GOOD POSITIONS GO TO THOSE WHO HAD TRAINING

Big Jobs Will Be Taken by Men and Women Who Prepared for the Future.

There are at the present time a great many high salaried positions in the business world, but the men and women who will attain them are men and women who have given their futures enough consideration to prepare themselves thoroughly to take advantage of these positions when one is offered.

There is no education that pays so much and costs so little as that offered in the accredited commercial schools, nor is there any schooling which requires such a short time to obtain results. In the modern business college no time is lost on subjects that the student will never use in a business way, but they are taught the fundamentals that will not only help them get a start, but will insure their advancement to the higher positions. Boyles colleges of Omaha and Council Bluffs offer a wide range of subjects that are invaluable to the worker when he enters the business field, a complete commercial course, stenographic, secretarial and telegraphy courses, the civil service in all its branches. Many successful Omaha men and women received their early business training at this institution, and all are hearty boosters.

This school is continuing in both day and evening sessions throughout the summer.

St. Joseph Academy.

St. Joseph Academy, Des Moines, Ia., will enter on the new school year in September in better condition than ever before to carry on the work of Catholic education.

A variety of courses are offered at the academy, beginning with the primary and intermediate grades and extending to the high school work fully accredited by the State of Iowa. The academy is affiliated with the Catholic university of America and the state university of Iowa.

The academic department offers three general courses of study, the classical, the scientific and the commercial. In addition to the regular commercial high school course, which combines the requirements of business training with the requirements of standard high school graduation, special commercial courses of one or two years are offered. Both are certificate courses. Well equipped laboratories provide for work in physics, chemistry, biology and home economics.

The conservatory courses in piano, voice, violin and art conform to the best standards in these subjects.

With a view to cultivating in the pupils grace of expression, purity of diction and ease of manner, the department of expression has been organized. A course in dramatics is offered, including dramatic reading, public speaking and physical training.

I'M THE GUY

I'M THE GUY who throws the bluff of being the busiest member of the office force, but "lets George do it" every time he gets a chance.

When the boss is parading between the desks I'm bent over mine like a jockey who has "instructions" to win.

And when I'm chinning with the bunch I tell him I'm "overworked and underpaid," and all that sort of junk.

But just watch me duck when any real work is laid on my shoulders. I'm there with the excuse for ducking it before I'm half asked to do it!

I can always suggest someone else for the govt. I'd rather see another guy's back bent double under an extra load than even take a little of it on my own shoulders.

But I'm telling you this in confidence. It isn't what I tell the boss! Nix! Not! Nix!

few hens that were left for taking the McQueen family to the train. Larry and Eileen saw him coming up the road. "Here comes Mr. Maguire with the cart!" they cried, "and Dennis is driving the jaunting-car with Michael and Granite on it."

They soon reached the little group by the roadside, and then the luggage was loaded into the cart. Mrs. McQueen got up with Granite on one side of the jaunting-car and Eileen sat between them. Michael and Mr. McQueen were on the other side with Larry. The small bags and bundles were put in the well of the jaunting-car.

"Get up!" cried Dennis, and off they started. Mrs. McQueen looked back at the old house and cried into her new shawl. Granite was crying, too. But Michael said: "Wait until you see your new home, and sure, you'll be crying to think you weren't in it before!" And that cheered them up again, and soon a turn in the road hid the old house from their sight.

The luggage was heavy and Colleen was slow. So it took several hours to reach the railroad. It took longer, too, because all the people in the village ran out of their houses to say good by. When they passed the schoolhouse the master gave the children leave to say good by to the twins. He even came out to the road himself and shook hands with everybody.

Seniors—

You who are graduating from High School or Prep School—toward what goal does your ambition point? Do you lean toward a career in business or in one of the professions? Is it your intention to become an educator, a scientist, an agricultural expert? Do you plan to prepare yourself for the strenuous battle of life by thorough special training in any line? There has never been a time when such training was more essential, when its advantages were more apparent. We live in an era of transition and adjustment; in a world new-born after the cataclysm. Profound changes have been wrought. Trying times, and times of glorious opportunity, are just ahead. The University trained man or woman will approach these trials, these opportunities, equipped with sound training and sure knowledge. And in comparison with these advantages, the time, the effort, the money involved in securing such training will count as little.

Your State University, time-honored and hallowed in tradition, offers a well rounded education in your chosen vocation, together with a host of pleasant and worth while activities for your leisure hours. A comprehensive curriculum, an unequalled corps of professors and instructors; athletics, debating societies, music, dramatics—all these await you at Lincoln.

Especially interesting to you will be the literature describing the University and its manifold activities, which is now ready for distribution to 1920 Seniors. Send for your copy. It will be of help to you in making your plans for the future.
