

Alarm Clock Andy, Veteran Waiter, Quits With $25,000

Table Hop In One Restaurant for 22 Years Leaves to Enjoy Life In California.

"Alarm Clock Andy" has brushed the crumbs off the table for the last time. No more will his humble and tip-provoking "Is there anything else, sir?" be heard by the patrons of the Calumet cafe.

There are those among his fellow waiters that say Andy has saved up enough money to retire. At all events, Thursday night ended his 22 years of service at the Calumet. He has doffed this head waiter's jacket and is preparing to join his family in southern California. His six-room home at Eighth and Forest streets has been sold and he is ready to flee to the land of perpetual summer.

To all these rumors of wealth Andy presented a meek and unassuming front. It would not be fitting for a man who painstakingly polishes the plate and brings forth food for the hungry to appear to have more of the world's goods than those he serves.

May Have $25,000

Yet one of the waiters at the restaurant where Andy has worked for almost a quarter of a century estimates his fortune at $25,000. Another says $10,000 would cover it.

"Just because I don't gamble and drink and hang around town, all the fellows think I have a pile of money," Andy counters.

"We never see him spend a nickel," say the friends he leaves behind him. "If Andy isn't rich enough to retire, all this thrift stuff is bunk."

"Perhaps I could live a few months without working," says Andy, "but railroad fare is awful high now. Remember my wife and two daughters had to go to San Diego a year ago for the health of one of the girls, and I have had to support them. When I get out there on the coast I am going to look for a job just like anyone else."

Not Much of a Mixer

Andy will be missed by those nocturnal diners who patronize the Calumet. His consideration for their wants has endeared him to a long list of customers. But he is even disposed to minimize this.

"I'm a poor hand to get acquainted," says Andy. "I just tend to my own business, you know. I have a few good friends, and I'm going to spend a week or so just going around and telling them goodbye."

These old patrons probably will learn here for the first time that Andy has a full name, Andrew B. Anderson. Three different proprietors have come and gone in the Calumet, and Andy has saved for them as he has saved for himself. Yet for all his gentleness of spirit, he stood his ground years ago when the waiters struck and negro waiters were brought in. Andy rented a fruit farm near Florence and waited until the clouds cleared up.

Tip Small Now

Considerable of the joy of being a waiter disappeared with the coming of prohibition. If Andy has accumulated any savings, it must have been done in the wet days, when liquor made men generous. That is the way his companions explain it. They say that now men who used to give dollar tips part unwillingly with even a dime.

It is customary for all employees to explain, at one time or another, how to achieve success. Upon being pressed to observe the custom, Andy suddenly melted and began something in the style of a kitchen recipe, saying:

"First, you get the money. Then you hang on to it. I suppose if a fellow wouldn't buy more than just what he barely needed, he could save after a while. I never got in on any investment that went up real fast."

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While You Wait at Counter If Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people a ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in one hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful; for all our friends invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough relieves, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.

New York Officials Attempt to Settle Landlord-Tenant Rows

New York, Oct. 1.—Municipal officials directed efforts to bring order out of the confusion which resulted from the efforts of thousands of families to retain their homes against eviction orders effective tomorrow—moving day—pr to find means of moving to new quarters.

Hundreds of tenants swarmed to the offices of the mayor's committee on rent profiteering with appeals for aid in retaining their homes or preventing rent increases. Arthur J. Milly, chairman of the committee, urged these tenants to co-operate and consider the merits of their own cases, to prevent New York courts from becoming hopelessly clogged with tenant-landlord cases.
