Man Shot By Woman Succumbs

Mrs. Tierney Asserts She Did Her Duty in Shooting Daughter's Husband—She Is Not Sorry.

Feud May Be Responsible

"I felt it was my duty. Is one usually sorry for doing his duty?" This was the reply of frail Mrs. Mike Tierney, mother of seven, from her cell in the county jail yesterday afternoon, when asked if she was sorry she had shot Roy Dunlap, 27, Fifty-third and Y streets, South Side.

"So I have already been told," she observed, quietly, when informed that young Dunlap had died from the wound inflicted by her 32-caliber revolver yesterday noon.

Dunlap was shot twice in the head by Mrs. Tierney as she stood on the doorstep of her little home at Fifty-third and W streets.

He had eloped with Mrs. Tierney's 16-year-old daughter, Ethel, Mrs. Tierney told South Side police.

Neighbors said the shooting was the outcome of a long-standing feud between the Tierney and the Dunlap family. Other members of the two families had not spoken for years, neighbors said.

Died Without Statement. Young Dunlap died without making a statement in the South Side hospital at 3 p. m. yesterday. County jail officers say a marriage license was found in his pocket.

Behind the bars of her cell Mrs. Tierney, who is about 45 years old, calmly discussed the affairs of her little family, her hopes for their future and the difficulties which beset her in her care for them.

But she refused to discuss the cause which led her to fire the fatal shots.

"Ethel was young in experience for her age," said Mrs. Tierney. "I accompanied her almost everywhere she went. Last Saturday was the first time she had been with Roy Dunlap, as far as I know. It was on that day she disappeared.

"I know it was his influence that led her to leave. She was a good girl. If she hadn't been so young, if she had been old enough to know I-I wouldn't have cared so much."

Would Not Discuss Shooting. For the first time the little woman's voice trembled with emotion. Her frail figure shook with suppressed sobs for a moment and then she was calm.

"I don't care to discuss why I shot him, except to say I felt it was my duty. My husband is living, but when he is I don't know. I had my family to look after. I think I was justified. I-I hate to think of them there at home without me. B-but it had to be, I suppose.

"Did Dunlap strike you? Did he admit mistreating your daughter? Did he come to you for forgiveness?"

These and similar questions Mrs. Tierney refused to answer.

Royal Pantaloons Cause of Delay in Picture of King Ak

All hail King Ak! He was to have his picture taken Thursday morning. But he didn't. He was to have his picture taken Thursday afternoon. But he didn't. Photographers and newspapermen, who had to have his regal likeness for the public in this morning's paper after the coronation ball worked themselves into a frenzy.

Triangle Blamed For Suicide of Movie Star's Pal

Infatuation of Man for Another Woman Thought to Have Caused Anna Daly To End Life.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Same old triangle had something to do with the suicide of Anna Daly, model and actress, lifelong friend of Olive Thomas, who was found dead in a New York hotel last Sunday.

This was revealed yesterday by Betty Martin of the chorus and the screen when she arrived in Chicago yesterday to bring some letters to Irving Aaronson, piano player. They were letters he had written to Miss Daly.

Betty Martin also had something to say to Aaronson. She said it. In her chum's last letter was written:

"Irving treated me rotten today and my heart is broken. He's been rotten to me ever since he's been mixed up with Hilderbrand. I really think he hates me."

Hilderbrand is another girl of the stage. Miss Martin said Miss Daly had killed herself and that it seemed to point the way to the final tragedy in her life.

Aaronson sat in his pajamas at the Randolph hotel today and denied that his love caused the little "Follies" girl to kill herself.

"I met her three years ago at Atlantic City," he said. "I was playing there and she was on her vacation. We became very good friends. She was a model then. She wrote letters when we were not in the same city. Lately I noticed that they had become dependent. Her mother had been ill. I think that is why she was sad.

"Then when Olive Thomas killed herself she became more despondent. Olive was an old friend of hers. Last Thursday we were walking on Broadway. She was blue. Suddenly she said she wouldn't walk with me. I made her come along anyway. I tried to cheer her up. She mentioned Olive then."

"She loved Aaronson," said Betty Martin. "I had to watch her day and night because she was despondent and I feared she would kill herself."

Cuban Sugar Planter Gains $9,000,000 in Baccarat Winnings

London, Sept. 24.—The heaviest baccarat winnings of the century, totalling nearly $9,000,000 have been gained by Hannibal De Mesa, a Cuban sugar planter. His gains have earned for him in Europe the reputation of being the world's greatest gambler.

His extraordinary run of luck started at Deauville early in August. His gains there were $700,000. At Aix-les-Bains, where he gambled with increased stakes and daring out of his Deauville winnings, he increased his winnings by $2,000,000. At Biarritz he added $6,000,000 by a phenomenal streak of luck.

Cohan Lost $30,000 On White

Theatrical Man Was Not in on Deal Whereby Cincinnati Won World's Title, Evidence Shows.

4 White Sox Accused

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Investigation of a report that George M. Cohan, New York theatrical producer, and Mont Tennes of Chicago had lost large sums bet on last year's world series was understood today to be under consideration by the Cook county grand jury, which next Tuesday will resume hearing testimony on charges that the series was "fixed" for Cincinnati to win.

The inquiry into the "fixing" charges will be pushed to the limit, according to a statement made by Henry H. Brigham, foreman of the grand jury, who declared that he was "shocked at the rottenness so far revealed." He added that "Chicago, New York, Cincinnati and St. Louis gamblers are bleeding base ball and corrupting players."

Hoynes Says Series Crooked. State's Attorney Hoynes, according to a statement received from him in New York, declared "he had no doubt that the 1919 series was crooked and that at least one Chicago player was crooked." He added that a report that Cohan and Tennes had information regarding alleged base ball crookedness would be thoroughly investigated by his office.

Jacob C. "Rube" Benton, New York Giants pitcher, who told the grand jury yesterday of being offered a bribe to lose a game, naming "Buck" Herzog, Hal Chase and "Heinie" Zimmerman in connection with the alleged offer in a statement published today, named four White Sox players as having been named to him by an alleged member of a base ball gambling ring in discussion of alleged "fixing" of the 1919 series.

These players, Benton declared, were Eddie Cicotte, pitcher of the first game; Claude Williams, pitcher in the second; Chick Gandil, first baseman, and "Cap" Felsch, center fielder. According to Benton's statement the players were mentioned by a Cincinnati "betting commissioner" named Hahn. Benton said that five White Sox players demanded $100,000 for "throwing" the series, and that this was paid to them by a group of Pittsburgh gamblers.

Benton in on Game. Benton, in his story of the alleged "fixing" of the world series last fall, said:

"Last fall, after the series, a man named Hahn, who hails from Cincinnati, visited me at my home in Clinton, N. C. I asked him about the world's series. He said the series was not on the square.

"He said that the deal to fix players to throw the series to Cincinnati had been engineered by a syndicate of gamblers from Pittsburgh for whom he worked in Cincinnati as betting commissioner.

"He said certain players on the White Sox team had visited Pittsburgh before the series was played and made arrangements to throw the games for a price. He said that the players demanded $100,000 to 'lay out' the Sox would lose, and this was paid them."

Discussed Five Players. "We discussed various players on the team. Buck Weaver's name was not mentioned, nor were the names of Jackson, Eddie Collins, John Collins or Ray Schalk. Five players were mentioned by Hahn in the course of the conversation. Four were Eddie Cicotte, pitcher of the first game of the series; Claude Williams, who pitched the second game; Chick Gandil, first baseman, and Hal Felsch, center fielder. Comiskey held up their checks calling for the players' share of the world series money for some time since. I do not recall the name of the fifth man."

"They tell me around New York that Hal Chase won $400,000 on the series. He must have won a lot because he had plenty of money after the series ended."

Benton said he made a few small bets, but that his winnings were only $10 to $20 a day.

Blouse Valued at $3,500 On Exhibition in Omaha

A blouse made of three yards of rare "rose point" lace which is said to have once served as the wedding veil of a princess, is on exhibition on the second floor of the Brandeis stores. It is valued at $3,500. The lace was woven hundreds of years ago by a Belgian lacemaker.

New Royal Rulers of Land of Quivera

The 26th queen of Ak-Sar-Ben, Miss Gladys Peters, is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Peters. She is a true daughter of Omaha, having been born and reared in this city. Her only sister is Miss Daphne Peters and her brothers are Ralph, Clarence and Douglas Peters.

U. S. Stops Booze at Spigot, But Not at Bunghole, Is Charge

Washington, Sept. 24.—The United States is trying to stop the sale of liquor at the spigot but is letting it flow with perfect freedom at the bunghole, according to Dr. A. B. Adams, aid to Prohibition Commissioner Kramer. Up to September 1, the doctor said, no fewer than 70,714 permits authorizing the holder to sell or prescribe liquor in one form or another, had been granted by the government. This is one permit for every 1,570 persons in "dry America."

Rural Pastor Will Be Honored Guest at Week of Celebrating

Fremont, Neb., Sept. 24.—(Special)—The Rev. F. A. Smith, completing the 10th year of his service as pastor in the Purple Crane community, northwest of North Bend, and his congregation, consisting of the farmers in the region, is planning a week of celebration. Few pastors in Nebraska have made their churches the center for so much neighborhood recreation and community improvement as the Rev. Mr. Smith.

New Heads Of Quivera Crowned

Gladys Peters and Charles L. Saunders Are Enthroned as Queen and King.

Scene Is One of Splendor

Miss Gladys Peters and Charles L. Saunders were crowned queen and king of Quivera in the Ak-Sar-Ben castle, otherwise known as the Den, last night before some 8,000 loyal subjects, and thereby the sun pence in which the whole carnival kingdom has been held was pleasingly ended.

A buzz and hum of comment ran through the packed Den when, after a fanfare of trumpets, the thrilling announcement was made: "His Majesty the King for his Crowning!"

Shakes With Applause. Then the big throne room shook with applause as the appointed rlfcer came forth and was recognized.

Another fanfare stilled the crowd and breathless expectancy followed the cry: "Her Majesty, the Queen!"

And the valued ceiling rang with the cheering as the charming young consort entered with her attendants.

The Den was packed to capacity. Never before were there such great numbers of automobiles gathered for the great event. Cars were parked for blocks around.

Lights Twinkle. Lights twinkled merrily in the arched blue dome resembling the milky way and lambs in soft shades of red, yellow and green added a richness of color to the Den at the coronation ceremonies.

The cool fragrance of flowers hung in the air and music gentle and low drifted near and far away as though a fairy orchestra were playing.

The program opened with a blare of trumpets. The knights of the court entered to pass in review before the Royal Grand Mutt, Roy C. Page, attended by Ben F. Thomas, Grand Burgois and George Long, Grand Proletarian.

Then spoke the Grand Mutt: "My lords and ladies of the court of Quivera, his gracious majesty, Ak-Sar-Ben XXV, hath departed from us full of years of glory and honor."

The hall was darkened and colored lights were turned on many of the recesses. The speaker continued: "Prepare for Coronation. The mighty Samson bids us as the old king goeth forth to reflect on the glory of his reign and to give most hearty thanks, for behold the mighty kingdom of Quivera grows with fatness and riches. The labor of all men is plentifully rewarded. The venerable knights of Ak-Sar-Ben have waxed strong and powerful. Exquisite good fellowship, hearty cheer, and cordial agreement abound on every side. And at the happy beginning of the coming reign we look forward to even greater things. Now prepare ye for the ceremonies of our coronation. Samson biddeth ye to mark well, that as these ceremonies begin, there shall be upon you throne the rays of red, yellow and green, the color of dawn, of fire, and of heaven; then shall fare him Prince Ak-Sar-Ben with his men of arms in gallant array, and I bid you give them royal welcome. When thereafter they shall show upon the throne the shimmering rays of green, the color of nature's wisdom and reflection, let the august governors and court officers draw near for the crowning, but when those rays do fade, and ye shall see all-prevading a cloud of yellow golden rays, the color of gold, of plenty, and of ripening grain, then in innocence and beauty and in guileless shall our que come hither, with her graceful retinue."

The King Enters. A fanfare of trumpets in the center of the ballroom, the announcement: "His Majesty the King for his Crowning," crimson lights flashed; martial music was heard, and then entered the king and his attendants. The board of governors made their entry preceding his highness were: Charles E. Black, George Brandeis, Randall K. Brown, Everett Buckingham, J. E. Davidson, J. W. Gamble, Arthur P. Guiou, W. D. Hosford, Louis C. Nash, W. R. Wood and Charles R. Gardner. They were in full evening dress.

Following the coronation of Mr. Saunders, he accended to the throne while the lights changed to an amber hue and soft music filled the air. He wore an English costume of satin.

The king's pages were George Fraser and Jack Beaton. They wore suits of white satin and caps to match. Again the fanfare of trumpets and this time the cry was "His Majesty the Queen."
