Great Western Racing at Omaha Grand Success

Close Finishes and Fast Time Rule of Week at Ak-Sar- Ben Track—New Track Record.

By HARRY K. WHITED.
Omaha's Great Western circuit meeting for 1920 is a thing of the past, as is likewise the Great Western circuit, which closed with the fourth and final heat of the 114 race at the Ak-Sar-Ben track Sunday evening, just a few minutes after 10 p.m.

Omaha people and the promoters of the meeting have every reason to feel proud of the records made during the four days racing, the first mile track meeting held here for over 20 years. Plenty of horses, good accommodations for the crowds, fast time and closely contested heats made the meeting a complete success from the time the first heat was called until the horses passed under the wire in the final race.

Fifteen races were decided during the four days, consisting of a total of 36 heats, 11 of which were on Tuesday, 13 on Wednesday, 15 on Thursday and 17 on Friday. Of these 36 heats, 3 were under 2:05, 29 were under 2:10, 14 were under 2:15, seven were under 2:20 and two under 2:30. Two of the races, the 2:12 trot on Thursday and the 2:06 trot on Friday, took six heats to decide; six of the races went to four heats, and six were decided in straight heats. This is not including the colt races which were two in three affairs, the events for aged horses being raced under the old three in five placing system, whereby a horse must win three heats to draw first money.

A total of nearly $15,000 was distributed among the winners, $1,500 being the amount of the largest purse, while $500 was the smallest, offered in the 2-year-old events. A total of 217 entries were received in the 15 races, and out of this number, 79 horses were starters. The 2:12 trot on Thursday afternoon drew the largest field with 11 starters.

Omaha Horses Winners.

Omaha owned horses got their full share of the money. Forty-three Omaha horses were entered, and out of this number 19 started in races during the week, getting a total of three firsts, three seconds, three thirds and three fourths. In other words, 12 of the 19 starters were in the first three places.

Of the Omaha drivers who started Marvin Childs got the lion's share of the money, starting in six races and winning three firsts, two seconds and but once out of the money. Marvin won the 2:22 trot on Tuesday with Kilo Watter, the 2:11 pace on Wednesday with Star Boy Ingolsbee, and the 2:22 pace Friday with Wampatuck.

Only one horse at the meeting won two firsts. This was Axten, a sorrel stallion, who started with Sam Harris of Plymouth, Ill. He topped the 2:09 trot Tuesday afternoon, winning the last three heats in 2:09%, 2:10 and 2:08%, and literally raced his opponents into the ground in the 2:06 trot on Friday afternoon, taking the first, second and sixth heats of the prolonged battle in 2:09%, 2:07% and 2:11%. This old horse is now 14 years of age and has been racing ever since he was a 2-year-old, and seems better this year than ever before. In fact, this is about the first season that he has raced sound all year, always exhibiting lameness at some time or other in all of his previous campaigns. He is a beautiful going, big, bright sorrel fellow, with all the lick and style in the world, and at one time had the name of being the most beautiful horse in America.

Fast Track Record.

The track record now stands at 2:01 1/2, made in the third heat of the free-for-all pace on Thursday afternoon by Single G, 1:59 1/2, a son of Anderson Wilkes, and driven by Ed Allen of Indianapolis. This is also a new state record. The former track record was 2:03 1/2, made in 1896, and the former record was held by Strathbury, made over the old Lincoln park mile track at Lincoln several years ago, and was 2:04 1/2.

Things looked dubious for a meeting a week ago today. The grandstand was not yet built, the infield was filled with seats, and the workmen were still pouring concrete at the west end. But a big force was kept at work all night Sunday and all day and night Monday, and when the bell rang on Tuesday afternoon for the first heat of the meeting, every seat was in place. The track was in excellent shape all week, although really the fastest on the last day. The horses were raced from a large tent at the head of the stretch, instead of from the barns, which saved much delay in getting the fields ready between heats.

The greatest need is a subway for pedestrians under the track from the centerfield to the grandstand. As it was last week, all who parked their cars in the infield were forced to go back through the automobile subway and in at the west end of the stand, which made a long walk. Thursday thousands of people crossed the track at the judges' stands, but this is dangerous during racing. It is altogether likely that this will be remedied before another meeting is held next year.

Finest Plant in the West.

The second greatest need is a permanent cooling and racing paddock, either at the head of the stretch, where the tent was this year, or at the west end of the grandstand. The barns being so far away would make it exceedingly unhandy to race horses from them, and while the tent answered very well last week, it is not as convenient as a paddock with stalls, running hot and cold water, and a good drainage system.

American Girl and Swedish Boy Youngest Olympic Stars

These two children, the youngest contestants at the Olympic games at Antwerp, showed up well in competition with the older stars in the diving events. They are Aileen Riggis, 13 years old, of Brooklyn, N. Y., representing the United States, and Nils Skoglund of Sweden, one month shy of the 14 mark. Both scored in their events.

Babe Ruth, who is trying to stretch his home-run record to 50, knocked a couple of balls over the left field wall during batting practice, to the delight of the crowd.

Pitcher Cicotte started for Chicago, while Shawkey was on the mound for New York.

Billy Lee, Rourke outfielder, pilfered three bases during the week ending Wednesday, bringing his league-leading total up to 38 and his batting placed him in third place in the league averages with .338, just behind Everett Yaryan, the Wichita home run king.

Carl East and Yaryan went on a batting rampage shortly after their sale to the Chicago White Sox was announced. East is now topping the league hits with a mark of 385, and Yaryan, after adding half a dozen more homers to bring his string up to 37, is batting .352.

Speaker is seven points behind with an average of .392, while Joe Jackson, the slugging outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, stands third with a mark of .378.

"Babe" Ruth of the New York Yankees, the home run marvel who is hitting in the league with an average of .372, cracked out three home runs since Wednesday a week ago, and brought his string of circuit drives to 49, one less than the mark he set out to reach when the season started. He also carried his total base record to 347 and is far in front in the number of runs scored, having registered 147 times. Rice of Washington safely leads the base stealers with 51 thefts to his credit.

The former dropped a few points, but continued to head the National league batters with an average of .371, while Hornsby is gaining a few points brought his average up to .360. The rest of the leaders remained practically unchanged. Hornsby hit .372, while Balfour, New York, increased his string of runs scored to 91. Believes In Preparedness

Cleveland, Sept. 18.—There is a little candy store on Lexington avenue, just opposite the League park, the proprietor of which believes in "safety first." Every time the New York Americans come to town the proprietor of the store puts up heavy signs in front of his window.

"Babe" Ruth has broken three windows and one window frame. When the New York series ends down come the screens.

Heavyweights Are Ready For Clash Tomorrow Night

George Lamson, Indian Pugilist, and Andy Schmadler, Navy Champion, to Mix Here.

Omaha ring fans and Ak-Sar-Ben visitors are preparing for a treat in the boxing line tomorrow night, when George Lamson, the Indian heavyweight, and Andy Schmadler, the Louisville boy, mix in the city Auditorium in a 10-round boxing bout for the benefit of St. James orphanage.

It will be Lamson's second fight in Omaha. Since the battling Indian knocked out Johnny Sudebner, at Fort Omaha last spring after one of the best scraps ever staged here, Omaha fight fans have been anxiously awaiting his reappearance.

Schmadler, who holds the heavyweight championship of the United States, has gained the confidence of many Omahans recently by his ring ability.

Jack Lewis, who is promoting the contest for the orphanage, announced yesterday that Jack Fitzgerry, O'Kear's local opponent, two weeks ago, would be the third man in the ring tomorrow night.

In addition to two other preliminaries Lewis has booked Eddie Hart of Chicago and Kid Schlaifer, the South Side welter, for an eight-round semi-windup. Hart will have an advantage in weight over the United States navy, but local opinion is that Schlaifer will more than offset that handicap with his punching power.

Olympic Games Teach Lesson To Yank Athletes

United States Track and Field Stars Learned Severe Lesson In Spite of Victory.

By WALTER ECKERSALL.
With the track and field games of the seventh Olympic games now a matter of athletic history, the United States learned a severe lesson, despite its victory by an overwhelming margin.

Veteran trainers and coaches of American college and athletic club teams were unanimous that the team which sailed for Belgium was the best balanced aggregation which ever represented this country in the world's games. A victory by an even greater margin was expected by those in close touch with the athletes.

Team Sent Too Late.
The big mistake made by the American Olympic committee, according to men who have devoted their lives to training athletes, was in not sending the team to Belgium in time to become thoroughly acclimated. After the national trials were held in Boston the selected athletes were sent to Fort Slocum, N. Y., where little or no training was done. They remained in the east one week before sailing. Two weeks were spent on the ocean and less than 10 days given the athletes to get back in shape for the start of the games.

Allowances are made for the difficulties experienced by the committee in securing a government transport. The ship was turned over to the committee one week later than scheduled, and then, according to the athletes, was anything but a fit vessel on which to keep in shape. Our athletes, some of whom are temperamental, were disgusted with the conditions and did not even attempt to keep in shape. Some contracted sickness on the voyage, and were of no assistance in the games.

Three Athletes Disabled.
When the athletes did land on the other side the time was too short to become acclimated. The low, damp climate was not to the liking of American performers. This lack of training resulted in the pulling of winners by Sol Butler, Joe Ray and Walker Smith, not to mention tied-up muscles of other athletes.

According to reports, the athletes severely criticized the work of the committee, and right now there is a strong movement on foot for a house-cleaning of the A. A. U., so that the athletes who take part in the next Olympic games will receive treatment to warrant excellent performances.

Doubt Future of Games.
Butler, Ray and Smith are athletes of experience. None of them had ever been troubled with pulled tendons before. If allowed the proper time to train and loosen up, they would have contributed more points to the Yankee team. Their failure to register points under the unfavorable training conditions resulted in the accidents.

It is a certainty the athletes will not mind their criticism of the committee's work on their return. Their opinions will furnish plenty of food for thought to the committee, who are chosen on the committee to handle American affairs in the next Olympic, if there is one. At the present time a number of nations, including England and Sweden, have expressed doubts as to being represented in the next world's games.

Weak in Distance Runs.
This year's games also showed America's inferiority in distance running more than any other Olympic. With the exception of the 400-meter hurdles, Yankee athletes were absolutely unable to make a bid for honors in any other race over 200 meters. Of course, some critics will blame this poor showing on the short time allowed our men to get in shape after their arrival in Belgium, but the fact remains that our distance men were raced off their feet by runners of other nations.

Earl Eby of the Chicago Athletic association made a splendid effort to win the 800-meter event, but plainly showed the lack of training by losing to the runner from the Netherlands. Eby was carried along by a terrific pace, but lacked the stamina to defeat Hill, the great English racer.

Yanks Crack Two Records.
Despite the poor handling of our team, the men performed as well as could be expected. Two world's records fell to the lot of American athletes, both of whom are members of the Chicago Athletic association. The Chicago runner, Earl Eby, won the 400-meter three-foot hurdles in 5:54, while Frank Foss broke all existing records in the pole vault by clearing the bar at the dizzy height of 13 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Some members of the victorious American team will take part in the meets to be held in Paris and London, while others will visit places of interest in battle-scarred Europe.

Whist Notes

The first meeting of the Omaha White Club was held at the Blackstone hotel on Friday evening as a guest of Mr. Charles A. Malloy. Mr. Lou Nelson was elected president, Frank Loomis was the 400-meter three-foot hurdles in 5:54, while Frank Foss broke all existing records in the pole vault by clearing the bar at the dizzy height of 13 feet 5 1/2 inches.

National Sport Growing Series, Says "Bugs" Baer

Base Ball Is Supposed to Be a Sport for the Tired Business Man, But It's Really What Makes the Tired Business Man Tired—Reads and Talks Base Ball All Day Long.

By "BUGS" BAER.
AMERICANS take their fun seriously and their seriousness in fun. Base ball is supposed to be a sport for the tired business man, but it's really what makes the tired business man tired.

The first thing that comes in the morning is the standing of the teams. If his home team looks a little curly, he hops back into bed and gets out on the other foot. While he is getting egg all over his chin at breakfast and shredded biscuits down his collar, he is lamping yesterday's scores and wondering why Manager Wimpdiddle didn't yank Lefty Gweefopp, and put a left-handed shortstop in instead of a republican pitcher.

Coming down in the subway, he benches himself in favor of two old ladies, who look better standing up. On a short ride of 15 minutes, he reads eight box scores, and batting averages of both leagues and figures the president's cabinet would look better with green caps.

He saves his lunch hour until 3:30 so that he can dangle in front of some score board and cheer the gong that buzzes when some player scores a base ball out in Cleveland, Chicago or St. Louis. If Babe Ruth has smeared a home run, he is happy to work, and if Babe hasn't, can't work because he is too sad.

Old Man Is Golf Star.
New York, Sept. 18.—Hugh Hallsell of Dallas, Tex., is senior golf champion of the nation. He added a round of 82 made today to his low record total of 80 on Thursday at Apawans for a winning gross of 162, by several strokes the best ever turned in this championship. Hallsell's score of 162 perhaps is the best ever scored in competition in the world by a man who has passed his 57th birthday.

He goes home again, adds up the runs for the week, and wonders why he always draws Washington in the base ball pool.

After skimming the top off the crock of home brew, and snitching some sardines out of the ice box, he falls off to sleep and dreams he is the handle on the water bucket during the world series.
