

BRIDE'S DREAMS ARE SHATTERED BY HER HUSBAND

English Girl Married O'Neill Soldier Believing Him Wealthy Ranchman—Returns to Parents.

O'Neill, Neb., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. Elsie Hurst, deserted English girl, returned to her parents' home at Loughton, Sussex, England, her dream of a happy life on her husband's ranch in northern Nebraska rudely shattered. With her little son, a few months old.

Her husband, now a fugitive, was not the prosperous ranchman of the tales told her when the Canadian troops were in camp in England and her only experience in ranch life was as a cook this summer on the big stock ranch of Jack McKenna, leading cattleman, a few miles north of O'Neill.

Hurst, an Iowa orphan, enlisted in the Canadian forces before the United States went into the war and saw active service at the front, being wounded, gassed and shell shocked. He had worked on ranches around O'Neill previous to his enlistment. He met and married his bride while at an English hospital camp on his return from France and when he was discharged they came to Nebraska, where, he had told her, he was the owner of a large stock ranch.

Soon Disillusioned. Her disillusionment on her arrival was followed soon after, when the little English girl was about to become a mother, by her husband's elopement with a waitress at a local hotel. The couple was captured at Minneapolis, stranded and without funds, Hurst having spent his own and his wife's money taken from her purse while she was ill. Both were recipients of money from the Canadian government.

Hurst was in jail here for a time, pleading guilty to wife desertion, but was not sent to the penitentiary as the wife still loved him and wanted him here when the baby came. She refused to have him prosecuted for violation of the Mann act. For a time after he was released from jail, Hurst worked and displayed considerable regard for his little family of wife and baby. He was given the position of foreman of the McKenna ranch and removed thereto and remained for several weeks.

Husband Leaves Again. Then one day he left. The discouraged wife made no effort to have him brought back, but continued to stay on at the ranch as a cook, although before coming to America she had no experience whatever in any of the domestic arts. A collection raised by Mrs. George Longstaff, wife of the Rev. George Longstaff of the O'Neill Presbyterian church, herself an English woman, at first was refused by the deserted wife and mother, but at last, lonely and homesick, she overcame her pride and accepted the funds contributed by sympathetic business men and members of the American Legion.

Bodies of Soldier Dead Will Arrive Here Today

Nebraska and Iowa Boys Who Were Killed in Action in France Will be Taken Home From Omaha.

Bodies of eight Nebraska and Iowa soldiers who were killed in action on the western front in the late war will arrive in Omaha today, Captain Gunyan said yesterday.

This will make the fourth shipment of bodies of American dead from overseas to be received in Omaha, but will comprise the first shipment of hero dead, killed in action. The bodies will be contained in the regulation all steel casket, adopted by the War department for the return of American soldiers buried in France, and each will be draped with a replica of the flag for which they died.

No Omaha Dead. There will be no Omaha dead in this shipment, which comes from France by way of New York and Chicago. Definite time of arrival has not been received by Capt. C. I. Gunyan, of the Omaha army depot, to whom the shipment is consigned. "A detachment of troops from Fort Crook will meet the train if it arrives at a reasonable hour," Captain Gunyan said yesterday.

No Military Display. "From this detachment, one man will be assigned to each casket as an honor guard of one to accompany the body to its former home. There will be no military display in Omaha."

Since the bodies will be taken from here to small towns in Iowa and Nebraska, it is expected, however, that memorial services will be arranged with military funeral services at those points.

Bodies to be received in Omaha today are those of the following soldiers: Bille, 31st sanitary train, Ceresco, Neb.; Ernest Kent, 331st infantry, Scottsbluff, Neb.; George H. Broughton, 330th infantry, Modale, Ia.; Clarence Deobler, 106th infantry, Ashton, Ia.; Carl Koester, 24th field artillery, Paulina, Ia.; Herman Lesline, 330th infantry, Logan, Ia.; and Sergt. Clayton Posey, Camp Pike, Sioux City, Ia.

Franklin A. Shotwell, chairman of the executive committee of the Harding-Coolidge club of Nebraska, has made a preliminary political survey of the counties of the state. One of the features of that survey is an indication that a well-defined opposition exists throughout the state to Governor Cox on the league of nations issue.

Mr. Shotwell's statement follows: "I have completed a survey of political conditions in Nebraska. This survey covers all of the counties in the state and I find there is a deep interest in the republican national ticket and outside of Douglas county there is strong opposition to Governor Cox, particularly on the league issue and his wet position. "Many democrats have written to our headquarters that they will not support Governor Cox."

In Douglas county, Governor Cox has some following on account of his position on the liquor question, but this is somewhat neutralized by his advocacy of the Wilson league of nations. "In short, Senator Harding has a united party behind him in this state and he will receive a large democratic vote. "If the election were to be held at this time Senator Harding would carry the state by a large majority. "Harding-Coolidge clubs are being organized in each district and the republicans in this state are working in perfect harmony for the success of the national ticket."

RAINFALL MAKES RECORD CROP OF CORN CERTAINLY

All Chance of Danger to Yield in Nebraska Removed by Rain Last Night.

That Nebraska's corn crop this season will be the largest in the history of the state was assured Wednesday night and early yesterday when rain, estimated to have done thousands of dollars worth of good to farms in this state fell on the rich farming section.

According to reports received yesterday from the local weather bureau, Grand Island received the most rainfall during the last 24 hours. It was estimated that more than an inch of rain fell in the vicinity of that city. Lincoln received a heavy rain, as did Fairbury and towns in that section of the state.

The corn crop in Nebraska is reported to be in excellent condition, and with the rain of Wednesday night and yesterday, coupled with a little sunshine, there is no reason, agriculture experts say, why the Cornhusker state should not produce one of the largest and best crops of corn this year in the history of Nebraska.

Railroad officials in Omaha, anticipating the record-breaking corn crops, are making strenuous efforts to relieve the freight car shortage. A large number of cars have been ordered for this state. Automobile trucks will be pressed into service in the country if the sufficient number of freight cars are not distributed to the farming sections of the state, it is said. The trucks will transport the grain to elevators, where it will be stored until freight cars are available.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Bids for the construction of the remaining six submarines of the line authorized in the 1916 three-year building program, were opened today, the lowest bid being that of the Bethlehem ship building corporation for two vessels at $4,554,000 each or six at $27,324,000.
