

Herbert Hoover And Taft Enter Into Campaign

Two Leading Republican Advocates of League to Take Active Part in Electing G. O. P. Ticket.

Marion, Oct. 1.—Taking note of democratic charges that progressivism and the league of nations have created friction among republican leaders. Senator Harding said last night that he was satisfied of the support of a united party on both issues.

He characterized as "absolutely untrue," published reports that Senators Johnson and Borah of the treaty irreconcilables, had informed him they soon would withdraw from the campaign and at the same time he announced that former President Taft and Herbert Hoover, two leading republican advocates of ratification, soon would be taking an active part in the fight for election of the republican ticket.

Comments on Cox's Appeal.

Commenting on the appeals of Governor Cox for progressive support, the republican nominee declared he had information convincing him that "the rank and file of the supporters of Roosevelt are putting their full faith in our cause." He made public with his endorsement, a telegram to the governor from Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts, a former leader of the progressive party, declaring that known progressive sentiment was "a complete refutation" of democratic claims. Discussing informally the league issues, Senator Harding said he never had given privately in letter, or otherwise to any republican leader, any statement of his position on the league which had not been contained also in his public utterances. His stand, he said, was known in every detail to the public and was commanding the united support of republicanism.

Denies Receiving Letter.

Asked specifically about the report of a joint letter from Senators Johnson and Borah refusing to take further part in his campaign, the nominee replied: "There is no such letter. The story is absolutely untrue."

"Have you had any recent communication with Mr. Taft on that subject?" he was asked.

"I have had no direct communication with Mr. Taft, but I have heard from those close to him and I understand he will be in the campaign working heartily for the election of a republican president by the middle of October. So will Herbert Hoover."

The message to Governor Cox from Mr. Bird said he was a democrat before he went to the republican party.

"In your acrobatic campaign to attract voters, you endeavor to convey the impression that the progressive writers of the late Theodore Roosevelt have been ignored and outlaid by Senator Harding who, as you express it, seeks advice from only a 'certain type of men' namely standpatters and reactionaries. The opposition to you of such progressives as Johnson, Poinsette, Leveridge, James R. Garfield, McCormick, Baldwin, Robins and, in fact, by practically all of the progressive leaders who stood back of Colonel Roosevelt in 1912 and 1916 is a complete refutation of this oft-repeated, misleading and tricky statement of yours."

Expresses Indignation.

"I resent with intense indignation your desperate effort to capitalize his honored name for the purpose of promoting your political aspirations and for the purpose of perpetuating the power of the democratic party, which he, above all, distrusted and eschewed."

Commenting on the telegram, Senator Harding said:

"I only wish to say that the facts as to the position of the progressives of this country as he states them, are borne out by the information which is sent to me voluntarily, that the rank and file of the supporters of Roosevelt are putting their full faith in our cause."

Tomorrow Senator Harding will speak from the front porch to a gathering of women, and officials at his headquarters today said his address would be one of the most important of the campaign. It will deal with social justice, outlining the senator's program for humane reform and for organized social betterment.

A headquarters announcement said that 5,000 women were expected to attend. Women of all political faiths have been invited.

Liquor Valued at More Than $100,000 Is Seized

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 1.—Harry S. Sauer, federal prohibition supervisor, announced that seizure of more than $100,000 worth of liquor from a warehouse here last night was the forerunner of similar raids on warehouses suspected of releasing for illegal sale liquor stored for medicinal or sacramental purposes.

Nine hundred and sixty-two cases and 118 barrels of liquor were confiscated on information given by nine Italians arrested in Philadelphia last Monday, after a alleged to have been intended for sale for beverage purposes, was seized. The total value of the liquor seized here and in Philadelphia is $162,150, federal agents said.

Goethals Is Main Speaker

At Port Officers' Meeting Chicago, Oct. 1.—An address by Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal, was the chief event today on the program of the ninth annual convention of the American Association of Port Authorities. Particular stress has been placed by the delegates on waterways from the Great Lakes to the gulf and through the St. Lawrence and speakers yesterday predicted that Great Lakes harbors would soon become "great world ports."

The estimated cost of developing the Great Lakes route was placed at a maximum of $120,000,000. This sum would be expended principally for cutting connecting canals and erecting locks.

Yanks Did Not Fight for League But for U. S., Says Rickenbacker

American Ace Believes American Boys Were Not Expected to Give Lives for Countries Other Than Theirs.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(Special Telegram)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, the American ace of aces in aviation, stopped a few hours in Chicago yesterday on his way to San Francisco and he had something to say about the present campaign. Capt. Rickenbacker is a former Omahian.

Capt. Rickenbacker said he had had it in mind for some time to state his position on the league of nations. As a soldier who had been in the service so long as to be practically a regular and whose experience had been the common property of the public in the United States, it was difficult for him to make this decision. He did not wish to go into partisan politics except where partisan politics affected the welfare of his country as he had seen it in the war and since. He had to come to the conclusion recently, however, that it was his duty to speak in behalf of the men with whom he had been associated in the American expeditionary forces, especially those of all branches of the service with whom he had taken a fighting part in the line. He said:

Soldiers Not for League.

"I feel it is my duty to speak for the boys who gave their all for their country and who, unfortunately, are not in a position to tell their friends and comrades at home that they were willing to fight and die for America and not for countries which were not theirs and of which they knew nothing."

"The men who fought in Europe are not for Mr. Wilson's league of nations or for Mr. Cox's, either. I know this because I have talked with hundreds of them. They do not make a fine argument on the subject, but they feel deeply."

The way they look at it is this:

"They went over to Europe and fought for their country—that is the United States. I do not believe that any one of them ever thought once that he was fighting to set up a league of nations or to help establish a United States of the world. I know that Mr. Wilson and Mr. Cox say they did, but I do not think that these gentlemen realize what the fighting men fought for, or the spirit in which they fought. They both are mistaken, that is all."

"I do not know a single man in the A. E. F. who thinks he ought to take on the Cox-Wilson league, especially the obligations in article

New Agitation Is Expected On Shipping Pact

Fear of England That Abrogation Would Benefit Japan Reason for Stand Taken by Wilson.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, Oct. 1.—Gen. Ferrer, the part of Great Britain and Scandinavian countries that abrogation of commercial treaties would work to the advantage of Japan, were reported to have been one of the factors entering into the decision of President Wilson refusing to carry out instructions contained in the merchant marine act.

The reason for such fears, it was reported, was that while provision is made in some of the treaties for a six months' notice of abrogation, the treaty with the Japanese cannot be terminated except on a notice of two years. It is stated that the nations other than Japan thought that that country would retain advantages during the two-year period not enjoyed by the others.

Way Around Difficulty.

Those favoring the carrying out of the terms of the merchant marine act, however, say that it would have been possible for the president to notify all countries of the intention to consider the treaties terminated at the end of a two-year period regardless of the fact that some of the treaties could have been terminated at an earlier date. Such a procedure, it is said, would have given no grounds for charges of discrimination, as between countries.

Agitation over the question is certain to be renewed at the coming session of congress with a possible message from President Wilson to give impetus to it. The general belief is that congress will fail to either repeal this section or make any changes in it.

Ship Owners Divided.

Officials of the shipping board were not especially interested in the matter at the time of the original passage of the act, and ship operators also are divided on the question of the desirability of the proposition, some of them opposing it. The elements which were chiefly in obtaining the inclusion of this section of the bill were shipbuilders and extreme republican protectionists. These elements probably will be strong enough to prevent the repeal of the section, but will be powerless to bring about any action to force the president to carry out the terms of the act.

In the event of the election of Senator Harding as president, an effort undoubtedly will be made to have him give notice of the termination of the treaties.

Anti-Suffragists Planning to Maintain Permanent Bodies

New York, Oct. 1.—The board of directors of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage announced that "with or without the ballot" the National association and 28 state associations are preparing to maintain themselves as "permanent, independent" bodies. The closing of New York headquarters and re-establishment of headquarters in Washington also was announced.

A bulletin sent to members was made public. It stated that the constitutionality of the 19th amendment is now in the courts for decision, and that further suits are in preparation. It declared that "the power to amend the constitution has not been exercised by the requisite three-fourths of the state legislature (especially Tennessee, West Virginia and Missouri) in a valid and legal manner."

Endowment Fund Grows.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 1.—Announcement was made today that the $3,000,000 endowment fund started last year at Wesleyan university for new college buildings, has a total of $2,265,000.

Artists' Model Sues Millionaire

New York Woman Asks $500,000 on Two Counts From Robert Barbour.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Oct. 1.—Robert Barbour, head of a number of manufacturing concerns in Paterson, N. J., and other places, who inherited largely from his father's $15,000,000 estate, is defendant in two suits instituted in the supreme court in Brooklyn by Miss May B. Rollins, an artists' model.

Miss Rollins asks total damages of $500,000. One suit alleges breach of promise to marry and the other is for the recovery of a like sum for a strange attack alleged to have been made upon her by the millionaire on July 12 last.

According to her attorney, Arthur C. Mandel Barbour asked the girl to call upon him in his apartment on the day mentioned. "A few minutes after she had entered the room, Miss Rollins alleges, Barbour placed adhesive tape over her eyes and then beat her with several straps. He kept this up until she fainted, and when she regained consciousness he was gone," Mandel said.

Miss Rollins went to a sanitarium and when she was sufficiently strong to walk, went to Barbour's apartment in an effort to talk to him regarding his alleged promise to marry. Several visits were futile. She finally met him, and when she asked him if he intended to keep his promise, Miss Rollins declared, Barbour said:

"Now that you know what I am, I am through with you."

She started action immediately. Barbour is 36 years old, unmarried and 6 feet 3 inches tall. He weighs about 325 pounds. Miss Rollins declares that as a result of the attack her injuries may be permanent.

Efforts to reach Barbour at his apartments were fruitless.

Two Women Deportees Leap From Steamship

New York, Oct. 1.—Two women being deported to Italy jumped overboard as the steamship Parre was leaving Brooklyn last night, it was learned today.

Mrs. Mary Niles, in charge of a nurse, eluded her caretaker and after a scuffle with several sailors, dived into the water. Fifteen minutes later another woman, who refused to give her name, plunged overboard. She swam back to the pier safely.
