Financial

The New York Times.
Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire.
New York, Sept. 23.—The continued decline of industrial stocks was general today, selling being favored by the fresh facts respecting price recessions in the merchandise field. The 33-1-3 per cent reduction of cotton goods quotations by the Amoskag Manufacturing company, one of the largest producing units in the country, lent emphasis to the movement first instituted in retail lines last May and made prominent by the American Woolen company's action early this month when contracts for spring delivery were looked. Also, the reduction of 10 to 20 per cent in catalogue quotations of two leading mail order houses received due attention in stock market quarters, together with news that the Franklin Manufacturing company was ready to let down its motor car prices 17 to 21 per cent.

Marked Reactions.
These events and others of the same order likely to follow, have long been in the minds of investors and the market was heralded by the reaction of the first three days of the month. The bears made considerable capital of price cutting and the reluctance of companies to pay dividends was one reason why there should be a second reaction, the first having been a recovery of the last three or four weeks but which was generally steady at 2 per cent and time funds were also unchanged.

Bond Market Good.
The bond market has been encouragingly quiet today, with a slight rise in commodity quotations, with its influence in enhancing the purchasing power of the dollar. A reaction which increases the attractiveness of investments bearing interest has been a feature of the day. Credit worked steadily to depress bond prices, but the market was supported by the fact that the government's borrowings weighed heavily upon the market. The reaction of the day was speculative, but the evidence showed since the autumn season began, the market has been in a state of depression, and the rise in commodity prices has been a feature of the day.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire.
Chicago, Sept. 23.—Drastic liquidation in December and May corn and in deliveries of oats, today carried prices off sharply to new low figures on the crop, with the close on corn below the dollar mark, for the first time, and at the lowest since June, 1917, while September oats were the lowest since August that year and at a full carrying charge under the December.
