

PLUCKY WOMAN FIGHTS TO HELP RESCUE HUSBAND

Mrs. Catherine O'Hanlon, Weight 90 Pounds, Points Out Man She Helped to Whip.

When she saw a gang of rowdies attack her husband and two other men at Waterloo on the night of July 31, Mrs. Catherine O'Hanlon, who weighs but 90 pounds, got in the fight and put to rout a man whom she says was Albert Schneider, who is built on the same general lines as Jack Dempsey.

Mrs. O'Hanlon is the wife of H. G. O'Hanlon, 1511 North Twenty-first street. Both were in a picnic party, members of which were attacked and beaten near the dance pavilion at Waterloo. Dr. Charles Lee, one of the picnicers, still is in a hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. O'Hanlon's story of the fight was corroborated by John M. Higgins, 2861 Dodge street, and in part by other witnesses.

Takes Part in Fight. "That's the man," Mrs. O'Hanlon said, pointing to Schneider, who was in the courtroom. "He and two other men had my husband down and were beating him in the face. I kicked him in the back until he got up," she said.

Higgins said that after Schneider ceased his attack on O'Hanlon, he joined several others, who had Dr. Lee down and were beating him. Finally, they let up on Dr. Lee. Higgins said, and then Schneider returned and was going to renew the attack on O'Hanlon, who was dazed and hardly able to stand, but Mrs. O'Hanlon again stepped in and drove the man away. Higgins' identification of Schneider was not positive.

More than a dozen residents of Waterloo and vicinity were examined but no one could tell who participated in the fight. With but one exception, they arrived on the scene "just after it was over," they said.

Fred Schneider admitted an unknown man called him names, "poked him in the eye," and put him out of the fight.

Admits Hitting Schneider. H. G. O'Hanlon admitted he hit Schneider. He said Schneider had thrown dirt into his automobile and called him names.

Mr. O'Hanlon denied the picnicers had been drinking or had liquor with them, but thought the men who attacked them had been drinking.

The party, 15 persons in three automobiles, arrived at Waterloo about 11 p. m. Saturday, he said, planned to eat lunch, dance a while, camp that night, and spend Sunday fishing.

His brother, Edward F. O'Hanlon, had gone to see the manager of the grounds, he said, and other members of the party were dancing. He and Dr. Lee remained to guard the cars.

"What's the idea?" O'Hanlon said he asked.

The reply was an outburst of profanity.

"I never had a fight before in my life, but I was never called a name like that before," O'Hanlon said, "so I hit him."

Then, he said, somebody said, "Let's get the gang," he and Dr. Lee immediately commenced to round up members of their party, intending to leave.

In a few minutes, he said, the whole crowd from the dance hall, about 150 persons, started their way. About 20 of them attacked O'Hanlon, his brother, Ed F. O'Hanlon, and Dr. Lee.

Fred Schneider said he and several companions had been in a restaurant eating sandwiches. As they came out, about midnight, a stranger walked up to him and accused him of throwing dirt in his car. Schneider denied it, whereupon the stranger "slammed him in the eye," he said.

He heard of another fight later, he said, but had no part in it.

Branding Revolver. John Hofeldt testified that he heard there was a fight but when he arrived on the scene it was all over. A "tall, slim man" was lying on the ground, Hofeldt said, with a revolver in his right hand. He took the revolver from him and displayed it at the hearing today.

Glenn Payne, Arthur Myers, John Schneider, Frank ("Unc") Schneider, Carl Lockwood and several others told practically the same story as Fred Schneider.

Hurries to Scene. However, H. G. O'Hanlon said he was "reasonably certain" the man who attacked him was John Frank and Albert, were members of the crowd that started the trouble.

Edward F. O'Hanlon, public accountant, corroborated the testimony of his brother.

Arthur Myers, who runs the dance hall, said he heard a fight was going on and hurried to the place. There was a man lying on the ground, he said, and another with his coat off who got into an automobile.

Nobody Seems to Know. He and Burnett Grimes, a barber, placed the man on the ground in the automobile, he said. Grimes told the same story.

Clarence Adams of Valley said he was hired to look after the dance floor that night, as Myers was attending to parking the cars. He heard there was a fight, he said, but knew nothing about it.

All of the witnesses said they had never learned who the participants in the fight were.

August Fischer, 4018 South Twenty-eighth street, another member of the picnic party, said that soon after the first trouble he heard a man whom he believed to be Fred Schneider, say "Are you going to stand for it or are you going to take it up?" They agreed to "take it up," he said. That was just before the general fight began.

The man pointed out H. G. O'Hanlon, Fischer said, and declared "that's the man who hit me."

Mrs. Nellie Seelye, who had recently undergone an operation for appendicitis and who was injured during the fight, identified several in the courtroom as members of the Waterloo gang.

THE GUMPS

I'M GOING TO TAKE A LITTLE VACATION, MUM—I'M GOING AWAY FOR A WEEK OR SO—WAY UP IN THE WILDS AND FLIRT WITH NATURE—FISHIN'—THAT'S MY DISH

OLD SHADY REST—THAT'S THE PLACE FOR FISH—WONDER HOW OLD TIMER IS—WHAT THAT BIRD DOESN'T KNOW ABOUT FISHIN' ISN'T IN THE BOOK—HE CAN LOOK OUT IN THE LAKE AND JUST ONE FLASH AT THE WATER AND HE KNOWS WHAT THE FISH WANT TO EAT—AND HE GIVES IT TO 'EM—NOT FOR LONG—HE TAKES IT RIGHT AWAY FROM 'EM—HE GIVES 'EM 20 FISH A TASTE OF THE SAME BAIT

GET OUT IN THE MORNING—SEE THOSE FISH SCATTER—CRAWLING ALL AROUND THE GROUND LOOKING FOR WORMS—YOU CAN JUST SIT IN THE WINDOW AND THROW OUT A LINE AND GET YOURSELF A MESS OF FISH—GOT UP ONE MORNING AND SAW A COUPLE OF 'EM LYING ON A MAT IN FRONT OF THE FIRE—THAT OLD BIRD'S GOT FISH NET ON THE WINDOW INSTEAD OF MOSQUITO NETTING TO KEEP THE FISH OUT OF THE HOUSE

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

GOOD TIMES ONCE MORE

According to the New York Times, a hopeful sign of returning normal conditions is the fact that pawnbrokers have begun to make heavier loans.

Though alarmists still may grumble their continuous complaint, Prices soon are going to tumble; Ask your uncle if they ain't! For the stevedore's apprentice Isn't buying limousines, And the hat-check boy content is With a meal of beef and beans. While the clerk, who used to dicker On the curb for copper stock, Has a ticket on his ticker, And his overcoat's in hock.

Loan-sharks, long deprived of custom, Muttered, deeply discontent, That prosperity would bust 'em, For they couldn't lend a cent. All the needy souls who haunted Uncle's place in days of yore, Having all the coin they wanted, Never came to borrow more.

But the day of reckless earning, So we read, is waning fast; Better times are now returning To the hock-shop man at last. Now the former heavy spender Leaves his sieve links and his watch For the fund of legal tender That he needs to purchase Scotch. He has ceased to be a kicker, Has your uncle, down the block, For the ticket's on the ticker And the overcoat's in hock.

GREATER OPPORTUNITIES Russian General Takes Job as Chauffeur—Headline. Probably wouldn't kill enough people on the battlefield.

THE ONLY QUALIFICATION Any American boy can aspire to be president of the United States, provided, of course, that he was born in Ohio.

MAKING IT DANGEROUS In Paris, duellists may be punished by imprisonment for as much as a year, which gives a real risk to the practice.

I'M THE GUY who starts telling his troubles to every new acquaintance, five minutes after he meets him. I've exhausted the patience of all my friends, so why shouldn't I pick on strangers when I want to un-bosom myself? I've had a tough deal, I admit it, and I'm ready to tell the world all about it, over and over again.

The Bee's Fund for Free Milk and Ice

I am so thankful for the help that has been given me, said a little mother last week when she was made the beneficiary of The Bee's free milk and ice fund. Misfortune hovered over her home and her baby was in need of that which is most essential to give it a fighting chance in its young life.

The fund has been supported splendidly this summer by friends of The Bee. There is yet more work to be done before the season is over. The Visiting Nurses' association of Omaha is administering the fund.

SHADES OF OLD SHADY REST

TWIN STORIES

BY LUCY FITCH PERKINS

Irish Twins Take the Train

But for all that, when the train came rattling into the station, there they all were on the platform in a row, ready to get on board. When it stopped, the guard jumped down and opened the door of a compartment. He put Grannie in first, then Mrs. McQueen and the Twins. They were dreadfully afraid the train would start before Mr. McQueen and Michael and all the luggage were on board.

7-Bees Short Story

Nora—You're It

The five Lanebrook girls were the "rompiest" most playful children that ever came into a minister's household, according to old Mrs. Mayhew, who lived next door to the parsonage of the Maryville Methodist Episcopal church.

Parents' Problems

1. Is it right to allow boys and girls of high school age to dance the "modern dances"?

WHY?

Does Tartar Form On the Teeth?

Because of the very nature of the various foods which we take into the body through the mouth, all of which mix with the saliva and are reduced to at least a partial state of disintegration, an almost constant state of chemical reaction is going on in the mouth.

Old Mrs. Mayhew pondered. Only yesterday it seemed that little Ger-

Common Sense

The Home in Hot Weather. Mr. Husband, you kick about having to work during warm weather and you surely would not work as much as you do if it were not necessary.

What Do You Know?

- 1. What is the name of the largest ship? 2. Which automobile is advertised as the most beautiful car in America? 3. Which car is advertised by "ask the man who owns one?"

FRIDAY'S ANSWERS

1. With what Indian chief did the Pilgrims make a treaty? Massasoit. 2. What was the name of his tribe? Narragansett.

AMUSEMENTS

KRUG PARK Tuesday Afternoon and Evening Street Car Employees OUTING PICNIC DANCE

Union Pacific Band Come Out—You May Be Given the 5-PASSENGER FORD TOURING CAR

Common Sense

Supposing you were in your wife's place, would you spend any more time in the kitchen than you could help?

PHOTO-PLAYS

Modern CENTAURS. The Greatest 700 Rod of... Robert V. Chambers' The FIGHTING CHANCE

MOON. A Wonderful Picture! A Wonderful Star!

Georges Carpentier in "The Wonder Man" Now Playing

EMRESS. TWO SHOWS IN ONE. TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM

CLIFFORD & BOWWELL. BENDER & MEEHAN. REDMAN & WELLS

APOLLO. APOLLO Coollest Theater in the City. ROBERT WARWICK

to cook it and has no kick coming. But if you are a good fellow who loves a cheerful wife better than filling your stomach with the heavy nourishment which requires so much time and care in the course of preparation for the table, you will prepare that your wife rest all she can in hot weather.

Be Want Ads Bring Results.

MUSE. LAST TIMES TODAY THE GIFT SUPREME WITH A BIG ALL-STAR CAST.

RIALTO. DOROTHY DALTON in 'Guilty of Love' A Sunshine Comedy—'Through the Keyhole'

SUN. NOW AND ALL WEEK

"ONE HOUR BEFORE DAWN" -And- CHAS. CHAPLIN in "THE IMMIGRANT"

ANNOUNCING the re-opening of the famous HOTEL LOYAL CAFE WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18TH

FREE MOVIES. Every evening free motion pictures are shown at Manawa Park.

MANAWA PARK. Every evening free motion pictures are shown at Manawa Park.