HIGH FREIGHT RATES REVIVE WATERWAY TALK

Iowa Man Advocates St. Lawrence Waterway and Use Of Missouri River For Freight.

The talk of reviving the use of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers for waterway transportation has again become a general topic since the raise in railroad freight rates and new impetus is being given to the proposition of developing the river routes to the Gulf of Mexico, according to A. J. Koch of Keosauqua, Ia., who was a visitor at the stockyards Saturday.

Mr. Koch said the Mississippi river was now carrying a mere fraction of the freight that it should if the movement to encourage traffic was given proper attention. He said there were a few passenger boats running from Minneapolis to St. Louis on regular schedule and only a small number of freighters which are kept busy with more merchandise than they can haul.

"The lack of waterway competition is costing shippers millions of dollars each year," said Mr. Koch, "and the recent boost in freight rates by the railroads, I think, will make manufacturers and other shippers wake up to the advantage of river transportation. I understand a canal is being cut through from the Chicago and Illinois rivers to the Mississippi and when it is completed boats may enter the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, pass through the Great Lakes, take on or discharge freight at Chicago and go on down the river with big cargoes to New Orleans and even into the Gulf of Mexico and to Galveston."

What is the big idea?

Men have all kinds of reasons for liking Spur Cigarettes. Some like them because they're mighty class-looking—that brown-and-silver package is an eye-winner. Some like them because the paper is crimped—no paste to taste. Some like them because they're a full-packed cigarette—nothing "skinny" about them. Some like Spurs because they're twenty for twenty cents—the rock-bottom price for the highest possible quality.

But what they all shout about and pass along is that they have found at last a cigarette with that good old tobacco taste that lingers in the memory.

Yes, sir, you can sure taste the good Oriental and home-grown tobaccos—and that's the big idea back of Spur Cigarettes.

Now, folks, just don't wait, but try a package of Spur Cigarettes today. It's not as though you were buying a limousine. And if you do find in Spur the cigarette you have been wanting—something that just strikes the spot—it will be the best buy you've made since Hector was a pup.
