

Suspect In Bomb Plot Arrested

Russian Journalist, Said to Have Been Near Scene of Explosion Shortly After Blast, Is Held.

Refuses to Give Names

By The Associated Press. New York, Sept. 19.—Alexander J. Brailovsky, Russian journalist who was taken into custody late this afternoon after the police had received an anonymous letter that he was seen in the financial district a short time after the Wall street explosion Thursday noon, was formally placed under arrest just before midnight on a charge of being an undesirable alien.

Identified by Detective. Detective James J. Gegan, long head of the bomb squad, identified Brailovsky as the man who had dined quarters at 133 East Fifteenth street, where the "Rusky Golos" originally was published. The detective said he went there first in March, 1917, again in June of that year, and a third time in November, 1919. On one or two occasions, Gegan added, he seized quantities of radical literature there, and each time found Brailovsky presiding over earnest conferences of foreigners.

Seen Near Scene of Blast. The writer of the anonymous letter informed the police that he saw Brailovsky and three other men talking at the corner of Pine and Nassau streets at the scene of the explosion about 20 minutes after the explosion.

Revelry of Ak-Sar-Ben Continues

Omaha in Readiness to Entertain Thousands Who Will Come to Join in Annual Merry-Making.

Big Parades This Week

One solid week of revelry is in store for those who live in the realm of Quivira. Beginning today and concluding next Saturday night, Omaha's portals will swing wide to admit the hosts who come from the countryside and the towns to join in this autumnal festival season. The opening last week was auspicious and gave promise of what is to come. The opening of the Ak-Sar-Ben race track was an appropriate curtain raiser. Thousands came from miles around and many more thousands are planning to visit the metropolis.

Famous Love Stories is the title of the big electric parade which will be held Wednesday evening. There will be 16 floats, depicting love stories which have been told from coast to coast. They have been viewed by people from every state of the union. Omaha promises a real treat for next Wednesday evening. Thursday afternoon visitors will be interested and entertained by a daylight parade of floats which will tell the story of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock, 304 years ago. This centenary celebration has been given nation-wide attention and Omaha will have out of the most elaborate observances. The floats have been designed and built at a cost of many thousands of dollars. On them will ride Omaha men and women in costumes of the period of the Pilgrims. Twenty-eight floats will be in line and there will be added features, including Indians, 10 bands of music, members of the American Legion, naval reserves and the troops from Fort Crook.

Some of the largest motion picture concerns have arranged to photograph the electric and daylight parades, the films to be shown in many cities of the United States and Europe. Mayor T. Kennedy's carnival shows will offer entertainment at Fifteenth street and Capitol avenue all week. For those who enjoy seeing the unusual and the amusing these shows will appeal.

The Chamber of Commerce has opened a bureau for the convenience of visitors who wish rooms in homes. The hotel and restaurants are ready to receive their many guests. Mayor Smith has proclaimed that Thursday afternoon shall be a general half holiday on account of the daylight parade. The weather man has promised to be on his good behavior.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—Phil E. Baer, republican state chairman of Texas, brought to Chicago news that, strange as it might seem, there is a real chance of electing a republican governor in Texas.

In any event, he says, the democrats will lose out in three congressional districts, and one is the Fourteenth, now represented by Postmaster General Burleson's brother-in-law, Carlos Bee of San Antonio.

Mr. Baer was formerly from Peru, Ind. "I belong to the order of railway telegraphers," said Mr. Baer. "I see many railroad employes in my own state and I have talked to many from other states. I have not found a single telegrapher who has heretofore voted the republican ticket, who will not vote it this time, but I've found bunches of them who heretofore voted the democratic ticket who will vote for Harding."
