

American Booze Hinders Mission Work In Japan

Minister Says Orientals Have Learned U. S. Process of Making Liquor—East Is Suspicious of Us.

American whisky and beer shipped to Japan is making missionary work difficult there, Dr. Frank H. Smith of the Methodist Foreign Missions in Japan told delegates at the Nebraska Methodist conference at the First Methodist church yesterday afternoon.

"The last thing I saw when I left Yokohama were large boxes labeled 'American brewery machinery, handled with care,'" said Dr. Smith. "The Japanese have learned the process of manufacturing liquor that was used in this country."

Discussing difficulties between the United States and Japan, Dr. Smith said "that those who know Japan best trust her most." Japan looks at America with as much suspicion as this country looks on Japan, he said.

"The situation between the two countries is filled with dynamic," continued Dr. Smith. "Yet Japan is not a military menace. The young men of Japan do not care for military careers as they did eight years ago. The Orientals are going to dominate the world eventually, hence the work of Christianizing them is of greatest importance."

Wine and Women Responsible.

"Wine and women are numbered among the greatest obstacles to the work of the missionaries there, Japan also has its labor troubles for it is becoming an industrial nation, and bolshevism is being combated vigorously by the government."

"Japan is also suffering from the high cost of living. The price of rice has advanced many times in the past few years."

Dr. Smith predicted that universal suffrage would be in effect in Japan within the next five years, possibly much sooner. He explained that universal suffrage as understood there does not permit women to vote, however, but simply all of the men. He also predicted that Japan would eventually become a democracy.

Dr. Schermerhorn, president of South Dakota Wesleyan college, addressed the conference Wednesday morning. "A preacher should be a man first and a preacher second," Mr. Schermerhorn said. "The men and boys should meet the minister on the street and know they were meeting a real man. A minister should be masculine from head to heels."

Want Virile Ministers.

"In the old days it would have been shocking to see a preacher take part in athletic sports. I think a preacher should be just the kind of a fellow to be quarter-back on a football team. Jesus was one of the most masculine and virile of men. Ministers are inclined to believe their own methods are best and to exalt themselves. We should lay off the brag and work to serve."

Dr. J. W. Embree, superintendent of the Hastings district of the Nebraska conference, asserted there was a wave of dancing and "other worldly forces sweeping the country."

W. S. Stryker Elected Head of Associated Retailers of Omaha

W. S. Stryker of the Douglas Shoe company was chosen president of the Associated Retailers of Omaha, and George Brandeis was chosen vice president, at the meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. E. H. Flitton of the Flitton Optical company was made treasurer, and J. W. Metcalfe reappointed secretary. The board of directors was made up of Charles E. Black, Robert Rosenzweig of the Drexel Shoe company, C. B. Brown, jeweler; H. R. Bowen, H. A. Jacobberger of the Kimball laundry and R. C. Goddard of the Peoples Coal company.

The action of the board of education in placing a department of retailing in the High School of Commerce was endorsed by the association. A committee was appointed to co-operate with Dwight E. Porter, principal of the high school, and Mrs. Ray Williams, who has direct charge of the classes in salesmanship and credit. The committee consists of T. P. Redmond of Burgess-Nash, W. F. Negele of Thompson-Belden company, C. M. Wilhelm of Orchard & Wilhelm company, Karl Loufs of J. L. Brandeis & Sons, and Will Mickel of the Mickel music house.

Police Sergeant Arrests Drink Stand Man 4 Times

Police Sergeant Thestrup for the fourth time in four weeks arrested Mike Dmick, owner of a soft drink park at 1403 Webster street, for illegal possession of liquor and for the fourth time Thestrup says Dmick dumped a pint of whisky into a sink when the officer walked into the place.

Thestrup said that he had numerous complaints that Dmick sold liquor.

Dmick was charged with operating a disorderly business.

editor of the Methodist Review, told delegates at yesterday morning's session that "ministers dry up mentally too early in life." They should keep posted especially on current events, he said.

Dr. Ralph Ward of the board of foreign missions also addressed the conference yesterday.

May Hartell, Modiste To Society Set, Is Dead

The death Wednesday night of Miss May Hartell, 47, 1909 Canfield avenue, snapped in twain the happy and devotional companionship between she and her sister, Miss Marie Hartell. Heart trouble was the cause of death.

For the past three weeks of her illness, Miss Hartell was continuously under the personal care of her sister.

Both came to Omaha 35 years ago from Ontario, Canada, and immediately became engaged in dress-making.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the residence. Burial will be in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Miss Nina M. Hartell of New York, a sister, will arrive in Omaha Saturday and will make her home with Miss Marie Hartell.

Motorists Warned Against Speeding By School Houses

Public school and police authorities wish to remind Omahans that schools are open again and that a city ordinance requires all traffic to pass schools at a slow rate of speed. This applies also to parochial schools.

Several complaints were received yesterday by J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of schools, from principals who advised that some motorists are speeding past schools. Motorcycle officers have been directed to give this special attention for a few weeks.

Says Officers Innocent.—Ben Meyl, treasurer of the Industrial Chemical company, declared yesterday that the present officers are not responsible for the acts of the former officials, and that the firm is now on the road to stability. Suit charging misappropriation of funds has been brought against both sets of officers.

Sentence Lifted.—Sentence of 15 days in jail for reckless driving was lifted from Dr. John Agnew by District Judge Goss yesterday. Dr. Agnew was found guilty in police court of allowing a Miss Oleit to drive his car, causing a collision at Thirty-third and Cuming streets.

Many Buildings Erected.—According to the records of the city building inspector, Omaha's growth has forced extensive building operations in the wholesale and manufacturing districts despite the high cost of materials and the shortage of labor.

Need More Gas Mains.—A 25 per cent increase in the consumption of gas is blamed for the low pressure in various parts of the city by W. H. Taylor, member of a glass plant commission. In a letter to R. B. Howell, general manager of the municipal plant, Mr. Taylor says that more pressure mains should be laid as soon as funds are available.

Bill Puzzles Judge.—A bill for repairs on a Ford car, amounting to $314.49, puzzled Judge George Holmes in a case in municipal court yesterday. The charge was for 23 days of work. The court reserved decision, although the judge declared that he could tear his car entirely apart and put it together again within a week.
