

Omaha Teacher Ends Her Life by Leaping in River

Miss Carrie M. Boutelle, 28 Years in Public Schools, Despondent, Drowns Herself.

The body of Miss Carrie M. Boutelle, 50, Georgia apartments, kindergarten instructor at the Pacific school, and a teacher in Omaha public schools for 28 years, was found in the Missouri river near Second street and Woolworth avenue at 6 p. m. Wednesday. Police are convinced that Miss Boutelle, who had been in ill health for several years, committed suicide in a fit of despondency.

Anton Hason, 107 Woolworth avenue, a laborer, found the body lying about six feet from the shore with the face buried in the mud. Her hat was near the body. Physicians said death had taken place about three hours previously.

Saw Her Near River.
The body was first identified by Joe Blazak, 16, one of her former pupils, Second street and Poppleton avenue.

His father is believed to be the last person to have seen the teacher alive when he noticed her standing near the bank of the river as she rowed across the river about 3:30 p. m. Mrs. Sarah Boldt, 130 Pine street, saw her walking toward the river about 3:15.

The younger Blazak said he also saw her standing near the bank Monday afternoon when he returned home but that she walked away when he approached.

Hason found the body when he was searching for that of H. G. Bridenbaugh, retired banker of Coleridge, Neb., who leaped to his death from the Douglas street bridge Monday afternoon and for whose body relatives have offered $50 reward.

The body was taken from the river by Perry Smith, 2305 Vinton street, and was taken to Korisco mortuary where it was again identified by a brother, James Boutelle.

The teacher is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Boutelle, her brother, James, and one sister, Anna, all of whom live at the Georgia apartments.

They are unable to account for the act. She has been teaching school each day despite ill health. A note saying she had gone to Farnam park was found by her mother, but the note is not believed to indicate intentions of suicide, as she often went to the park, which is near her home, the brother said.

After teaching school all morning, she was at the church of Rev. Father Stenson at noon yesterday for get cards bearing birth dates of some of her pupils.

Telephones to Mother.
She ate lunch with Dora Eckwell, teacher at Pacific school, 8204 North Twenty-eighth avenue, and asked Miss Eckwell to take her purse and Italian grammar to school for her. When she did not appear at the school building in the afternoon Martha M. Campbell, principal, telephoned her mother.

Miss Boutelle had been kindergarten director at the Pacific school for six years and an instructor in Omaha schools for 23 years. She had taught in Mason, Farnam and Train schools and was a graduate of Knox college, Galesburg, Ill.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Westminster Presbyterian church. The Rev. Frank G. Smith will preside. The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Galesburg, Ill.

Ill Health Drives Teacher to End Life

Dismiss Charge of Assault Against Youth for Another

The charge of attempted assault upon Virginia Richardson, 11 years old, was dismissed after a hearing in Council Bluffs police court Wednesday afternoon and George Marsh, arrested Tuesday night at the Northwestern roundhouse, was held to the district court grand jury on the charge of indecent exposure of his person. The hearing was held behind closed doors.

The story told by the witnesses was that the Marsh boy, who is only 16, lured the girl away after she had appeared at the roundhouse with lunch for her father, who works at night, and had led her a block away to a clump of willows, where she was found a few moments later by her mother, Mrs. William Richardson, 1011 Avenue F. The girl's brother, Eugene, 7, who had accompanied his sister to the roundhouse, ran home and told his mother.

Marsh's bond was placed at $200. He was unable to give it and was sent down to the county jail. He is the son of Mary Marsh, widow, 1401 Avenue G. He says he has been getting $65 every two weeks from the Northwestern railroad, and has been giving one-half of it to his mother.

Hazelton Coal Miners Fail to End "Vacation"
Hazelton, Pa., Sept. 16.—Failing to receive assurance from Secretary of Labor Wilson or the mine operators that there would be no discrimination against monthly men who quit work in sympathy with the miners, the policy committee of the Anthracite Mine Workers adjourned its third day's session last night without taking any action toward ending the hard coal workers' "vacation" strike.

Geo. Brandeis Declares Mule Race Framed

Ed Peterson Worked Too Fast Even For the Wise Ones by Slipping in "Gray Lightning."

Did Ed Peterson double cross George Brandeis in the mule race? "is the title of a play staged at the Ak-Sar-Ben race track Wednesday, which George ever since has been trying to figure out. George has about come to the conclusion that it was foul play.

Tuesday there was a mule race. In that mule race there was a little mouse-colored mule that ran away from the others like a Man-of-War leaving a field of sailing platters.

Wednesday there was a mule race. No one was supposed to know the running qualities of the mule he was to drive.

He Plays Fast.
Here is where the first act begins. George Brandeis remembered the little mouse-colored mule and George is a business man. So he went to the stable boys. George talked business and had it all arranged that he was to get the little mouse-colored mule attached to his sulky. He was to drive around the track to victory behind the little mouse-colored mule amid the plaudits of the multitude.

George smiled when the mules faced the barrier. He chuckled to himself as the barrier was sprung. Then the chuckle died in his throat and the smile faded.

Big Gray is Speedster.
Here is act two. J. E. Davidson was driving a big gray mule. The big gray mule tore up the track at the very start like Single G on the way to supper.

"Giddap, I'll mule!" yelled George and the little mouse-colored mule "giddaped" but the big gray mule was stretching his long gray legs and laying his hoofs down on the track as no big gray mule had ever done before. George finished third with "Differential," his little mule. But long before that J. E. Davidson had thundered across the finish line with "Gasoline," the big gray mule.

This is act three. When George Brandeis tumbled out of his sulky there wasn't a single plaudit in his ears. He turned his face, registering chagrin, amazement, and a sort of dazed stupefaction, toward Ed Peterson, owner of all the mules in the race.

Getting the "Mule Laugh."
Tears were streaming down Peterson's face. They weren't tears of sympathy.

"Haw! Haw! Haw!" roared Peterson. Curtain.
So George thinks it was a foul play. He has told friends that he suspects Peterson of framing the double cross with that big gray mule.

Peterson put over two big ones Wednesday. When he had sent "Gasoline" over in the mule race and had won with "Star Boy Ingels-bee" in the 2:11 pace, utterly upsetting the dope, a number of the wise ones went home talking to themselves.

It is alright for Harry K. Whitte to tell about that mule race on the sport page, but this is the true story of "Did Ed Peterson Double-Cross George Brandeis in the Mile Mule Race?"

He had rung in a ringer. And "I'll say he did!" is George's comment.

Paul Deschanel Quits as Chief Of the French

Resignation Advised by Physicians, Given to Premier Millerand—Parliament to Name Successor.

Rambouillet, France, Sept. 16.—(By The Associated Press.)—Paul Deschanel, president of France, presented his resignation from that office today. The president, at his residence here, gave his letter of resignation and a presidential message to accompany it to Premier Millerand, who will read the documents to the Senate and Chamber of Deputies on Tuesday.

The version of the cause of President Deschanel's recent relapse given by the Temps today is that it was due to a fall into the canal in Rambouillet park at about 6 o'clock last Friday morning. The president was rescued by fishermen who happened to be nearby, the newspaper says.

Name Successor September 25.
The national assembly will convene at Versailles Saturday, September 25, to consider the election of a successor to President Paul Deschanel, according to an official announcement today.

Mr. Millerand will receive the presidents of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow afternoon to discuss the convocation of Parliament.

President Deschanel's resolve to resign from office was reached upon the advice of his physicians, according to the Echo de Paris. The president reached a decision in the matter several days ago and since that time has seemed to be much relieved over the prospect of a release from the burdens of public life. He rambled through Rambouillet park with his wife and children yesterday, the newspaper says, and the fact that he is soon to return to private life seems to have given him renewed hope and confidence.

Reads Like Shakespeare.
"The latest chapter in the life of M. Deschanel," says the newspaper, "reads like an act from a Shakespearean drama. A few mornings ago he was found walking toward a lake in the park where his valet was fishing, and it seemed that he was drawn toward the water by some mysterious force. He was led back to his apartments and physicians were hastily summoned, but they found no serious symptoms had made their appearance."

South Side Couple Celebrate 60 Years In Omaha

Golden Wedding Anniversary Recalls Time When Farnam Street Was a Cow Path.

The celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Nerad, 5214 South Twenty-second street, at their home, attended by five children and 17 grandchildren, marked a residence in Nebraska of 61 years for Mr. Nerad and 59 years for his wife.

Mr. Nerad was born in Bohemia in 1844 and came to Omaha in 1859 when he was 15 years old. His wife, who is 75 years old, came to the United States when she was 17 years old and settled at Cedar Rapids, Ia. They were schoolmates in Bohemia and were married at La Platte, Neb., August 28, 1870, after which they moved to Omaha.

For several years in the early days of Omaha, Mr. Nerad served as constable and police officer and was prominent in politics on the South Side. He said he remembered when Farnam street was a cow path and that lots were selling near the corner of Eighteenth and Farnam for $100 each.

Mrs. Nerad has five children, five grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren. They are: V. T. Nerad, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Charles Nerad, 5214 South Twenty-second street; Mrs. Anna Kluson, Eighteenth and U streets; Mrs. Emma Sterba, 5119 South Nineteenth street, and Mrs. R. Unfavorable News On Auto Company Discounted

New York, Sept. 16.—Many rumors regarding Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company which are current probably come from the same source as did the various stories circulated about a year ago, when the common stock was run up by a pool to $99 a share, on the theory that the company was to be absorbed by General Motors corporation.

The automobile business in general is not, of course, in as good condition as it might be. Pierce-Arrow's sales, like those of most other motor vehicle manufacturers, have fallen off. It is realized that the automotive industry is going into a period where it will be necessary to trim sales, reduce output and curtail expenses as much as possible. However, there are few automobile companies in better condition or more liquid than Pierce-Arrow.

The company has more than enough cash on hand to pay off its bank loans. Accounts receivable, which with Pierce-Arrow are always quick and liquid, are well in excess of accounts payable and inventories are neither large nor overbalanced.
