"At the Herald office in the early days were Frank Wallace, wh started in 1869 and continued until 1913; William Scott, who began in 881 and is still at the business, and lake Reiner, who began in 1880." T. W. McCullough, now on The Bee, set advertisements and helped "make up" the old Herald in the spring of 1881. He also "fed" the press for Frank Wallace one morn-ing when the regular feeder failed to show up. Later he was a reporter on the Herald, and was city editor of that paper when it was consoli-dated with the World in 1889. He was then made night editor of the World-Herald and filled that position until January, 1891, when he came to The Bee.
