidate had in effect indicted President Wilson and his cabinet for gross extravagance, quoting Roosevelt as saying that if the democratic party were returned to power, expenditures "today running at $6,000,000,000 a year would be cut to $4,000,000,000."

Mr. Good said the administration is solely responsible for expenditures and if the administration is paying out $2,000,000,000 more than necessary, President Wilson and the cabinet are responsible.

He pointed out that Roosevelt was much confused in his figures and seemed to forget that while the administration asked for $3,685,129,229 this year the republican congress refused to appropriate more than $4,373,395,279, thus saving over $1,312,000,000. In the extra session and regular session, he said congress saved $2,710,000,000 and prevented issue of $2,500,000,000 more bonds.
