

All-Metal Planes To Be Discarded For Mail Service

Pilots Refuse to Fly German Junker Ships After Eastern Accident.

All-metal German junker monoplane have been removed from the Omaha-Chicago division of the air mail service. This announcement was made yesterday by William I. Votaw, manager of the air mail station in Omaha.

Pilots Refuse to Fly

Removal of the junkers from the service here comes as a direct result of the refusal of two pilots to fly them from Chicago early this week, it is said.

The pilots refused to fly the junkers because of the three serious accidents to similar ships in the east, in which two pilots and two mechanics were burned to death.

Eastern pilots also have refused to fly junker ships until the government could ascertain the cause of the recent fires aboard planes en route on air mail service, it is reported.

This cause has been located in Omaha, Manager Votaw declared. Chief Mechanic Smith of the Omaha air mail station, working under Manager Votaw, completed a special investigation of the junker planes last night and mailed the results of their investigation to headquarters in Washington today.

Cause for the fires is attributed to poor material used in the construction of the fuel feed pipes.

"The feed pipes which carry the benzol from the supply tank to the motor," declared Mr. Votaw, "are constructed of poor material."

"After one of these junkers has been flying some distance the exhaust from the motor, which is directly beneath these feed pipes, heats them to such a degree that the benzol becomes inflamed and the ship is afire before the pilot or mechanic can realize it.

"These all-metal junker planes were purchased from Germany soon after the signing of the armistice."

Material Unavailable.

"They were constructed by the German government during the war, at a time when the best material in the construction of airplanes, could not be had by the Germans."

Omaha is unusually interested in the all-metal junker planes because of the flight from New York to Omaha and return of the Larsen all-metal planes, reconstructed and designed by J. L. Larsen, formerly of Omaha.

The trips of these Larsen planes seemed to be revolutionary in airplane history.

Since the inauguration of the transcontinental air mail service, making Omaha the hub, two mail planes arrive and depart from Omaha each day, except Sunday.

Italian Premier Is Not Alarmed

Says Workmen Talk Too Much and Are Misunderstood—Plans to Improve Living Conditions.

By JOHN BUTLER.
New York Times-Chicago Tribune Cable. Copyright, 1920.

Turin, Sept. 18.—Premier Giolitti of Italy told me this afternoon the Italians talked too much.

"Italian workmen are too easily excited. They are not bolshevists—they only appear so."

He was received by the premier at Hotel Boulevard, where he is stopping en route to Rome.

"America more than any other nation misunderstands the Italian temperament. The spectre of communism in Italy has not alarmed me for a minute," Dr. Agostino Mattoli, official interpreter, said for the premier. "I have the assurance of the leaders of the metal trade workers that they will support me in a plan for a moderate socialization of industry in Italy. I will present to parliament on November 1 a law assuring a profit-sharing scheme for all workmen. The law may—I cannot say now—give the workers a voice in control of their work."

Opposed to Bolshevism.

"Would you countenance any sort of bolshevism in Italy?" I asked. "Signor Giolitti expostulated and said:

"Certainly not, neither do the workmen want it. All they want is a living wage which I'll get for them. My whole political career has revolved around it. I am determined honest toilers shall be rewarded, but they cannot take other people's property."

Sig. Giolitti says he has promises from President Dargonce and secretary Buozzi of the Italian Federation of Metal Workers, that they would ask the men to release control of the factories and restore them to their owners on condition the cost of living would be reduced.

"This is a temporary solution," the premier said, "for admittedly bad living conditions. The real solution lies in the selling by the government at cost prices of all commodities, such as food and drink."

Workers Not Optimistic.

Chief Commissar John Parodi of the Fiat Automobile works, when I told him of Signor Giolitti's statement, said:

"We hope Premier Giolitti means what he says. Whether the men will be satisfied with only profit sharing without part control I cannot say. Any settlement by our leaders must be referred to the men. We will never return to the old conditions; we will hold the plants against the whole army if necessary."

Sig. Parodi thought Sig. Giolitti's estimate of normal conditions in three weeks was too optimistic.

Chicago Tribune—Omaha Bee Lensed Wire.

It was the first actual trace of the child since she was taken from in front of a house in Union street, Union Hill, Tuesday evening, by a man apparently under the influence of liquor.

No Peace Until Fear of War Destroyed, Says Baker

Waterloo, Ia., Sept. 18.—There will be no peace in Europe until the burden of armament is lifted and the fear of war destroyed, Secretary Baker declared today in a speech devoted to discussion of the league of nations covenant.

Challenging a statement from Senator Harding's speech accepting the republican presidential nomination that the league was "so utterly impotent to prevent wars that it has not even been tried," Secretary Baker declared the league's operation "has already saved one war, though Senator Harding did not know it." He recited the submission to the league council by Sweden and Finland of the Aland island dispute.
