

MAN FROM ITALY FREE TO WED HIS SWEETHEART

Government Removes All Barriers—Couple Who Have Waited Years Will Marry Soon.

Word was received yesterday by the clerk of the district court from the Department of Justice in Washington that all barriers have been removed and the marriage of Miss Maria Bavarisco and Tony Mascarello may proceed. The marriage will take place in the St. Philomenas church September 11.

hood sweetheart Maria, to come to America to be his bride. Maria had been waiting for years and without delay started for America and the man she loved. She arrived in Boston and there the authorities marked her to be sent back. This word came to Tony and he took steps to get his citizenship papers which he needed before his bride might be admitted. Six months ago he was admitted to American citizenship in the district court of Omaha before Judge Sears. He immediately left for Boston and after several days effected Maria's release. She was allowed to come to Omaha, where her brother is living, but she and Tony were distinctly informed that they must not marry until the government had passed upon their case. Tony had a house already paid for and furnished at Sixth and Pierce streets. The couple has scrupulously observed the government orders. Maria has cooked Tony's meals and put up his lunch every morning before he goes to his work in the Union Pacific shops. She prepares his supper when he comes home. "I knew it would come to pass,"

Police Seek Nameless Men Who Fired Shots at Woman

Police are looking for "Shivers." They also want "Bob." "Shivers" and "Bob" are negroes. Further than that police know no more about them except that Mandy Proctor, negro, 1215 Pierce street, complained that "Bob" had fired five bullets at her Thursday night. Bullets were found sticking in the weather-boarding at her house on both sides when police investigated. Neighbors said there has been a "Shivers" party at the Proctor home several days. Under French auspices Alsace produced nearly 600,000 tons of potash shells last year and it is expected to greatly exceed these figures this year.

FIND NO TRACE OF BROTHER IN GERMAN PRISON

Omaha Woman Willing to Sacrifice All to Locate Relative Who Disappeared in War.

Word has been received by Mrs. Benjamin Colton, 1714 North Twenty-fourth street, that her brother, Joachim Slotkin, whom she has been endeavoring to rescue from a German prison camp during the months since the close of the war, has disappeared. Her determination to help her brother has not been shaken throughout the months of uncertainty and even now she is eager to sacrifice her every worldly possession, if necessary, in order to renew her efforts toward her brother's rescue. Her brother, Joachim, John, was a great part of her in their childhood days in Russia and they had long looked forward to a happy reunion in America. About the time John was ready to leave for America, his letters ceased to arrive and Mrs. Colton read of the Russian advance into Germany. Months later she received a message from John saying that he was a prisoner of the Germans, interned at Kaisersgarten, Pommern, Germany. After the war closed, the personal attention of Robert Lansing, then secretary of state, was secured in the matter, but without avail. The American embassy at Berlin was urged to assist and the machinery of the State department put into action. Matters were finally arranged and through the American consul at Berlin, Mrs. Colton had secured a passport for John. Her joy was short-lived, however, for she soon received word that he was gone. He may have been removed to another prison or may have died, but he cannot be found, according to the message she received. Mrs. Colton is still determined and may go to Germany to search for her brother.
